NEW SIGNALS OF MINERS ROUSE HOPES

Rescue Squad Worker, Coming Off Shift, Reports Second Series of Blasts From Argonaut Shaft

Race to Reach Pit Expected to End Tomorrow Night; Only Brief Distance in Tunnel Through Rock

JACKSON, Cal., Sept. 5.—(By Associated Press.)—Miners entombed in the Argonaut gold mine since a week ago last Sunday night signaled twice last night to the rescue crews who are tunneling from the Kennedy mine toward the Argonaut shaft, Robert Lightner, one of the miners working with the rescue crews, said today.

Lightner worked last night on the 3600-foot level of the Kennedy. He said a series of blasts were heard coming from the 3900-foot level, where another rescue crew worked. Three-quarters of an hour later, Lightner said, two distinct blasts were heard coming from the Argonaut.

A conference between the men employed on the 3600-foot level and those on the 3900-foot level resulted in a confirmation of the reports. The men on the 3900-foot level also heard the answering blasts from the Argonaut.

Officials of the Argonaut and Kennedy mines still refrain from commenting on the reports. Superintendent V. S. Garbarini of the Argonaut admitted that it would be possible for the rescuers in the Kennedy to hear the blasts set off in the Argonaut.

While mine officials have set Thursday as the earliest possible day of delivery of the 46 entombed men, there are hopes in Jackson through into the Argonaut by tomorrow.

The official bulletin of the rescuers today stated the 3600-foot level has advanced fifty feet and on the 3900-foot level 18 feet of drift had been cleaned out. It is possible in this level to climb over fifty feet of muck, but this will have to be cleared away before the rescue crew can advance toward the Argonaut.

JACKSON, Sept. 5.—The first ray of hope coming to the stricken wives and relatives of the 46 fire-trapped miners in the famous Argonaut gold mine here today were rumors to the effect that the imprisoned miners had signaled by means of blasts. Mine officials and mining experts, however, declined to confirm the blasts as coming from the trapped men in the depths of the fire-swept Argonaut, and attributed the muffled sounds to the falling of rock.

The number of men entombed was officially stated as being 46. One miner who had been working in the Argonaut shortly before the fire was discovered was found working at the Kennedy yesterday.

The "old drift" through which rescuers were frantically working to reach the 75-foot wall of hard greenstone is cleared and they are now piercing this wall with huge air-propelled drills. "Good progress" is reported. When this stone wall is conquered comes 300 feet of old drift to battle against, which is said to be in good condition and no delay is expected in penetrating it.

SIGNALS BLASTED TO CHEER SURVIVORS.

On the 3600-foot level of the Kennedy, where rescuers are also laboring, signal blasts are being set off in the hope that they may be heard by the entombed men, the purpose being to encourage them, if they are alive, and renew hope for their release from their terrible predicament.

In the hope of drilling through to the 4600-foot level of the Argonaut, where the miners are believed to be imprisoned, rescue crews are also working from the 3900-foot level of the Kennedy. Two hundred and fifty feet of old tunnel and 141 feet of quartz remain to be overcome before the rescuers can reach the unfortunate miners.

ENGINEER HOLDS KEY TO RESCUE WORK.

JACKSON, Sept. 5.—There was a confused rustle between the shifts, and dawn today found a lone, oil-scarred engineer mounting to a mighty organ in the winch house of the Kentucky mine.

There was a moment of silence that followed as the unseen director raised his baton for attention, and then in a creaking bass

THEODORE BELL IS KILLED BY PLUNGE

Former Congressman and Noted Attorney Perishes in Auto Disaster.

Theodore A. Bell, of Berkeley and San Francisco, former Congressman, candidate for governor, Democratic leader of national fame, and active anti-prohibition worker, is dead today as the result of a forty-foot plunge in an automobile last night off the state highway near San Rafael.

William Mintzner, San Francisco stock broker, driver of the car in which Bell was riding, said the accident was caused by his being blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile as he was rounding a turn.

Bell, who was pinned beneath the car after it had rolled down a forty-foot embankment, was killed almost instantly. Mintzner suffered a fracture of the right arm.

DAUGHTER MAKES FAST TRIP IN VAIN.

Bell's daughter, Miss Maurine Bell, a graduate this year from the University of California, who was visiting in Napa with her fiance, William Davis, was hastily summoned by Frank R. Devlin, president of the State Railroad Commission, and life-long friend of Bell. By telephone arrangement with Chief of Police William T. Stanford of Vallejo, her car was given the right-of-way through the congestion of traffic at the Vallejo ferry. She reached her father too late, however, to see him alive.

Bell is the second person to be killed in an automobile driven by Mintzner. In June, 1915, Stewart Patterson, wealthy orchardist of Medford, Ore., was fatally injured in an accident near that city while he was riding with Mintzner. The automobile on that occasion plunged fifty feet down an embankment from the Pacific highway.

BELL IS FOUND BREATHING HIS LAST.

Bell was returning with Mintzner from the Lagunitas Rod and Gun club, where they had spent the day.

Senate Confirms George Sutherland

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. — By the Associated Press).—Former Senator George Sutherland of Utah was nominated today by President Harding to be associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and the senate within ten minutes after the name was received confirmed the nomination in open executive session and without the usual reference to a committee.

Retirement from the Supreme Court bench is under consideration by Associate Justice William R. Day, it was officially stated today at the White House, but Day is not expected to announce his decision until he has determined to what extent his duties as umpire of the German-American claims commission would interfere with his work as a member of the court.

U.S. ORDERS DESTROYERS TO SMYRNA

Navy Department Order Comes As Result of Menace of American Lives By Turks After Greeks' Defeat

Allies, Alarmed Over Situation, Seeking Armistice; Complete Debacle Looms, Says Report From London

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Brusa, the capital of the province of Khodavendikiar in Asia Minor, has been wrested from the Greek army by the Turks, the Turkish bureau here announced today. Brusa is a city of 110,000 population and lies about 100 miles from the sea of Marmora.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS, LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—At the request of the state department, Acting Secretary Roosevelt today ordered Admiral Bristol, American high commissioner at Constantinople to dispatch a force of destroyers to Smyrna "to protect lives and property."

In his cablegram to Admiral Bristol, Secretary Roosevelt emphasized that the action of the department had neither naval nor political significance.

SMYRNA, Sept. 5.—(By The Associated Press)—The American and allied consuls held a conference on board the Iron Duke, the British flagship here and formulated measures for protecting their various nationals and removing the refugees in the event of the fall of Smyrna to the Turkish Nationalists.

The British high commissioner told the Greek military chiefs that the Greek army must, by all means, hold its position for ten days so as to permit the despatch of allied troops.

Consul General Horton announced that he had telegraphed to Constantinople for American naval units.

Secretary Roosevelt said that the State Department's request was based on despatches from Smyrna describing the situation which had resulted there from the retreat of the Greek army and the continued Turkish offensive. Officials expected that Admiral Bristol would have available four destroyers to send to Symrna.

GREEK DEBACLE LOOMS, REPORT.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (By the Associated Press).—General opinion in well informed quarters in London today was that the disaster to the Greek army in Asia Minor was complete. There seemed little prospect that anything could now save it from a total debacle. The Turks are reported to have defeated the Greeks decisively, near Brusa.

The Greek government has appealed to the powers to obtain an armistice with the Turkish nationalists, who have virtually driven the Greeks from the battlefield and as a result of interchanges among the chancellories at London, Paris and Rome, instructions have been sent to the allied high commissioners of the three powers in Constantinople to discuss joint measures for bringing about a suspension of hostilities.

GREEK MERCHANT FLEET COMMANDEERED.

ATHENS, Sept. 5 (By the Associated Press Greco-Turk). — Reports from various sources say the military situation in Asia Minor, where the Greeks and Turkish nationalist armies are at grips, is considerably improved. The position nevertheless is obscure.

National opinion is inclined to blame the allies for Greece's misfortune. The newspapers contend that the Greek army landed at Smyrna in 1918 to carry out the allies' mandate and that Greece had made every sacrifice to that end and would have continued in the same course if the allies had not obstructed her task.

U.S.-German Meet on Money Orders Off

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS, LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

They were Mrs. Martha McCormick, 79; Mrs. Ida Hammeramith, 50; and the latter's husband, Joseph S. Hammersmith, a drug clerk, 55. Mrs. McCormick's son, Joseph McCormick, 43, who was driving the automobile, was seriously injured.

Ecclesiast Dead

BISHOP FALLOWS DIES AT CHICAGO

Head of Reformed Episcopal Church Was Approaching 87th Birthday.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—(By The Associated Press).—Bishop Samuel Fallows, presiding bishop of the Reformed Episcopal church, famous as preacher, soldier, author and lecturer, died at 4:30 o'clock this morning at the residence after an illness of slightly less than a month.

Bishop Fallows' death, a shock to the religious world especially, but a cause of sorrow throughout civilized humanity, was unexpected in spite of his advanced age. He was approaching his eighty-seventh birthday.

The bishop had pneumonia last winter and to that was attributed the beginning of his fatal illness. Last spring he went to California, where he was able to recuperate and was believed to have escaped further ravages of the disease.

RETURNED FROM CALIFORNIA RECENTLY

He did not return to Chicago until August 14, hopeful of regaining his old vigor and resuming his varried activities which had made him one of the most widely known national figures.

With the bishop during his illness was his daughter, Alice, and his son, Edward Fallows, of New York, came to Chicago to be with his father. The bishop's personal physician, Dr. W. S. White, and two nurses also were at the bedside.

Samuel Fallows was that curious complex, a soldier, a divine and an author. With equal spirit he could exhort his parishioners to duty or lead his regiment in battle; and equally he could summon an all-conquering passion for that most pedantic of tasks, the editing of a dictionary-encyclopedia.

PARENTS WERE ENGLISH EMIGRANTS

Sameul Fallows was born December 13, 1835 at Pendleton, near Manchester, England. His parents migrated to Wisconsin in 1848 to engage in farming.

His first schooling was at Astelan, Wis., and then at Lawrence "university" at Appleton. There he first began to preach.

In 1859, upon graduation at Wisconsin he was appointed vice-president of Galesville, Wis., "university." In 1860 he married Lucy Bethia Huntington of Marshall, Wis.

When the Civil War began he helped to organize the 32nd regimen and became its lieutenant-colonel.

Upon his return from the war, Colonel Fallows was appointued superintendent of public instruction for the state of Wisconsin. Following this he went as president to Illinois Wesleyan University at Bloomington. In 1875 Bishop Fallows become rector of St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church of Chicago and continued so for the succeeding years until the time of his death.

PROFESSOR'S LOVE THEFT CLAIM READY

Rival Arrested Faces Peace Court Hearing; "Country Girl, City Dandy" Story Basis of Illicit Romance

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS, LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 5.—Professor John T. Tiernan, instructor in the law department at the University of Notre Dame, was ready today to present proof of his charge that Harry Poulin, local clothing merchant, is the father of Mrs. Tiernan's infant son, born last November. Professor Tiernan obtained a warrant for the merchant's arrest Saturday and a hearing was arranged for today in a justice of the peace court. Whether Poulin will waive a hearing in this court apparently had not been determined early today.

Professor Tiernan and his wife, who lived together since the birth of the child, have now effected a separation agreement by which he obtains custody of their two daughters, five and three years old. They will be sent to Chicago to reside with relatives pending disposition of the case against Poulin. Mrs. Tiernan will remain here temporarily.

That the professor's charges are the aftermath of a blackmail plot, which failed, is the contention of Poulin, while the instructor declares that his fight "is for the integrity and morality of the home."

The disclosure of his wife's alleged romance, according to Professor Tiernan, resulted from a slight by Poulin to Mrs. Tiernan at church one Sunday after the birth of the baby, now nine months old.

CITY WAYS LURED WIFE, HE CHARGES.

"It was February of last year that my wife began to keep clandestine meetings with Poulin, she told me in her confession," Professor Tiernan declared. "From this point on it is the old story of the unsophisticated girl from the little town of Bronson, Michigan, who couldn't resist the lure of the charming young 'dandy' of the city.

"My wife would leave her home and the youngsters as often as three nights a week. She said she was going shopping or to the movies. I never had any suspicion until last January, but Mrs. Poulin learned of the affair in August of last year.

"Mrs. Poulin had gone to Chicago to visit a sick sister, taking the two children with her. In the one week of Mrs. Poulin's absence, my wife has told me, she visited the Poulin home three times. They made their great mistake by playing the phonograph.

"The neighbors knew that Mrs. Poulin was away and identified the woman in the house as my wife. Mrs. Poulin was duly informed on her return and when she confronted her husband with the story he admitted his misconduct. That same day Mrs. Poulin called my wife, told her what she knew and wrung from her a pledge of absolute silence.

REFUSAD TO SPEAK STIRS WIFE'S IRE.

"Every time my wife met Poulin on the steet after the birth of the child, he always greeted her cheerily. But one Sunday morning, last January 8, my wife encountered him in church, recognized him as usual, but his attitude had cahnged. He refused to speak to her.

"She came home weeping and I began to question her. After a prolonged grilling, she told me all. I went to see Poulin the next day. His wife answered the door and refused to tell me where he was. I did get to see him after that and frequently have tried to persuade him to assume the moral responsibility in the case.

"I didn't want to prosecute and as late as one month ago, I called on Poulin at his office. His employers can verify that I told him then that for the sake of both families I was going to drop the matter and suffer the shame in silence for the rest of my days. He said that was just what I should do.

"When I went home and told my wife, she became irate at once, called me a fool and said that no man would let another get away with what he had. She kept urging me to prosecute, and it is only at her request that I am acting. If I am able to stand the ordeal, I will cross-examine all witnesses and especially Poulin himself. For I know him like a book."

Two Jailed Here Under Daugherty Strike Injunction

Lynch Mob Attack Feared At Sacramento When Death Suspect Taken.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 5.—Fearing an attack on the city jail by a mob of men alleged to have plotted the lynching of H. B. Debolt, Southern Pacific shop employee, held in connection with the killing of William Mero, president of the shop crafts federation, the police have barred doors to the city jail and have denied admittance to all persons. Extra police guards have been employed and squads with riot guns are taking turns patrolling the jail. Rumors that an effort would be made to take Debolt from the city prison prompted an investigation by Chief of Police Bernard McShane, who directed a close guard soon after starting his inquiry.

Two men are in the Oakland city jail, facing a charge of violating the United States court strike injunction, as a result of administering a beating to a workman early today. They are Arthur Barrara, 145 Fourth steret, Richmond, and John Gazalles, 445 Fourth street, Richmond.

J. B. Neil, 2248 East Twenty-third street, an inspector of locomotives at the Southern Pacific roundhouse for more than twenty years, was found unconscious near his home today, following an attack said to have been made by the two men under arrest. He was severely beaten on the face and body, and was taken to the receiving hospital by George Orton, 1716 Twenty-third street.

NEEDLES LABOR CHIEF HELD UNDER INVESTIGATION.

NEEDLES, Sept. 5 (By the Associated Press).—John A. Stecklein, acting chairman of the local executive committee of the shop crafts federation, was arrested here yesterday on a charge of violating the Federal injunction recently granted the Santa Fe Railway at Los Angeles, forbidding interference of any kind by the striking shopmen.

Stecklein is one of 75 special police officers appointed by the city of Needles, and is acting as chairman of the shopmen's executive committee in the absence of M. J. Clements, chairman.

Stecklein's arrest followed a complaint made to Under-Sheriff T. O. Carter of San Bernardino county and Vincent J. Monteleone, deputy United States marshal, that he had prevented Thomas L. Conaway of Hermosa Beach from going to work for the Santa Fe. Stecklein denied Conaway's charge.

N. Y. LABOR OPENS DRIVE FOR GENERAL A.F.L. TIEUP; WIDER COURT BAN LOOMS

HARDING DEFENDS U. S. ACTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(By United Press).—Legal experts of the department of justice today were scrutinizing the Labor Day speeches and messages of labor leaders, to determine whether the Daugherty injunction had been violated. President Harding and Attorney-General Daugherty are displeased with the utterances of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and other leaders. Daugherty, it is understood, is ready to take steps against Gompers and leaders of some of the railroad organizations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press).—Any officer of the government who issues or causes to be issued "any illegal injunction, not in good faith and with the aim of depriving a person of his rights to labor," would be held to have committed malfeasance in office, under a bill introduced today by Representative Huddleston, Democrat, of Alabama.

BY UNITED PRESS, LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Movement for a general strike of the American Federation of Labor in protest against the Daugherty injunction was started here today.

Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, will be asked in a resolution to be presented at a special meeting of the trades and labor council tonight to call a convention in New York to consider a general walkout, it became known.

The resolution was drawn up at a secret meeting of labor leaders held here yesterday. The New York council is the largest in the United States, having a membership of 800,000 workers.

Pledges of various locals of unions here to aid the striking railroad shop workers total thousands of dollars. It was predicted that a $100,000 war chest will be raised this week.

It was understood that process servers were here seeking strike leaders to serve notices of the injunction on them. As far as could be ascertained, none of the leaders could be located.

By JOHN L. SPIVAK, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—A message urging the rank and file of the striking shopmen to stand firm and rely upon themselves and themselves alone in the fight now being waged, was sent out today by B. M. Jewell, leader of the striking shopmen, in the weekly strike bulletin.

By JAMES T. KOLBERT, United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Extension of the Daugherty injunction to bring within its scope all persons who give aid in any form to the 400,000 striking railroad shopmen, was discussed by President Harding and his cabinet today.

Broadening of the injunction was declared by one cabinet member necessary to silence leaders of non-striking unions, who have continued to send public and private messages of support and sympathy to the shopmen's leaders, ever since the injunction was issued.

Sharp differences of opinion prevail among cabinet members as to the extent to which the restrictive powers of the injunction should be increased. Two members were understood to look with disfavor on extension. All were agreed, including the President, that caution should be necessary to avoid undue interference with the rights of free speech and a free press.

PRESIDENT DENIES MEN'S RIGHTS PERILED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—While the Chicago injunction proceedings will be followed up with the determination of guaranteeing the country against interference with transportation, a high official of the administration declared today, constitutional liberties of law-abiding men will not be abridged.

President Harding is said to feel that the injunction sought will not in any way hamper or endanger constitutional rights of the men on strike or of other citizens.

By CHARLES R. LYNCH, United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Hope of testing the "Daugherty injunction" received a temporary setback today when federal authorities announced abandonment of the case against Joseph Kloborki, alleged injunction violator.

Kloborki did not intentionally violate the injunction, federal officials believe, and they wanted a stronger case to make a test. Kloborki, who was arrested while

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 5.—Lieutenant James H. Doolittle landed at Kelly field at 7:10 o'clock in his cross-continental flight from Neptune Beach, Fla., to Rockwell field, San Diego, Cal. He took off at Neptune Beach at 10:03 last night. His Flying time was 10 hours and 7 minutes. Doolittle is attempting to make the flight in 24 hours.

When he climbed from his plane he was greeted by the field band and his wife and mother. His mother arrived from California this morning.

Lieutenant Leland S. Andrews, with whom Lieutenant Doolittle flew from California here some time ago, took off with him in a separate plane and will follow in his rear as far as El Paso. This is being done in order that Lieutenant Doolittle can continue his flight to San Diego in case something happens to his plane or motor.

The flier expressed supreme confidence in making San Diego without a mishap. The sky from the Atlantic was cloudy all night and he was forced to fly by the compass course. He stated, however, that after reaching the Pecos river, he believed he would fly into clear atmosphere and remain in it all the way to the end.

On the flight from the Atlantic coast the motor in the big DeHavilland registered 1480 revolutions per minute and the motor burned 19½ gallons of gas an hour. There were 64 gallons of gasoline left in his tank.

THEODORE BELL IS KILLED WHEN CAR DROPS 40 FT.

Former Congressman, Prominent Attorney Meets Death in Mishap.

San Anselmo, who drove by a moment after the accident occurred, heard the moans of Mintzner and stopped his car to investigate. When Wheeler and his companions, after scrambling down the steep bank, reached the two injured men they found Bell breathing his last and Mintzner unconscious. Bell was dead before he could be carried to the Wheeler car.

Examination of Bell showed that he had expired from an internal hemorrhage.

The body of Bell was today removed from San Rafael to the family's country home at St. Helena, at the head of Napa Valley, where Bell began his political career nearly thirty years ago.

GRAVE WILL BE ON MT. ST. HELENA.

Although funeral arrangements have not yet been completed, it was announced today that Bell's grave will be on Mt. St. Helena, which overlooks the Napa valley vineyards in behalf of which Bell waged his famous anti-prohibition fight for several years past.

Bell was 50 years old on the 25th of last July. Since the age of 28, when he was elected district attorney of Napa county, he had been actively identified with state and national politics.

Bell served as congressman from his district, and was democratic candidate for governor of the state in 1906, 1910 and 1918. He served as temporary chairman of the Democratic National Convention in Denver in 1908.

He was one of the most active figures in California in the fight to restore wine as a legal drink.

LEAVES HIS PARTY, BECOMES REPUBLICAN.

Last year he left the Democratic party, with which he had been affiliated for nearly thirty years, and registered as a Republican, announcing that he disagreed with the foreign policy of his former party.

Bell was prominent in fraternal circles. He was a former national president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, a grand master of the Odd Fellows of California and was an official in the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Bell was born in Vallejo, July 25, 1872, and was the son of Chas. E. and Catherine J. Bell, who were members of a New England family. Later he removed to Napa, where he made his home until he began practicing law in San Francisco, when he established his residence in Berkeley.

All of the departments of the Superior Court at the City Hall and the Criminal Court at the Hall of Justice adjourned this noon in respect to the memory of Teodore Bell. In many of the court departments friends and former associates of Bell delivered impressive eulogies on Bell as a figure in the political world and an attorney and a man.

Girl, 16, Escapes Attacking Bear By Leap to Rock

(By Associated Press)

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 5.—How Irene Miller, 16-year-old Denver girl, was forced to take a dangerous leap to escape from a bear was told in reports reaching here today. Miss Miller was taking snap-shots of wild life on Mount Marcelline, near Somerset, Colo., when she was charged by a bear. She leaped 15 feet to a ledge of rock and evaded the animal, but found that she could not scale the wall nor make her way down because of the steep descent. When she failed to appear at the ranch where she was staying, a searching party was organized which rescued her several hours after the bear's charge. She was exhausted by cold and fear.

NEW SIGNAL SENT BY TRAPPED MEN TO RESCUE CREW

the huge drums which drop by cable skip after skip of rescue workers down a mile into the bowels of the Kennedy through which they hope to reach the 46 miners entrapped by fire a week ago in the adjoining Argonaut claim, opened in no uncertain tempo the overture to the final big scene.

The engineer, surrounded by a labyrinth of levers, fingers them lovingly and pulls the visor of an ancient cap down lower over keen Scottish blue eyes, as the gauge shows a handful of humans rushing at the rate of a mile in two minutes down four thousand feet into chaos.

The mighty organ whirrs a soul song as old as mankind as the steel cables slipping eel-like down the shaft pull at the very heartstrings of those who labor so frantically below.

EXPECT WORD SOON.

Soon—perhaps 48 hours—as the final chords sigh out the song of certainty there will be another hush. The word will come up the shaft that the rescue workers have broken through a half mile to their entombed comrades in the neighboring mine.

The overture will be cut short, wives and children, near collapse, will crowd the mouth of the shaft in a scene that will strain human nerves to a breaking point. A call will come for nurses and physicians. They will take their places in the skip. Again there will be a moment of silence and then far back stage will tinkle a little bell—twice.

The lone engineer will strain at his levers and down, down, the skip will go shooting as the vanguard of rescue workers prepares to cut its way through the final wall to the horror chamber, where the 46 have been imprisoned since a week ago Sunday.

SEEK HOPEFUL SIGN.

Today there is an individual prayer on each pair of lips of: "Oh, God, let it be soon." Every two hours as the shifts of rescue crews emerge begrimed and sweating to the surface they are met with questioning looks and their faces searched and drained for the last infinitesimal atom of hope.

So tense has become the strain here that practically everyone is attempting to visualize the dramatic scene as the rescuers break through. There will be a search, it may take hours, perhaps days, to locate those who in the first frantic effort to escape, lost themselves in secluded slopes and manways. Most of them, it is believed, will be found near the Muldoon shaft.

A first aid station will be established down in the mine and another at the surface. Every possible contingency has been provided for by mine experts and officials of the Industrial Accident Commission.

36 BIRTHS, 21 DEATHS

ALAMDEA, Sept. 5.—Thirty-six births and 21 deaths were registered by the city board of health for August, according to the figures made public today. Of the births there were 18 boys and 18 girls. Death claimed 14 women and seven men.

Liquor Rushed to Rescue Workers at Argonaut Mine

DASH TO CARRY WHISKY TO MINE AIDED IN RESCUE

Workers, No Longer Stopping or Caring to Eat, Needed More Stimulants.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Police Detective Robert Hunter returned this noon from a flying trip to Jackson, Amador county, where he was dispatched Sunday night with ten cases of bonded whisky for the rescue workers at the Argonaut mine.

The whisky was obtained from the government warehouses through the efforts of Attorney Theodore Roche, president of the Police Commission, who had received a personal appeal from Mrs Mary Warrington, head of the Red Cross in Amador county, who advised Roche that the rescue workers needed whisky to brace their nerves against the terrific strain under which they have been working for the past eight days.

Roche worked on the matter for four hours Sunday night before he was finally able through the courtesy of local federal judges to secure the release of the ten cases of whisky. When this was done Hunter was dispatched in an automobile owned by Cliff Durant and driven by Al Wardell. They arrived in Jackson 5 o'clock Monday morning.

"What is heartrending about the mine calamity is the way the people, particularly women and children, hasten to listen to the reports and rumors that ar eircrulated at the mouth of the mine shaft and at the offices of the Argonaut mine," said Hunter in telling of his observations during his several hours' stay at the mine.

The mob hangs on each word from the exhausted rescue workers and when the news is not good news, they walk slowly back to the office of the Argonaut. The crowd is too tired to be excited. This thing has been going on for eight days

Wife Fights Sleep to Greet Man

Husband Hero of Other Fire

Mother-to-Be Keeps Up Courage

BY UNITED PRESS.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

AT THE ARGONAUT MINE, JACKSON, Cal., Sept. 5.—"There will surely be some word from them tonight. I must be awake when it comes."

And then the next morning—

"I know the day cannot pass without news from them and we will stay up to hear it."

Every night and every morning Mrs. Catherine Miller has said it. She has not slept except for brief seconds when she was overcome in spite of herself when her husband and 45 other men were trapped by fire in the Argonaut mine shaft nine days ago. It is her husband on whom the town is depending to bring the buried out alive. It was he who saved 25 men from a mine fire in Butte, Mont., years ago. Mrs. Miller had never known of her husband's experience until this week. It was so horrible he had never told her of it. But men here knew about it.

Miller's other siege did not last so long as this has. And Mrs. Miller, grave and confident in the first days, is breaking under the cruel strain.

In another of the stricken homes—

A haggard wife, keeping up for the sake of her children. In the house, with her, a "comforter" who says again and again:

"It is the Lord's will and you must be resigned. Your husband is dead beyond a doubt, but you must just remember it is the Lord's will."

A baby will arrive in this home in two months. About five years ago this woman lost her first husband. He died suddenly when another baby was two months away.

Since the first morning when she awakened at 2 o'clock, the time her husband was due to come off shift—awakened and got up to wait for him on the porch, and then learned that he was not coming home—she has been bravely planning for the future of her little ones.

For Mrs Oberg the hardest was her wedding anniversary. Intolerable for her to sit and wonder, to realize that her husband, if alive, must be lost in a maze of endless black hours. That the week so long to her must have seemed to him a month or more.

Mrs. Etta Lee has less to build her structure on than any.

For she knows her husband was tubercular, and that with his weakened lungs could not live as long as any of the other men in the foul air.

Constable's Salary Involved in Dispute

Legal questions involving the pay of Constable Charles L. Porep will be passed upon by District Attorney Ezra Decoto, following a demand upon County Auditor E F. Garrison that he hold up Porep's warrants on the ground that the constable has engaged in the practice of law while holding the constabulary office. The demand upon the auditor was made by Attorney Howard K. James, of Alameda.

The auditor stated that he has talked with Porep and that the officer stated that while he has an office with a practicing attorney of Alameda, he himself does not engage in the practice of law and has not at any time done so during his tenure of office. He said inasmuch as the question has been raised, he will hold up the August wrarant for Porep, pending the legal opinion from the district attorney's office.

BERKELEY MAYOR OPPOSES FURTHER LEASE EXTENSION

Bartlett Threatens Referendum if Council Gives Jennings More Time.

BERKELEY, Sept. 5. — Mayor Louis Bartlett declared today that in the event the council members over his protest granted an extension on the lease of waterfront lands held by Rufus P. Jennings of Oakland, he would foster a referendum on the order. Jennings made application to the Berkeley council this morning for a year's extension in doing the necessary development work, which was a condition of the granting of the lease.

Under the terms of the lease $250,000 must be expended before November, when the lease expires unless the work is accomplished. With the expenditure of $2,000,000 in the coming five years for development work Jennings will obtain the lease of the south half of the Berkeley waterfront.

The expenditure of an additional $1,000,000 with the next ten years secures him the lease of the northern half of the waterfront. The mayor's position on the request would force Jennings to start work on the waterfront at once or forfeit the lease. Other members of the council favored granting a year's extension in accordance with the request. A conference will be held between Jennings and the councilmen. The matter will come before the council on Friday.

Jennings based his application for extension of time on present industrial conditions which he declared were not bettered over the past year when he was given easement. Mayor Bartlett expressed himself as willing to give an extension of time on half of the Jennings lease, and eliminating the expenditure of the third million dollars, thus saving to the city of Berkeley the northern half of the waterfront.

That the time was not ripe for extensive improvement projects was the opinion offered by Councilman Carl Bartlett, who expressed himself as willing to grant an extension of time to Jennings. Councilman Charles D. Heywood suggested the conference, which will be held before the matter is brought up as a regular order of business on Friday.

The crash occurred at Dwight way and San Pablo avenue, Silliman's machine being thrown to one side of the street and pushed over the curb. Silliman's car was badly wrecked although he escaped without serious injury.

TAX RATE MAY BE LOWERED, HINT OF SUPERVISORS

Board Devotes Much of Day to Discussion of Oakland Levy.

The major portion of today's meeting of the Board of Supervisors was given over to consideration of the county tax rate. The board disposed of routine business with considerable dispatch and then adjourned into a meeting of a committee of the whole to consider the budget and tax rate matters exclusively. Previous estimates by members of the board give rise to the belief that the rate will not be increased over that of last year, which was $2.66 and that it might possibly be lowered a few cents. The board members expected to spend most of today in consideration of the rate.

At the morning session the board voted $2500 toward a fund being raised for advertising Oakland. The donation was made on the proviso that the city of Oakland give a like amount. Walter Leimert, of the realty board and J. C. Downey of the Merchants' Exchange appeared before the board favoring the appropriation. The vote showed Supervisors C. W. Heyer and R. C. Staats against the measure.

Campus Kissing Too Prevalent, Charges Editor

BERKELEY, Sept. 5.—There's too much kissing on the campus of the University of California.

"There is a time and a place for all things" is the way Coons as censor of campus morals voices his indignation in declaring that men and women students are "forgetting" themselves in public places.

Coons said editorially this morning:

"Since time immemorial the kiss has been a recognized method of greeting between relatives or very dear friends. There is every reason to believe that it is still in vogue as a standard salutation where some degree of affection exists. It is, therefore not at all improbable that in the future, ad infinitum, the custom will continue.

"A day will no doubt come, however, when the custom will not only accompany the moon, but will become as commonplace as the handshake or a slap on the shoulder. This is, at any rate, the inference drawn by eight of the ten inhabitants in the main reading room of the Library Saturday night, who witnessed an osculatory exhibition by the other two.

"It may have been a sacred rite. One may have been dubbing the other "Knight of the Library Table." We hesitate to decide such an all important matter on the spur of the moment, but would suggest that, as far as we know, "there is a time and place for all things."

ROOSEVELT HIGH BIDS DUE MONDAY

Bids will be opened September 11 for the construction of the Theodore Roosevelt Junior High school, one of the big educational structures of East Oakland, according to the board of education, which has set aside $727,000 for construction and about $73,000 for equipment.

This, according to department heads, is the largest sum expended for a single building in the present school program, and the new school will rival the Technical High school in North Oakland.

The edifice will accommodate 1500 pupils. It will have the regular classrooms, plus auditorium, shops, cafeteria, home economics, drawing, sceince, music and library.

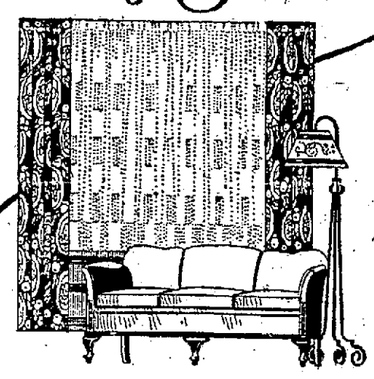

The science department will have an experimental garden on the roof of the building, where agriculture and horticulture can be taught in an experimental way. The art department will also be on the roof of the building, with plenty of sunlight.

The school will be of the Spanish colonial type. It has meet the approval of the joint committee on schools, the superintendent's council and the board of education. Various phases of the design have been discussed for nearly two years.

Regular general assembly hour will be resumed next week. Two addresses are scheduled by Dr. Cardinal Goodwin, professor of American history who has returned from an eight month's tour of Europe. The following week Professor Earle Garfield Linsley of the Department of Astronomy and Geography will give two addresses.

Merchant Robbed of $100 at His Own Door

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Two armed bandits early this morning held up Guy A. Stauffer, proprietor of the Swan Drug company, 900 Divisadero street, as he was putting his automobile into his garage at his home, 1476 Seventh avenue, and robbed him of $100 and a number of checks representing the day's receipts of his drug store.

Warning their victim to make no outcry, the bandits disappeared in the darkness. Immediately Stauffer notified the police of the robbery. The police are of the opinion that the bandits were familiar with Stauffer's custom of bringing his store receipts home and probably followed him from the store.

Only ten miles of road between Salt Lake City and the Utah-Nevada state line, remains unprovided for in new construction. If it were to be finished the Lincoln highway across the United States from New York to Oakland would be completed by July 1, 1924.

This is the word brought here by Austin F. Bement, vice-president and secretary of the Lincoln Highway Association, who piloted a big Six Studebaker across the country from Detroit.

In order to view other roads and thereby enable him to discuss their conditions more intelligently, Bement drove from Salt Lake City to Wendover over the Victory highway, or what there remains of that road, between these two points. This part of the route crosses the Great American Salt Desert marshes parallel to the Western Pacific Railroad right-of-way.

A road was built and presumably was finished last fall but it is now mostly washed out. Bement found it necessary to use the railroad right-of-way for several miles across the marsh, with one wheel of the automobile in the railroad track. A train came along before the driver reached the point where the road leaves the railroad grade, and Bement had to drop into the saturated salt ooze and stick there until he and his companion had worked the car out with jacks and railroad ties.

The Lincoln highway expert had heard of a road known as White Horse Pass that was supposed to join Wendover and the Lincoln highways near Ely. He traveled over this and found that it was merely a series of sheep trails, unmarked and impassable most of the time. It took three days to travel this mythical path.

The Lincoln Highway Association has offered the state of Utah $15,000 additional money to complete the connecting link between Salt Lake City and the Nevada-Utah state line, but that state has refused to accept it.

Funds are provided for the improvement of the Lincoln highway clear across the continent except for this short stretch across the Utah desert. Ten miles in over 3300 remains to be completed and the state of Utah and the county of Tooele, in which the ten-mile strip is located, have reached an impasse so that there does not seem much likelihood of the road being completed for some time to come.

Utah officials have said pointedly that they are not in favor of completing the road to the west. They are concentrating on the Arrowhead Trail, which is the road through Utah which keeps motor parties in the state of Utah for a longer period. This road is in fine condition and can be easily traveled in a day. Part of it is paved with concrete.

Utah has designated the Wendover road as a primary road so that federal aid can be used there to build the road, but Tooele county does not want that road built, because it runs through a sparsely habited district. Tooele county wants the Lincoln highway unit built. In order to match federal funds, the state of Utah has to depend on Tooele county for its funds. The state funds are mortgaged for several years to come.

If Northern California is sincerely anxious in getting travel into it, it is time that we take action to have the Lincoln highway unit in Utah paved.

The Lincoln Highway is the best known road in the United States, and is paved almost to the Mississippi river. When tourists get on it they stay there, and are turned south by interested officials in Salt Lake City who want them to stay in Utah. They are sent south to Los Angeles.

If the ten-mile stretch was paved in western Utah, thousaands of motorists who now go south via Utah would come here instead.

Looks like those hardy motorists who want to come to Northern California next year would have to fight the hard going on the Goodyear Cut off across western Utah until sime remedy is effected.

Considerable furore is being caused in automobile buying circles, as well as among the trade on automobile row, by the introduction of the new Peerless models, which are now on display at the sales room of the Pioneer Motor company, 2300 Broadway.

There never has been a new model automobile received with such universal favor as this new Peerless, with its low hung body and graceful lines. Mr. Collins President of the Peerless Motor Car company, made the statement some time ago that he would produce the very last word in automobile design, as well as construction, and he certainly has more than made good his statement.

The sales room of the Pioneer Motor company has very fittingly been decorated, creating a very attractive and artistic setting for the new cars. Many Oakland people took advantage of the invitation extended them and visited the salesroom and inspected the cars.

The general consensus of opinion among the public as well as the motor car trade, according to the management, is that the new cars are as fine a piece of engineering and designing as has ever been introduced to the public. Orders are being placed and great activity is being displayed by the local branch.

It is the intention of Mr. A. K. McLuney, President of the Pioneer Motor company, to continue the exhibit several days longer, as many people have expressed their desire to inspect the cars, if the opportunity can be afforded.

School Burns Down, Children Rejoice

(By International News Service.)

ROOSEVELT, L. I., Sept. 9.—Children here went around recently with shining faces. The little old schoolhouse burned down and the problem of where to open classes this month is causing the local school authorities to knit their brows. The children are not worrying. The fire started on the second story of the school building, and the frame structure was a wreck before the fire companis arrived.

RETAIL MEAT MEN SEEK PROTECTION

A special legislation committee was appointed yesterday by the California Retail Meat Dealers' Association on the closing day of their convention at the Hotel Oakland. The committee was charged with the devising of legislative measures to protect retail butchers against losses incurred through the condemnation of meat, caused by disease in cattle before slaughter.

It was stated that the committee will immediately approach the State Legislature, and point out that there exists an anomaly, in view of the fact that the meat dealer has to stand this loss, instead of the cattleman who sells the diseased stock. Discussion of the problem was started by John Lee Wilbur of Hayward, and participated in by other delegates.

O. L. Watson of the Oakland Meat Packing Company told the gathering that California cured hams and bacon are the equal of any in the country, but that many retail butchers, in using such phraseology as "Eastern ham" and "fine Eastern cured bacon" are creating an impression in the public mind that the Eastern products are better than those of this State. He recommended that retailers should systematically push the sale of home-cured products.

NEW USE FOR PAPERS

Newspapers have been put to many uses, but it remained for Java to utilize them for lining the walls of houses. The Dutch steamer Simaloaer, sailing for China, Japan and Java, has among her cargo 800 bales of old newspapers which weigh about 2500 pounds, to be used for this purpose.

CARRIER WAVE.

The wave which provides the means for transmitting or carrying the audio-frequency wave but which does not determine the nature of the sound heard at the receiving station when simple detection reception is used.

COATED-FILAMENT.

In some types of vacuum tubes the filament or hot electrode has cemented to its surface a thin coating of oxides. Filaments having this coating give off electrons freely at much lower temperatures than those employing pure metal and require considerably less power to evaporate the same number of electrons in a given time than filaments of pure metals.

MAGNETIC AMPLIFIER.

A device for controlling signalling in high powered stations, employing large currents, to avoid having to break the full current. When used with a high frequency alternator, it consists of a variable impedance connected in shunt with the external circuit of the alternator. Through the use of a control current of a few amperes, large antenna currents of several hundred amperes are effectively controlled.

DIELECTRIC CONSTANT.

The dielectric constant of any substance is the ratio of the caps of the same condensor using air as the dielectric. If the capacity of an air condenser is multiplied by this ratio, the capacity of the same condenser employing the new substance may be determined.

SULPHATION.

A condition which exists in lead cells due to over-discharge or to allowing the cell to remain discharged for a considerable period. The production of an excess of lead sulphate causes the plates of the cells to buckle, which either short-circuits the cells or reduces their capacity through the falling off of the active material from the plates.

ARC TRANSMITTER.

A system for generating continuous waves by combining an electric arc with inductance and capacity of suitable values and supplying the arc with direct current having a potental of approximately 500 volts. Copper is used for the positive electrode of the arc and carbon for the negative. The oscillations produced in the circuit composed of the arc the inductance and the condenser are transferred to the aerial circuit and radiated in the form of continuous waves.

"PUSH-PULL" CIRCUIT.

A circuit in which two vacuum tubes having similar characteristics are connected in the same manner as a single-stage amplifier. Owing to the fact that the input voltage is divided equally between the two tubes, variations in the input voltage may be used which are twice as large as variations impressed upon a single tube. The resultant outputs are correspondingly increased upon a single tube. The resultant outputs are correspondingly increased due to the summation of the outputs of the separate tubes.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy; it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months! Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advertisement.

MEXICAN DEBT OF $700,000,000 TO BE ADJUSTED

American Section of International Bankers' Committee Tells Plan.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The American section of the international committee of bankers of Mexico today made public a summary of the plan of readjusting Mexico's external debt of $700,000,000 which was included in their agreement last June with Finance Minister De La Huerta.

The plan provides for a resumption of interest payments in default since 1913. After listing the bonds and other obligations of the government and the National Railways of Mexico, which, under the program are to be returned to private management, the bankers recommended certain concessions to the security holders.

In view of these concessions the Mexican government will set aside during the next five years 50,000,000 pesos (25,000,00' gold dollars) so as to resume at the end of that period full cash service on its obligations.

To meet the bond coupons maturing after January 2, 1923, the Mexican government will place in a special fund the entire proceeds of the oil export tax, 10 per cent of the gross revenues of the National Railways and the entire net operating revenues of these railways. Cash interest payments of these coupons will, during the first year, be made on a scale varying from 50 to 100 per cent on the external loans, at the rate of 25 per cent on the internal 3 and 5 per cent bonds, 50 per cent on the state bonds and in general, from 50 to 65 per cent on the railway loans, except that the railway notes secured by the government bonds are to receive 100 per cent.

TOOTH OF SHARK 1,000,000 YEARS OLD DISCOVERED

ALBANY, Ore., Sept. 5.—The tooth of a prehistoric shark has been found on Knox Butte, near Albany, by W. D. Porter, who is investigating fossil remains in this vicinity The ancient relic was discovered in Miocene strata that were exposed where road builders have made a cut across the face of the hill.

The shark tooth has been classified by J. J. Crawford, Albany scientist, as belonging to a specimen of lamna elegans. The rock in which it was embedded when classified gives an idea of the age of the tooth. The Miocene period is described by geologists as being in the time of the Cenozoic, or mammalian era and tertiary age, many million years ago, when the present Willamette valley was not in existence and a sea covered this part of the globe.

Autos in Austria Cost Few Million

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Purchasing an automobile in Vienna, Austria, is a matter of high finance and involved accounting, according to a report to the Commerce Department from American Consul Kemp.

Prices on the types of cars prevailing on the Austrian market, Kemp reported, are nonchalantly quoted between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000 crowns, and they vary with the shifting exchange.

"I Can Fix It"

TODAY'S SHORT STORY

Ad Schuster

EVERYBODY knew "I Can Fix It" Dodds and smiled at his peculiarities His little shop was filled with odds and ends which, soon or later, he said, would come in handy. It was said he could mend anything from a windmill or washing machine down to an alarm clock or china doll, and with his services he added reminiscences of startling adventure The children went to his shop for candy and cookies and the men for a smoke and a yarn He was as much a part of the town as the elaborate fountain presented by Jonas Breed, the banker, and without doubt was more appreciated

"Just like Jonas" he said, "to give a fountain like that Except for perpetuating his name in six-inch letters it does nothing but interfere with the traffic Who ever heard of sticking a thing like that in the middle of the street?"

Finding fault with Jonas Breed, it was agreed, was one of Dodd's peculiarities For everyone else he had a good word Breed was a pompous man who greeted his neighbors solemnly and because he thought it helped business Dodds, only, refused to be impressed

"Morning, Jonas," the old man would say, "and how's tricks today?" The town gasped at his daring and all day Dodds would chuckle as he thought of the offended look of the banker

"Jonas" said Dodds one day, stopping the banker in the middle of the sidewalk, "I want your advice and opinion of an invention See this necktie Seems to be off its hook and hanging down all careless like Now watch!" He pulled a string under his vest and the necktie flew back in place "What do you think of that?"

Jonas Breed stepped close to the older man and his eyes narrowed

"I have had enough of this" he said, so low that none of those who watched could hear. "It is understood, Frank, that you do not speak to me any more. This is a warning and the last" He walked on and "I Can Fix It" Dodds stood and watched him He pulled absent-mindedly at the string which rescued the falling ready-tied necktie and was oblivious of the attention from doorways Back in his shop, he pounded noisily on a piece of tin and refused admittance to all comers

After that Dodds greeted the banker with elaborate ceremony Pretending not to see the other until they all but collided, he stepped aside, removed his hat and in attitude of reverent respect waited the banker's departure Jonas pretended not to notice but the town agreed Dodd's latest methods were more exasperating than his old familiarity

"No, I haven't anything against Jonas Breed," the old man replied to inquiries "He's a bulwark of the community, a benefactor for business and some day I'm going to do the handsome thing by him"

"The older he gets," friends of Dodds told one another, "the more peculiar he acts"

When Dodds was ill everyone in town, except the banker, either called on him or sent messages to the bedside. The locked door to the little shop brought home to the community what the loss of the old man would mean

"Yes," said the sick man, "I consider my life has been a success I've patched a lot of busted things which might have caused trouble and arguments if they hadn't been mended. The kids knew where to find cookies I guess, maybe, I've been a bit mean to Jonas for being prouder than he ought to be. Somebody go tell him I want to see him"

Jonas did not call nor did he appear at the funeral There were few who could blame him It was after the old man's will was read—read in public as he had stipulated to his attorney—that men formed conclusions and saw "Dodds" and Breed in new light

"I leave my little shop, my hammers and anvil, all the unimportant odds and ends which might be pieced to good effect, to a man who doesn't need them My story is in my shop; I patched it up there, but not good enough for him Such as it is, I bequeath in great solemnity to my brother, Jonas Breed."

ALWAYS TIRED NO AMBITION

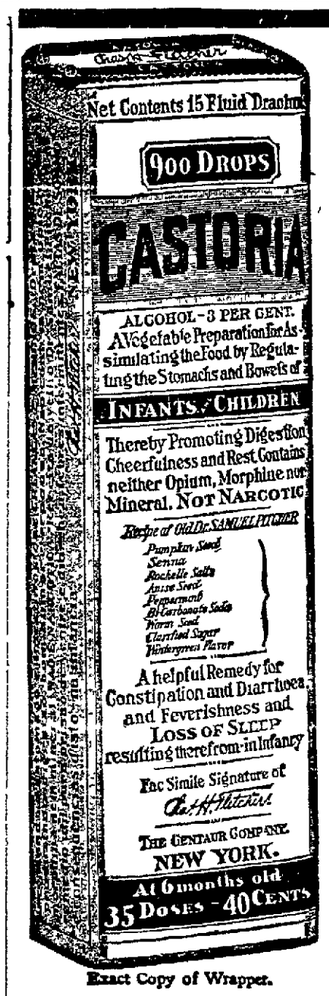

Nervous and Dizzy, Everything Seemed to Worry Me. How I Got Well

Larwill, Indiana.—"My back was so bad I could not do my washing. I was always tired out and had no ambition, was nervous and dizzy and everything seemed to worry me and I had awful pains in my right side. I felt badly about four years and could not do my work as it should have been done. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised so much and it did so many people good that I began to take it myself. I am feeling fine now and every one tells me they never saw me looking so well. I live on a farm, do all my work, and have three little girls to take care of. I am recommending this medicine to my friends and know it will help them if they use it like I do." — Mrs. HERBERT LONG, R. R. 3, Box 7, Larwill, Indiana.

Many women keep about their work when it is a great effort. They are always tired out and have no ambition. When you are in this condition give it prompt attention.

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it is especially adapted to correct such troubles.

Truck Driver Dies Following Accident

TURLOCK, Sept. 5.—Ray Hall, driver for the Graven-Inglis Baking company of Stockton, died here Saturday afternoon as a result of the injuries he received in a motor accident on the Geer road just north of town.

The machine ran into a canal and when the body of the car slipped forward Hall was thrown some distance from the machine, according to Frank Martin, a nearby rancher, and the bread boxes fell upon him. It is supposed that his chest was crushed against the steering wheel before he was thrown to the ground causing hemorrhages.

Martin and a man by the name of Garcia rushed him to the Emmanuel hospital where it was found that a leg was broken and that he had received serious internal injuries, and a hurried operation was made but it was impossible to save him.

Woodland Woman to Teach in Islands

WOODLAND, Sept. 5.—Miss Gene Davis, graduate of the Woodland high school, left late in the week for Hilo, Hawaiian Islands, where she has accepted a position to teach in the public schools there. She spent a year each year in the University of California and Stanford University before taking up teaching. For the past three years Miss Davis has been a resident of Berkeley.

Limb Falls on Man Asleep Under Tree

WOODLAND, Sept. 5. — Jack Campus, almond picker on the H. J. Tabler place, near Woodland, was badly injured yesterday when, while sleeping in the shade of an oak with other pickers, a large limb fell on him. All that saved Campus from being crushed was the fact that he had spread a cot under the tree, and it collapsed when the limb fell, breaking the force of the fall.

MEETING CALLED To LAUNCH NEW S.O.S. CAMPAIGN

Subdivision Threat Prompts Committee to Continue Effort For Park.

The effort to save Oakland's redwoods and to acquire for the city the proposed Sequoia Mountain Park is still being carried on by the Save Oakland's Sequoias" committee, headed by Ernest J. Engler.

Inspired by the large majority of votes given the park bond project at the polls on August 29, and urged to action by the announcement of M. C. Chapman, attorney for the Havens estate, owners of the 'heart of the Mountain Park project," the redwood groves that the redwoods will be subdivided, the S. O. S. committee has called a special mass meeting for tomorrow night.

The meeting will be held in the assembly hall on the third floor of the Bacon building, at Twelfth and Washington street. Representatives of each of the 145 organizations represented in the "S. O. S." committee are urged to attend the meeting.

Attorney Chapman, speaking for the Havens estate, says that in fairness to the heirs and creditors of the estate, it will be necessary to either subdivide the Havens grove of redwoods or to assure a fair return on the investment.

It has been suggested that if means can be found to pay the estate a return of 7 per cent on a fair valuation of the redwoods, the subdivision can be held off until the people get another opportunity to vote on a new bond issue.

It is to discuss ways and means to this end and to hear an important report from Marston Campbell, former head of the Oakland Park Board, that tomorrow's meeting has been called.

Meanwhile the redwoods continue to be a popular rendezvouz for Eastbay folks. Saturday and Sunday hundreds of campers pitched their tents and spread their blankets under the friendly trees. A large contingent of San Francisco Boy Scouts were among the visitors.

Hunters Fined $250 For Shooting Ducks

WOODLAND, Sept. 5.—Justice of the Peace Sam Dailey, of Rocklin, Placer county, fined P. M. Graves, C. R. Gordon, P. A. Gordon, all of Sacramento, E. C. Emigh of Isleton and H. E. Emigh of Rio Vista $50 each for shooting some five ducks out of season. The party left Dixon at the opening of the dove season to gun doves. They ran into some ducks and could not resist the temptation. The hunters were arrested by A. H. Willard, deputy state game warden. Each duck cost the hunters $50, the total fine paid being $250.

Martinez Schools Open for New Term

MARTINEZ, Sept. 5.—Vacation ended yesterday for Martinez school children and this morning found close to 1000 students at the grammar school and 200 at the high school to register for the new term. It is felt certain that a record enrollment will be made in both schools.

As soon as classes are settled at the high school and work is under way, Principal M. H. Rowell will institute a night school which will have courses in civics, commercial arithmetic and stenography. A special citizenship class will also be established. Rowell expects another month will find the night school in operation.

FALSE TEETH IN SEWER COST TOWN $500

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 5.—What is one-half of a set of false teeth worth?

The city of Birmingham has just completed payments approximating $500 for an upper set, according to Street Commissioner George C. Moore.

For several years the sanitary sewer on Eleventh avenue, south, has been giving the city authorities all kinds of trouble. A former administration went to the expense of installing an overflow sewer to remedy the fault. But, even with this, the trouble continued.

Finally an excavation was made, the sewer opened, and, holding back a pile of rubbish the workers discovered the upper flat of a set of false teeth. The rubbish was cleaned away, the sewer joined back as it was, and no further trouble has been experienced.

Street Commissioner Moore states that no one has yet appeared to claim the teeth.

Small Orchard Nets $2500 For Ranchers

WOODLAND, Sept. 5. — J. J. Davis and son Clarence, owning a two and a quarter acre orchard a few miles south of Dixon, near here, cleared $2500 on apricots this year. They sold the green product at $100 a ton. There are 225 trees on the place. The orchard is 27 years old and under irrigation. As a result of this season's experiment the owners are spending their surplus cash to extend their orchard on other lands owned by them in the same district.

Budget For Palo Alto Is Increased

PALO ALTO, Sept. 5.—Greatly increased appropriations for the promotion of the public safety through the fire and police departments are noted in the new municipal budget for Palo Alto for the fiscal year 1922-23, just adopted by the Palo Alto city council. For the police department the total appropriation is $16,935, whereas the last year's total was $9652. For the fire department the appropriation is $21,950.80, while it was $7628.70 for the past year. In the increase is $11,750 spent for a new pumping engine for the fire department.

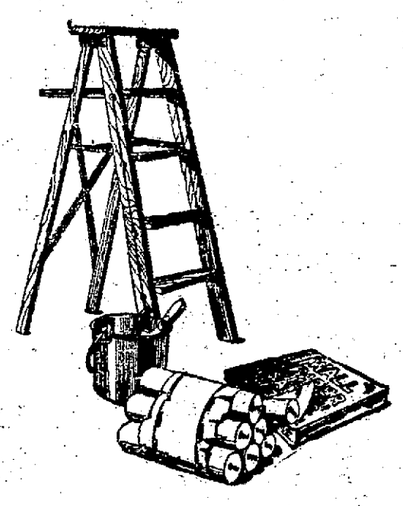

BIGAMY ON INCREASE.

LONDON.—The Bland-Sutton Institute has found that two types of bacteria unite to cause tooth decay.

Constable Marries After Re-election

WOODLAND, Sept. 5.—Constable Sam W. Lillard of Davis celebrated his re-election to office by slipping away Sunday to Sacramento, where he quietly married Mrs. Nina Falor. The couple left for Eureka, Humboldt county, where the bride has property interests. Lillard took none of his friends into his confidence, the details leaking out through court records.

CUMMINGS SAYS DEMOCRATS MUST KEEP SOLID FRONT

Declares There Is No Leadership in Washington; Lauds Wilson Policies.

Asserting that the present is not a time for retreat for the Democratic party, Homer S. Cummings, Democratic leader and chairman of the National Democratic Convention in San Francisco, urged his party followers to push the doctrines of world liberation and internationalism, at a luncheon in his honor at Hotel Oakland yesterday under the auspices of the Alameda County Women's Democratic Club. Criticism of the administration in Washington and lauding of the Wilson policies were features of the address.

"There is no such thing as leadership in Washington," Cummings declared." It is not possible to obtain in what direction the administration is proceeding. Indeed, all that the administration has done worthy of commendation are reflections of the previous administration. One reason why we have no leadership is because men connected with the administration know what are the right policies, but are afraid to declare them because it would appear as endorsement of the policies of a previous administration.

"If the nation should ever have presented a solid front it was at the close of the World War," Cummings said. "When the returns came in 1918 from a campaign fought on fictitious issues I confess I was more depressed than ever before in my political career. Wilson was the one great hope of civilization," proclaimed the party leader. "In 1918 America had risen to world leadership, which ought never to have been lost. The situation was poisoned by politics. People began to vote, not as Americans, but as descendants of other countries. America began to show it was not ready for the destiny the Great Man had made possible for us."

"America is a part of the world and not apart from the world," Cummings said. "America cannot ignore the chaos which now exists. We must support those candidates for public office who have an international mind, that is the power to recognize America at its best."

Cummings concluded by expressing a hope for the day when a great leader shall arise to claim the loyalty of the American people."

SAYS PEOPLE ARE TO BLAME

In introducing Cummings, Robert M. Fitzgerald, local Democratic leader, said in part:

"The trouble with this country and this state is that our representatives are giving more time to politics than to acting in the interests of the people. The people themselves are to blame. If they would support the men and women in office who uphold the constitution and its laws, these persons would be returned by their constitutents without the necessity of campaigning."

Fitzgerald introduced Cummings as an American rather than as a Democrat.

Mrs. Annette Abbott Adams, former United States Assistant Attorney General, and Mrs. F. Ellis Miller were among the programed speakers.

Mrs. Carrie Hoyt, president of the hostess club, presided as chairman of the day. Democratic candidates, whose names will appear on the November ballot, were introduced. Support was promised their campaigns by the Democratic women.

More than 200 prominent men and women of the city including several scores of well known Republican leaders, were present at the luncheon.

Democratic Chief Is Honored

HOMER S. CUMMINGS, Democratic leader and chairman of the National Democratic Convention in San Francisco, was Oakland's guest yesterday. He addressed 200 prominent citizens of Alameda county at a luncheon at Hotel Oakland given under the auspices of the Women's Democratic Club.

Mare Island Hopes For Better Galley

VALLEJO, Sept. 5.—When Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby visited the naval prison at the yard on Sunday he did not overlook a point in regard to the bastile, and it is expected that he will recommend a number of badly needed improvements when he returns to Washington, D. C. The yard officers have asked for $48,000 which will include the erection of a new galley. At present the food cooked in the old galley must be packed fifty or more feet before it reaches the tables.

LADY ASTOR IS FAVORING BRITISH CURB ON BOOZE

By DAVID M. CHURCH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Lady Astor is not after the laurels of "Pussyfoot" Johnson.

Plymouth's titled M. P. denies that she is seeking prohibition for England, despite the fact that she has introduced a liquor bill in the House of Commons which would restrict the sale of liquors.

"I am not advocating a Prohibition Act for England," Lady Astor stated. "Public opinion in this country is not prepared for this. On the other hand, it is surely a counsel of despair to sit with folded hands and wait for a weak-willed citizens to be eliminated by a process of eugenics. As an industrial nation dependent on foreign export trade we simply cannot afford either the inefficiency, loss of time and slackness caused by drink or the high taxation (and so increased cost of production) due to our having to spend so much on the victims of alcohol in prisons, police courts, infirmaries, hospitals, workhouses and asylums."

LET PEOPLE CONTROL

Lady Astor explains that her liquor control bill is merely a measure to give the control of Britain's liquor traffic into the hands of the people. The bill provides that the degree of control of the liquor traffic shall be determined by popular vote. Under such conditions Lady Astor is confident that the British people will eventually restrict the sale of intoxicants to such a degree that entire prohibition will be unnecessary, or at least that it will be made difficult for those who abuse the privileges of alcoholic stimlants.

Lady Astor is not alone in her efforts to restrict the liquor trade of England, for her bill is but one of five which were introduced just before parliment rose for its summer vacation. In the proposed bills the question of local option is brought to the front, and there is but little doubt that within the next few years the English voters will be given an opportunity of expressing their wishes with regard to the liquor trade.

PROPOSE SUNDAY CLOSING

Sunday closing is another question which is brought up by the pending bills in parliment. Under present licensing laws the public houses of England are open for several hours on Sunday—for a few hours in the middle of the day and for three hours in the evening. Temperance advocates are waging a campaign against "Sunday beer," but inasmuch as the poorer people save up their pennies for a Snuday "blowout" at the corner "pub" it is doubtful whether there will ever be any great favor for Sunday closing as against a general restriction of drinking.

Opponents of the proposed liquor reforms point to Scotland with pride. They maintain that local option and attempted reforms have failed there.

The agitation is growing into noise, but there are grave doubts of the success of the reformers so long as the British government continues to reap a tidy portion of its taxes from the liquor traffic. Moreover, the attitude of the governenht, aside from the question of the revenue, cannot free itself from the influence of the thousands of voices that shout "'arf a pint o' bitter!" to the thousands of bar-maids who throw back the blinds at eleven o'clock each morning.

Safety Signs Upon Contra Costa Roads

MARTINEZ, Sept. 5.—Opening a campaign for safe automobile driving, the Eastbay Safety Council, with headquarters in Oakland, is working in the Contra Costa highways and is stringing banners across dangerous roads advising the motorists to "drive safely."

On the heavily traveled Tunnel highway a half dozen big banners have been stretched across and so placed that the motorist cannot help but see and heed their warning.

DASH TO CARRY WHISKY TO MINE AIDED IN RESCUE

Workers, No Longer Stopping or Caring to Eeat, Needed More Stimulants.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 5—Police Detective Robert Hunter returned this noon from a flying trip to Jackson, Amador county, where he was dispatched Sunday night with ten cases of bonded whisky for the rescue workers at the Argonaut mine

The whisky was obtained from the government warehouses through the efforts of Attorney Theodore Roche, president of the Police Commission, who had received a personal appeal from Mrs Mary Warrington, head of the Red Cross in Amador county, who advised Roche that the rescue workers needed whisky to brace their nerves against the terrific strain under which they have been working for the past eight days

Roche worked on the matter for four hours Sunday night before he was finally able through the courtesy of local federal judges to secure the release of the ten cases of whisky When this was done Hunter was dispatched in an automobile owned by Cliff Durant and driven by Al Waddell They arrived in Jackson 5 o'clock Monday morning

HEARTRENDING SCENES.

"What is heartrending about the mine calamity is the way the people, particularly women and children, hasten to listen to the reports and rumors that ar ecirculated at the mouth of the mine shaft and at the offices of the Argonaut mine," said Hunter in telling of his observations during his several hours' stay at the mine

"There is very little excitement at the Argonaut mine now, so far as the crowd is concerned The men, who go down in shifts of 50 and work for twenty minutes, come back exhausted, for they work like demons during those twenty minutes When a shift comes up from below the mob gathers to listen to what news they have to tell

"The mob hangs on each word from the exhausted rescue workers and when the news is not good news they walk slowly back to the office of the Argonaut The crowd is too tired to be excited This thing has been going on for eight days

The Red Cross have a kitchen at the mine, but the food they cook is left untasted. The men doing rescue work do not eat any more All they want is coffee and the coffee they drink doesn't do them any good The charm of the stimulant has worn off That is why they needed whisky, because whisky is a stronger stimulant and makes them eat.

"The present practice is to deal out two gallons of whisky to every shift of 50 men. This is beginning to improve the condition of the rescue workers, but they are all very weary and all on the point of collapse. Concerning the signals reported to have been heard from the depth of the Argonaut mine, the rescue workers are convinced that the blasts they heard really were signals from the entombed men."

Ebell Club Plans Unique Season Group

By EDNA B. KINARD.

Ebell is launching a unique group this season with the announcement of the organization of a section whose interest will be given over entirely to applied psychology This is, perhaps, the first purely culture club about the bay to incorporate a regular program of study along this line among its formal activities

With scholars and laymen alike giving ardent devotion to this interesting branch in education, it is small wonder that clubwomen whose minds are keen to whatever points the way to human progress should find an avenue through which opportunity might be offered to serious albeit popular consideration of the subject. Mrs Elon L Warner, first vice-president in Alameda District, C. F W. C, and a former vice-president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, has been named to the curatorship of the new section whose meetings are announced for the first and third Thursday afternoons of each month beginning September 21

Mrs Louis Cockroft, who for several seasons has created the interest which has made the living issues section so tremendously popular has presented her resignation as curator Mrs Frederick I Bamford is secretary of the group which will meet on September 15 to determine its future

Curators of the various study sections have been named as follows under the general leadership of Mrs Mildred F. Husbands French, Mrs Francis R Musser, Spanish, Miss Sophy P Fleming A. JOHNSTON WINS MATCH, KEEPING DAVIS CUP IN U. S.

"Little Bill" of San Francisco Outplays Patterson of Australia in Finals.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor.

WESTSIDE COURTS, FOREST HILLS L I, Sept 5—William Johnston the beloved "Little Bill" of San Francisco, known as the hornet of the American courts alike for his busy court covering and the sting of his drives, defeated Gerald L. Patterson of Australia today in the final matches of the Davis cup challenge round, thus assuring that the famous trophy remains in America for another year Johnston won in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1, playing with the dash and speed of 1915 and 1919, when he beat all comers for the national title in singles Patterson never figured seriously at any time and was made to look like a schoolboy as he stood still and watched his American rival rush the net to score placements galore In this respect he outscored Patterson by a matter of 32 to 17 and the margin might have been greater had the coast star not elected to play the lines on all shots

Patterson's game began to shrivel under the bombardment and at no time did he ever vaguely resemble the player of other and better days His backhand was unsteady as always, his forehand none too accurate and even his service failed him on occasions

He defaulted no less than seven times and against this shoddy record he could summon only two service aces by way of reply.

The victory, hailed with wild acclaim by a gallery of 12,000, marked the sixth America has scored since the Davis cup was placed in competition in 1900. Australia has six victories also to show for its efforts, and the British five

MRS. MACK NO. 3 SORRY STAR HAS LOST HIS FOURTH

"Poor Willard," Laments Pauline Frederick, "He's Lovable—But Dumb."

Wives, plays and "parties" make up the exciting career of Willard Mack, stage star now playing at one of the local theaters, who has recently come to the parting of the ways with Mrs. Beatrice Mack, wife No. 4, while Palline Frederick, who was wife No. 3, ex, resses sympathy for his present predicament.

Mack is expected to resume the leading role in his play "Kick In" today, after spending four days in the Stanford University hospital following a "party" which Mack admits he staged just before his wife separated from him last Wednesday.

But is there a chance that she will return to him? Mack thinks so because his wife has been calling up every day by long distance from Los Angeles, asking as to his condition.

EXPECTS WIFE BACK.

"I wouldn't be surprised to find my wife playing her part in the act when I get back to Oakland," said Mack from his bed in the hospital.

"My doctor doesn't believe in tapering off," said Mack, as he made a wry face over two glasses of medicine and one of milk which the nurse handed him. "But I shall be in fine shape when I get out. And I shan't start in again. I hadn't had a drink for eight months and a half when I started this time. It was nine months before that when I had a party. When I am off drinking I work intensely, and I guess the strain is too much."

While Mack is trying to recover from the effects of the collapse of his latest marital adventure and the "party" that followed comes word of commiseration from Pauline Frederick, who is in Chicago starring in "The Guilty One," in her return to the speaking stage.

"SMART, BUT SO DUMB."

"Poor Willard," she said. "Brilliant and lovable; smart, and yet so dumb. He has a wonderful way with women, but somehow his attractiveness doesn't last. He has brains, but no judgment.

"He was never cruel to me. He was adorable. But I just couldn't stand his ways. When he married his present wife I hoped he'd really found the right girl—but he's always chasing the rainbow. It's too bad.

"I wonder if the poor dear will marry again?"

When Mack married his present wife, Beatrice Beebe Bayard Stone Mack, congratulatory telegrams from his three ex-wives—Maud Leone, Marjorie Rambeau and Pauline Frederick—were among the first received.

Parent-Teachers' Day Is State Fair Feature

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 5.—This is Parent-Teachers' day at the big State Fair and the full program, augmented by the luncheon of the Parent-Teachers' Association at noon, following the child welfare demonstration clinic in the woman's building at 11 o'clock, were features which brought greater throngs today than yesterday, when approximately 25,000 persons visited the exhibition grounds.

Horse racing, the horse show and vaudeville were the chief attractions this afternoon, while dancing and fireworks are scheduled for tonight.

All the activities of the exposition got into full swing yesterday with practically all the business houses being closed because of Labor Day. The judging of livestock began in the morning and drew hundreds of dairymen and cattlemen as well as the general public.

Judging was also in progress today in the Educational and Horticultural buildings, interest centering in the governor's cup to be given to the county exhibiting the best and most complete display of its products.

The fair is steadily improving and is greater this year than ever before, is the general comment. Every department is enlarged and improved, seems to be the general opinion.

The county exhibits are continuing to be a great attraction, while the beautiful panorama exhibited by the California Fish and Game Commission receives the unstinted admiration of all who view it. The darkened display room shows a scene of the high Cierras from Mt. Whitney to Mt. Shasta as it appears in the early spring. Flowing brooks are in the foreground and grass-covered hills, while in the distance rise the snow capped peaks. Lighting effects are used with marvelous results to show the effect of changing day and night upon the scene.

The annual banquet of the commercial secretaries' association held yesterday noon, resulted in a movement being launched to secure for the fair next year an exhibit from every county in the state. Hearty co-operation in the project was promised by several representatives from the southern part of the state.

Coal Price Boost Flayed by Governor

ALBIA, Ia., Sept. 5 (By the Associated Press).—"Brazen and piratical" were the words used by Governor N. E. Kendall in a Labor day speech here yesterday in commenting upon the announcement of former Attorney General H. M. Havner, president of one of the largest coal companies in Iowa, that the public must pay through increased prices the alleged loss suffered by his company during the five months' strike of union miners.

"A more brazen announcement of a more piratical purpose never was recorded in the annals of industry," declared Governor Kendall. "If that policy is to be generally adopted an entirely new equation will be introduced into business and the common people will underwrite the hazard of every enterprise."

Suspension of Cotton Growing Urged

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The proposal for a one year suspension of cotton planting in the United States as a means of eliminating the boll weevil, was suggested in the senate today by Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, who predicted wholesale abandonment of cotton farms throughout the south unless governmental action were taken to aid in destruction of the parasite.

Let Women Vote in Unions, Labor Urged

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 5. — Miss Janette Rankin, first congresswoman, in a Labor Day speech here, urged equal participation for the wives of union men in affairs of their husband's unions.

BONUS BILL IS SIDETRACKED FOR WORK ON TARIFF

Senate and House Conferees Vote 5 to 3 Against Taking Up Soldier Measure.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (By the Associated Press).—By a vote of 5 to 3 Senate and House conferees refused today to sidetrack the administration tariff bill for the soldiers' bonus measure.

Senator McCumber, Republican, of North Dakota and Simmons of North Carolina and Walsh of Massachusetts, Democrats, voted to take up the bonus measure immediately, but opposing them were Senators Smoot, Republican, of Utah and Representatives Fordney of Michigan, Longworth of Ohio and Green, Republicans, and Garner of Texas, Democrat. Senator McLean of Connecticut, Republican, and Representative Collier, Democrat, of Mississippi and two other conferees were absent.

Today's meeting was the first to which the Democratic conferees had been invited since work on the tariff was begun two weeks ago. They were excluded after the vote and the Republicans went ahead with the re-writing of the tariff bill. Good progress was reported and Chairman McCumber of the Senate managers believed their task would be finished by the end of this week or early next week.

Chairman Fordney of the House managers led the opposition to immediate consideration of the bonus bill. He argued that the tariff already had been nearly three years in the making and that it should not be laid aside. Urging quick action on the bonus McCumber argued that an agreement on this measure probably could be reached within a few hours and called attention that the bonus legislation had been pending a year longer than had the tariff.

Daugherty called to it, the Chicago Daily News says today. The newspaper says the charges involve political influence, graft and "fixing" of federal officials.

EXCLUSIVE CONCERT FOR NEXT WEEK

"Mrs. Morris, I know how much you love music. I have two tickets for that concert we spoke of and I would love to have you go with me if you can."

"Why how nice of you. It does interest me exceedingly as I have heard so much about the singer. It is to be given by a rather exclusive club and I do want to accept your invitation, but I am horribly afraid I haven't a thing to wear to an affair of that kind."

"Well, it is a dress up occasion but a simple dark dress would be very attractive and you don't necessarily have to wear new and expensive clothes."

"Oh, but I have no afternoon clothes that are presentable. I have been wanting a new dark silk dress for a long time but I have been putting it off because of the expense. I will try to think up some way as I must have something new soon and I do want to go with you."

"Let me suggest something. Cherry's at 515 13th street, are now showing the very newest fall suits, coats, dresses, etc. You would be able to get a lovely dress there at a reasonable price. And then, you know, one is allowed six months to pay at Cherry's. (Cherry's store for [illegible]

DIMPLE LINKED WITH HARELIP AS BEAUTY BLEMISH

(By International News Service.)

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 3.—Is the dimple a mark of beauty? Or is the maid with that bewitching birthmark and the Cupid's bow mouth less beautiful and intelligent than her sister without those attractions?

Dr. A. S. Warthin, eminent pathologist of the University of Michigan, says they bear a relationship to the harelip and the cleft palate, which never yet in this or any other land have been accepted as beautiful. They mark a girl as "below par," says Dr. Warthin.

He said it during a lecture on "The Inheritance of Disease," in which he made a direct appeal for eugenics, better living conditions that should breed better humans, and a plea for the recognition of certain inheritances.

He declares that the old proverb, "Blood will tell," had proven its truth throughout the ages and that today this fact was becoming recognized and that civilized people were at least considering what could be done to breed a better race.

"Today it is recognized that all men are not born equal," he said. "We are not equal so far as the value of our bodily cells is concerned. Two men fail in business. The one gathers himself together and takes a new lease on life. The other broods over his losses, commits suicide or goes insane. He never was born the equal of the other man."

FRENCH TO FUEL SHIPS AT PAPEETE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Edouard Rivet, newly appointed governor-general of the Society Islands, French possession in the South Pacific, announced today the establishment at Papeete by his government of a great mid-Pacific coal and re-fueling station for the use of merchant ships plying between Bordeaux and French Indo-China.

The governor-general expected to leave today for Papeete. He declared that the establishment of the re-fueling station would cost approximately $15,000,000, and was the initial step of a movement by the French government to the inauguration of a vast commerce between France and its island possessions.

Governor-general Rivet announced that oil to be furnished the mid-Pacific refueling station would come from California, an arrangement already being made with the Standard and Union Oil companies of California.

STOOL PIGEONS CHARGED WITH DOPE PEDDLING

Judge Smith Says Such Witnesses Will Be Treated As Law Violators.

The charge that "dope" peddlers had profited by protection afforded them as "stool pigeons" for the State Pharmacy Board, was made by Police Judge Mortimer Smith today when the character of Ray West, woman witness against Frank Magnalli, a barber charged with violating the poison act, was attacked by Frank Carr, his attorney.

Declaring that in the past "stool pigeons" working for the Pharmacy Board had sold drugs on a large scale without the board's knowledge, Judge Smith affirmed that he would treat a witness for the prosecution if shown to be a dope peddler and stool pegion the same as any other violator of the law.

In objecting to the testimony of the woman, Carr pointed out that she had recently been released from the city prison where she served a term for vagrancy and intimated that she was a drug peddler. She was hired by T. J. McInerney, Pharmacy Board inspector, on Aug. 26. She purchased morphine from Magnalli and give him marked money, it is alleged, and then he was arrested.

The case went over until next Tuesday.

PEARSON TELLS POLITICAL CREED

A bonus for the world war veterans, the eighteenth amendment and a tariff on the products of California's soil received the endorsement of William J. Pearson, the democratic candidate for United States Senator from California, in an address he delivered last night before the Women's Democratic club of Alameda county.

Referring to the Japanese, Pearson said:

"Our little brown brother, the Japanese, is all right in his place, but his place is not our California."

Although he stands for a protective tariff on products of the soil, the candidate made it plain he opposed an alleged fat profit for the millionaire manfacturer. He said:

"If you tell me the millionaire manufacturer must have a wide-spread between the natural product and the manufactured article in order to fatten his own millions, I'll tell you that I'd see him and his millions in Hades before I would vote for such a measure.

"The eighteenth amendment to the constitutions is now the highest law of the land. As a servant of the people and a sworn officer of the government, I will uphold the law," he said.

The Democratic candidate for senator said he had but one political creed and that was responsibility to the people.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press).—The steamer Pan-American on which Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes sailed from the United States heading the mission to the Brazil centennial, arrived here at 12:40 o'clock this afternoon. The American battleships Maryland and Nevada, the naval escort, reached port at 1:10 o'clock p. m.

FARMERS FLOCK TO RUSSIA FOR GRANTS OF LAND

Must Bring Equipment Along —Liberal Terms Made to Efficient Workers.

By ANNA LOUISE STRONG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, Sept. 5.—More than 500 American farmers will be in Russia by the end of the summer, settled permanently on the land. Two hundred and eighty-four already have arrived. Negotiations are under way with the representative of 10,000 farmers, and if these are successful there will be a great exodus from California of the Malakans, a group of Tolstoyan peasants who fled from Russia in the days of the Czar and now want to return.

"Russia will only accept as immigrant persons who are eqipped to make a success here," said the young man in charge of Trade Immigration to me. "We have thirty-five thousand American workers registered with the Society for Technical Aid to Russia in New York, who want to come here, but most of them cannot yet be received. The American skilled worker is usually a specialist, not an all-around mechanic, and we have not the machinery or mass production to enable him to succeed here.

MUST BE ORGANIZED

"Only organized groups which can bring their own tools of success with them are at present allowed to come to Russia. It is harder for the industrial worker to bring a factory than it is for a farming group to bring farming machinery. So at present we are taking largely farmers.

"We won't take individual farmers, however. Conditions of village life are too hard for individual farmers to make their way. But farming communities, bringing their own machinery—for them Russia offers a chance of a better living than they get in the United States.

"We give them large estates of the best black soil in the world. They sell out their American land, buy machinery and come over in good shape to make a success."

"How do they choose their land?" I asked.

"They first send a representative to us here. He goes, for instance, to the land department of the Ukraine, which sends him out to the various county agents. Usuali it only takes a week or two, and he only needs to look at one or two places.

"He makes complete inventory of buildings, equipment, and location of streams. Then he sends word to America what things are needed —water pipes, plumbing, small electric power plant, machinery, etc.

"The farmers buy the equipment in America; their agent signs the contract with s here. Their goods come in duty free."

"What kind of a contract do they get?" I asked.

He drew out a contract. The colonists were given the land and buildings, and contracted to establish a sound farm and pay a return yearly of 10 per cent of their grain crop and 8 per cent of their hay. For the first three years this payment was not demanded, bt must be put into improving the farm.

The colonists must insure the buildings and had no right to give the land to others, but in case they failed to handle it they must return it, all or part, to the land department. If they hired peasants to work for them they must do so in accordance with the Union of Agricultural Workers.u

For eighteen years they had the land on these terms, and at the end of that time they had first option on renewal, subject to any new land laws that might have arisen in the meantime. The land which they got in this way was the rich black earth of the Ukraine.

Mexico City Grows; Women Predominate

(By International News Service.)

MEXICO, Sept. 5.—The City of Mexico, capital and metropolis of the republic, according to an announcement by the director-general of statistics, has a population of 615,367. This compares with 471,066 in 1910 and 368,892 in 1900.

The limits of the City of Mexico are tightly drawn and beyond them are suburbs containing several hundred thousand additional population. The city itself comprises only a small part of the Federal district, which corresponds politically to the District of Columbia in the United State

An interesting feature of the Mexico City population figures is the great disparity between the number of men and women. In 1900 there were 173,647 men and 195,251 women. In 1910 there were 218,774 men and 252,292 women. Last year's census gives 271,955 men and 343,412 women.

$2 Bill Jinx Put Him in Jail, Says Youth

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Others may scoff at "jinxes," but not fifteen-year-old Erick McDonald, a negro boy, living at No. 54 West Ninety-ninth street. Erick was taken to the Children's Society after he had been arrested, according to the police, in the act of burglarizing the show cases in front of the Big Store, at No. 308 Sixth avenue. The boy passed the store and noticed about a dozen $2 bills pasted on the inside of a show case to advertise a sale. The police say he returned and with a penknife cut the putty from a glass panel, and with five of the $2 bills on the glass started away. Patrolman Frank Nau saw him working at the show case.

Lafayette-Marne Day Planned for Sept. 6

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—A call has been issued by Charles Stewart Davison, honorary secretary of the Lafayette Day National Committee, for nation-wide observance of Lafayette-Marne Day, September 6. The committee includes Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, George Haven Putnam, William D. Guthrie, George W. Wickersham and Maurice Leon, of this city; Myron D. Herrick, of Ohio; Casper F. Goodrich, of Connecticut; W. R. Hedges, of Missouri; Charles W. Eliot, of Massachusetts, and Henry Van Dyke, of New Jersey.

CONGRESS HALF WOMEN URGED BY ANN MARTIN

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Women voters in America should have equal representation with the men in Congress, Miss Ann Martin, of Nevada, asserted upon her arrival here from Europe, where she made a study of woman suffrage in England and Germany.

English women are surpassing American women in political acumen and activity, she said.

Miss Martin is at the National Arts Club. After serving a time as president of the Nevada Suffrage Association she became chairman of the National Women's party and was the first woman nominated for United States Senator.

In Europe, where she lectured for nearly a year, Miss Martin met the leading members of her own sex in all the countries she visited —Germany, Italy, France and England. The English women impressed her most because the militants and the conservatives, bitterly opposed during the votes for women campaign, had buried the hatchet and were now working for the real equality of sexes before the law and for election to office of men who recognize this equality in their interpretation of the laws.

THIRTY-SEVEN IN REICHSTAG.

"There are thirty-seven women in the Reichstag in Germany, and whenever a question relating to women comes up the men leave it to them to discuss and decide," said Miss Martin. "In England numerous women's organizations have combined to support feminine candidates. They have many equality laws, but the men who interpret them discriminate against women. The women realize they have got to put women in those offices if they hope to put sex out of politics.

"The Women's Freedom League has adopted for its slogan 'Three Hundred Women for Parliament,' which makes a 50-50 representation. Then there is the Women's General Committee, heads of organizations brought together by Lady Astor and representing approximately 1,000,000 women in trades and professions, church and reform movements, who are indorsing candidates.

PARTIES SHOULD DICTATE.

"That is what we should do here. The League of Women Voters and the National Women's Party, which during the suffrage campaign represented the conservative and the militant wings of the movement, should co-operate. They should let the two big parties select qualified women for political offices and then the women voters should go to these candidates and ask them if they stand for women first. If they do, let the women voters pledge their support during the campaign. Both these big organizations have branches in every state. They could work for a half share of representation not only in Congress but in the state legislatures.

"In England they are developing this sense of equality and solidarity of sex more than here. The English women are, perhaps, going to show us the way to get equality."

Sinn Fein and Red Flags Start Riot

ESSEX, Eng., Sept. 5.—Red flags and Sinn Fein flags have no place in church it has been decided upon a Consistory Court at Chelmsford.

Rev. Conrad Noel displayed the red flag and the Sinn Fein flag in his church and caused several riots. As fast as the flags were torn down the Vicar put up new ones, and finally the parishoners of the little Thaxted church took the matter to the Consistory Court.

The Vicar said he was neither a Bolshevik nor a Communist. He regarded the red flag as a symbol of the commonwealth of nations, and the Sinn Fein flag as representing the majority of the Irish nation and the present provisional government of Ireland.

"Don't you think you would get on better if you removed the flags?" asked the Chancellor.

"I don't want to get on. I want to preach the gospel of God as it is," was the reply of the Vicar.

The Consistory ordered the flags removed.

British to Mount "Super-Mammoth"

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Funds to "mount" the newly-found British "super-mammoth are being sought by the British Museum.

This monster, unearthed recently near Chatham, is forty feet long and when mounted will stand fifteen feet high. Experts were six months disinterring it from its bed of clay and it was recovered complete, except for the skull, which, being soft and spongy, had perished under the weight of clay.

Dr. Andrews, one of the greatest living authorities on bones in the palaeontological field, will be in charge of the operations and he estimates that to set the monster up accurately and completely will be the work of six to eight months.

OIL HEIRS MARRIED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The marriage here yesterday of Guy L. Waggoner and Miss Anne Burnett of Fort Worth, heirs to two of the largest fortunes in Texas, was announced today by the bride's mother. The bride's grandfather was the late Colonel Burk Burnett, pioneer ranchman and wealthy oil investor, who died a few weeks ago, leaving her an inheritance of several million dollars. The bridegroom is the son of W. T. Waggoner, ranch owner, oil man and capitalist.

CALIFORNIA CHIROPRACTIC COLLEGE

Oakland Office—207 Pacific Building, Oakland
San Francisco Office—207 Powell St., San Francisco

For the past three years we have been solicited to start a branch of the California Chiropractic College in Oakland, and have finally decided that we will adhere to the call of our many friends, chiropractors and prospective students.

We have secured a splendid suite of rooms which gives ample accommodations in the Pacific Building, and the new term will begin Tuesday evening, September 12th.

You can enroll at any time, and we will give a special course to the practitioners in the field who desire extra work and post-graduate work.

Just Why You Should Enter the C. C. C.

Before entering any professional institution you should look well into its record. Ask yourself, "Is it a responsible institution?" "Does it keep its promises?" "What kind of men form its management and its Faculty?" "Are its graduates successful?" "Has it stood the test of time?" etc.

A little history of the California Chiropractic College and an investigation of the members of its Faculty will convince you that it is the ONE institution in the entire West for you to enter, and that it hasn't a peer in the entire United States—which means the Chiropractic World.

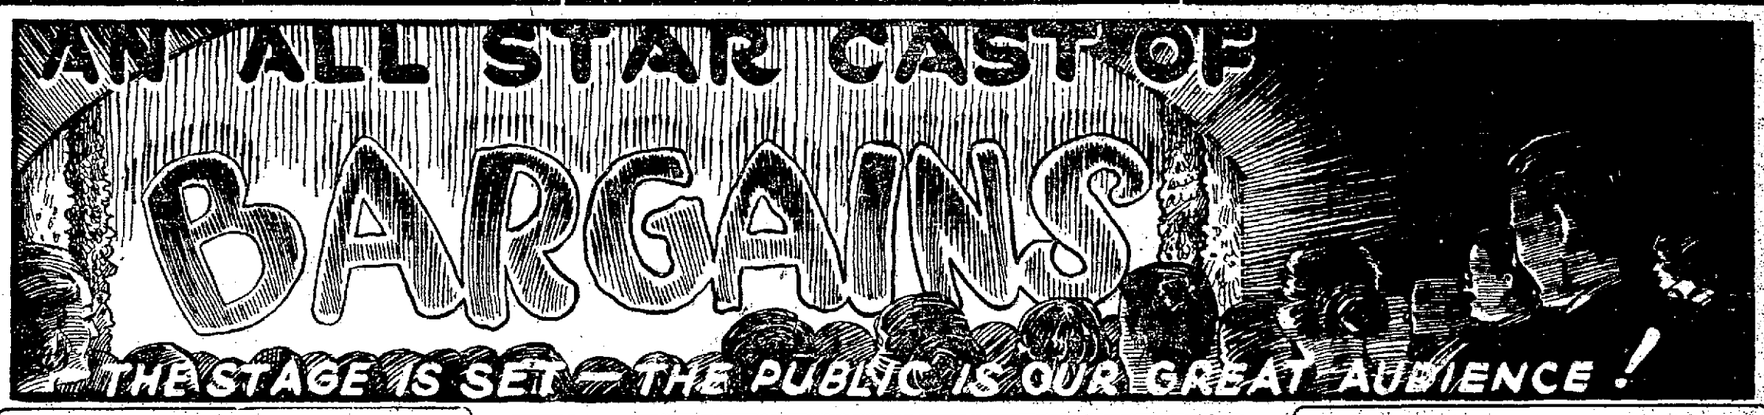

This College was chartered and incorporated by the State of California in 1913, and has been graduating SUCCESSFUL CHIROPRACTORS ever since.

It has graduated more SUCCESSFUL California Chiropractors than all other schools combined.

It has SUCCESSFUL graduates in practically every State in the Union, and also in many foreign countries.

The C. C. C. was founded in 1913 by Dr. A. W. Richardson, who has devoted every working hour of his life practically since 1906 to the practice and teaching of Chiropractic. He is familiarly known as the perhaps, the Founder of Chiropractic on the Pacific Coast, and Chiropractic and Chiropractors of California and the Pacific Coast owe more to him than to any other living man except, perhaps, the Founder of Chiropractic.

Does it not seem reasonable that a man who has spent 15 years in Chiropractic, and has taught so many successful Chiropractors, and who has an eminent and intelligent Faculty associated, can make a Successful Chiropractor of you? Why the C. C. C. "taught" most of the "teachers" as well as the foremost practitioners of the Pacific Coast.—Advertisement.

MARINE BILL GAINS STRENGTH.

Delay in consideration of the Merchant Marine Bill seems to be working in favor of the measure. With the rail and coal strikes before the country President Harding was in no position to go before Congress and urge the passage of a bill he believes vitally important to the welfare of American industry and shipping. Forced to an issue two weeks or more ago, there would have been a question as to the results for a large part of the opposition held doggedly to the belief that the liquor question was tied up with that of the marine. There is time now for sober thoughts, time to consider the formidable endorsements given by organizations in widely different walks of life, and indications point to new support.

There was no reason to hit at American shipping because of one ruling that liquor might be sold without the three mile limit. If that issue be at stake it may easily be settled on its own merits. The great bulk of shipping to be benefited or brought back to the seas by a subsidy bill is that of freight handling and has no interests and no connection with the bar on the passenger liner.

So far 165 chambers of commerce have adopted resolutions favoring the bill with none on record against it. Two large farm organizations are for the measure and two are opposed, a remarkable showing in view of the position of Middle Western farm bodies when ship subsidy has been talked in previous years. The Neptune Association of Masters, Mates, and Pilots, with more than 6,000 members urge speedy passage of the bill and the list of other bodies on record is a long and impressive one. Great Britain subsidizes her shipping and has done so for years. One of her large lines, alone, receives more than a $1,000,000 yearly.

When the merchant marine bill is discussed again it is to be hoped it will be considered in the light of the needs of American shippers and American commerce, that the wet and dry fight will be kept out of the debate, and that the opposition will make no class appeals to voting blocs far removed from harbors or waterways.

BERKELEY'S TENNIS PLAYER.

Miss Helen Wills, school girl of Berkeley, will return to her home in a few days bringing with her a tennis record of splendid victories and more glorious defeat. Four times this girl who is still in her 'teens met Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, the greatest woman tennis player of America, and four times the champion was forced to play with all her powers to win.

Helen Wills knew, most likely, she could not defeat the great Molla. For all of that she did not experience stage fright nor did she frame excuses. She gripped her racquet, bound her bangs back with a ribbon, and took to the courts to do the best she could. In two of the four matches the Berkeley girl took the first set and every minute of all the sets a close and brilliant battle was being fought.

Helen Wills was given the opportunity to play with the country's best players. She defeated all but the best and, in doing so, won the experience of which champions are made. She was the sensation of the tennis world and there are few who doubt that, in a few years, she will be champion. Defeat at the hands of Molla Mallory is no disgrace. There is only one player in the world who has beaten her and experts would be divided in their predictions should the two meet again. The Berkeley girl is the outstanding figure of the coming generation of players. At seventeen she ranks second.

HABIT OF THOROUGHNESS

In a busy world the average man turns our work with a helpless feeling it is not so good as he would have it. In the rush he lets it go and, often, resolves to give more attention to the next task. There is no habit easier to acquire than the careless one and none which works so persistently to the disadvantage of its owner.

Members of Oakland's school teaching staff will do well if they follow the advice of Superintendent Hunter and hold before their pupils this year the idea of thoroughness. A little practice in being careful and thorough, in taking the time to give one's best efforts to the thing in hand, will make a habit, the same habit which has been the secret of many a man's success.

If it be true, as Superintendent Hunter says, the country is growing into shallowness of mind and spirit, the lesson should be taken home by more persons than those in the schools. When it is remembered that some of the most notable Americans account for the positions they attained by the practice of thorough methods there is emphasis added to the timely advice of the Oakland school man.

WHERE PREMIERS FAILED.

Warships of four great powers are steaming toward Smyrna, where the Turks are fighting the Greeks and the lives of many non-combatants are endangered. The order comes from four seats of government and the battleships are dispatched. It is a floating league to enforce peace.

Out of this move toward historic Smyrna may come something of more lasting good. There has been need for a wide attention directed at conditions there and the prediction has been voiced many times that trouble was brewing. Smyrna, right or wrong, is not satisfied with the way it has been governed since the Treaty of Versailles was signed and a mandate was given the French. There have been riots and talk of investigations but nothing has been done. Now, with four nations on hand to protect a populace caught between the fire of the Greeks and Turks, a change in sentiment may come. It is even possible that the plan for a commission from France, Britain, United States and Italy to recommend plans for a better government may be revived. A little sooner than was expected, Smyrna has broken into the news but she still has within herself all the material for another, and a domestic upheaval.

The same wires which carry the story of the congregating warships tell of negotiations between this country and European nations for the mending of world finances. These negotiations, it is said, have been going on for several weeks. There is talk of readjusting exchange and a "gold pool," and the financial world believes something large and constructive is under way.

The meetings of premiers may break up, statesmen may shout across borders at one another, but nothing can prevent a world, scattered in bits, from realizing that in unity there is strength.

A MAN IS CAUGHT.

Police records have a way of covering romance with hard facts. The weak-minded youth who lets his thoughts wander the highways until he imagines himself a Robin Hood and makes mysterious and alluring the calling of the criminal should be given a course in the sorry accomplishments of his heroes. There is a steel door which bangs on the dreams he woos and sometimes it is a bullet which overtakes adventure.

Leo Brennan escaped from the penitentiary and eluded capture. No one knew where he went and doubtless there were many who pictured him laughing at the police. He was a hardened criminal to whom every man had a price. The other day he "kicked in" two stores and went forth to tell a policeman about it. He would go fifty-fifty he said, and ran when the patrolman sought to arrest him. Followed a chase and a bullet which caught him as he perched in flight on the top of a fence. The bad man cried for water and a baby who knew nothing of those marks and manners which distinguish men brought it to him.

Men are asking, why should Leo Brennan bring the story of his burglaries to the police? Does his offer to patrolman John Silver of San Francisco mean this criminal had little reason to doubt the officer would share in his crime or does it mean he was in desperate straits for the disposal of his loot? Anyhow, John Silver was of a different stripe than the man of Brennan's imaginings and the last chapter in a criminal career was written quickly and to the smell of burning powder. Until his capture, Leo Brennan, escaped convict, had been making his home in a large city and he was not caught until he asked an honest patrolman to share in a crime.

For every Leo Brennan, sooner or later, there is a John Silver.

Merced will hold an industrial exposition. The record of progress in Merced in the past two years has been one of which any community could be proud. Given a united backing this exposition will astonish those who are not up to the minute in their realization of the development of a place which is adding to its wealth yearly with the coming into bearing of thousands of acres of crops.

The American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers will meet in San Francisco during the last week in this month. Plans have been made for at least one hundred of the delegates to visit the Comstock lode group of mines at Virginia City. Northern California has mines which would interest this organization and the time for extending the invitation has arrived.

What is needed is an international gold cure for the financially tipsy.

WHADDYA KNOW

Today I met a learned savant,
(Least that's what they call the clan)
Met him by the eucalyptus
Where the Campus Pillars, stand.
Here, thought I, approaches wisdom,
I'll absorb some ere I go;
Quoth the savant beaming gaily,
"H'lo there, h'lo there, whaddya know?"

Most the friends whom I encounter,
Many folks I scarcely know,
Use the same inspiring greeting
Never pausing as they go.
It can't be they are desirous
I should all my knowledge show
For they hasten on regardless,
"H'lo there, h'lo there, whaddya know?"

This I know, some day I'll tell 'em
I am tired of talk like that.
Give me greeting that is proper
Otherwise, please cut me flat.
Here comes Tony Bush the pitcher,
Sure I know him. Watch me, bo!
If I run perhaps I'll catch him
"H'lo there, Tony, whaddya know?"

That is one of the most joyful salutations we know. It is calculated to put new vision in the weary brain, new purpose in the day, and dark and deep thoughts of murder in the mind.

While they are about it why not form a society for the prevention of ruffling one's hair while thinking? This is a habit which mars the appearance of many a man, a worthless, no-account habit which should be stopped. A league to make men press their trousers more often has our support, a dust your hat club and an organization for the discouragement of the pigeon-toe. The trouble with the country is there are not enough of these organizations to look after all of our needs.

Shrined in a rare munificence she lies;

Kindling like flame by rivers mirrored wide
Her fervid beauty to renewed delights,

New York Herald: "Horseshoe or quoit pitching has been played in the United States since Colonial times; it has kept a steady popularity, and when the national tournament open on August 29 at Des Moines at the Iowa State Fair contestants will appear from almost every State in the Union. It will not matter if they have not taken part in a tournament for twenty years provided their arms and eyes have stayed in training. TOURISTS IN PARIS.

To the Editor of The Tribune:

In your issue of August 30, under the caption, "Tourists Are Fleeced in Paris Ticket Agencies," is an article which reflects upon the business integrity of Thos Cook & Son.

Like most such sensational articles it makes a gross misstatement with reference to the deposit receipt issued, one of which I have before me at this moment. Your article says the girl went home and examined her receipt and that on the reverse side was the statement:

"This receipt is issued by Messrs. Thos Cook & Son as agents of the Oberammergau committee, and while doing all in their power to select the best houses in the district they can accept no responsibility. The whole revenue for accommodation belongs entirely to Messrs. Thos. Cook & Co., the only remuneration being nominal booking fees charges to cover their expenses."

The printed conditions of issue read in part as follows:

"Section 1. This receipt is issued by Messrs Thos. Cook & Son as agents of the Oberammergau committee, and whilst doing all in their power to select the best houses in the district, they can accept no responsibility. The whole revenue for accommodation belongs entirely to the villagers; Messrs. Thos. Cook & Son's only remuneration being the small booking fees charged to cover their expenses."

Another misstatement I think is made as to the amount of registry fee. A printed receipt for the amount of the fee is attached to each deposit receipt, and the sum attributed to the statement of the girl is not in accordance with the printed receipt.

Seeing that Thos. Cook & Son have for the past eighty-one years enjoyed the highest possible reputation as transportation agents and bankers in all parts of the world, I should say the general statements made in the article referred to are as untruthful as the one to which I have directed your special attention.

I am writing this, not in my official capacity as Pacific Coast representative of Thos. Cook & Son, but as an employee of forty years, twenty-seven of which I have spent in San Francisco, also as a resident of Alameda. Four very truly,

A LITTLE KNOWLEDGE.

Two Japanese words, very similar in sound and spelling have very different meanings. One means "ridiculous" and the other "splendid."

He mixed them up most fatally, as the following instance will tell.

One day he had occasion to go to felicitate a Japanese colleague of his on the arrival of a new baby.

About YOUR HEALTH

Is Milk Really Good for The Average Grown-up?

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D. Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Not long ago some of the papers printed a press despatch from London which quoted an English doctor as saying: "Never drink milk; it is an unnatural food save for the young. The idea has been handed down through generations that milk is a good thing to drink when you are ill. I think it is the worst thing, and I never allow my patients to have it. It causes constipation, flatulence, a dirty tongue, and leads to rheumatism, headaches and tired feelings. Taken in excess, milk often causes appendicitis."

I wonder why this doctor overlooked cataract, diphtheria, ingrowing toe-nail, falling of the kidney and enlargement of the heart. To mention these diseases as the results of milk drinking would be no more remarkable than to include in his indictment most of the ailments he did mention.

If the doctor will specify London milk as the one and particular milk he is talking about, I will applaud his statement. But if he is speaking of pure milk, especially the pasteurized milk sold in American cities, I must rise in my place to say his statements are absurd. They are opposed to the conclusion of the medical profession and of all scientists who have investigated the nutritional value of milk.

Until very recently, every drop of milk sold in London was teeming with colon bacilli—the germs of diarrhoea, of colitis, of infections of various organs. Ten per cent of samples examined contained germs of tuberculosis. I have no doubt thousands of cases of disease in that city could be traced to this milk. London is now alive to its duty, and the New York city methods of milk control, including pasteurization, are in operation with reference to a considerable percentage of its supply.

There is an occasional person who does not tolerate milk, just as there are many more who cannot eat eggs or sugar, or fish or some other article of food. But as compared with the entire population, the number is very, very small. The average person can take milk, and it is one of the very best foods for children and for adults.

I trust nobody will be misled by the interview with this doctor, because in agreement with many other doctors, I firmly believe the daily consumption of milk in America should be a quart for every person. It would be difficult to think of a greater health blessing than a material increase in the consumption of milk.

In small communities where pure, fresh, properly handled milk can be had from healthy, tested cows, with high grade inspection of herds and dairies, the raw milk may be delivered in such a sanitary way as to be perfectly safe.

Granted that the milk is clean and safe, there is no doubt that it is the one best food for all ages.

L. M. M'KENNEY, EARLY PUBLISHER OF OAKLAND, DIES

L. M. McKenney, pioneer directory publisher of the Pacific Coast, who settled in Oakland when Fourteenth and Broadway was used as a cow pasture, died last night at his home, 695 Twenty-fourth street, at the age of 79 years. McKenney had been failing for some months.

McKenney was the publisher of the first city directory issued in Oakland, and was a pioneer in this field on the coast. He later engaged in the insurance business and was at one time president of the Mutual Benefit Insurance Company. Born in Dixon, Ill., McKenney came west in 1870, settling in Oakland when that city was a straggling village.

McKenney had been failing rapidly since returning a few weeks ago from an automobile trip into the Northwest, on which he accompanied his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McCullagh, the former a well-known Berkeley photographer. Besides his daughter, Mrs. McCullagh, McKenney is survived by a son, F. L. McKenney.

Girl, Grilled Hour, Says No Word On Murder of Rich Seattle Broker

DEATH LAID TO PRISONER BY WARRANT

Seattle Officer Declares Clara Skarin "Winborn" Refuses to Discuss Death of Ferdinand Hochbrunn

Clara Elizabeth Skarin "Winborn," accused of the murder of her great-uncle, Ferdinand Hochbrunn, wealthy Seattle real estate operator, was subjected to a grilling late today by Detective Lieutenant William B. Kent of Seattle, who arrived in Oakland today from the northern city as the result of the young woman's capture here Saturday night.

Throughout the interview, which lasted more than an hour and was attended by Inspector V. J. Coley of the local police department, the young woman, whose "innocent blue eyes" are so distinctive a feature of her that they were responsible for her identification and arrest, refused to discuss in any way the death of her uncle or the charge of murder against her which has grown out of it.

"She would talk about everything else in the world, but she refused absolutely to touch upon that particular topic," Coley and Kent said afterward.

MURDER CHARGED.

Kent brought with him the warrant for the young woman's arrest, sworn to by Prosecuting Attorney Malcolm Douglass of Seattle, and charging her with first degree murder.

She will not be taken north on this warrant, however, as extradition papers, granted today by Governor Louis F. Hart of Washington, are being rushed here in the hands of Mrs. Mabel Herbert, wife of a Seattle detective, who left Seattle today.

Detective Lieutenant Kent today scouted the theory that has been [illegible] murder of Hockbrunn was the work of an accomplice of Clara Skarin.

He said the Seattle authorities are divided between two theories are divided bteween two theories as to the motive for the crime—one, that it was inspired by robbery, and the other, that Clara Skarin killed her uncle in order that she might inherit his half-million dollar estate.

While the accusations against her materialized today into definite murder charges, and while new accusations were being made against her by two local women, who asserted that she had rewarded their hospitality by stealing from them, the young woman with the "innocent blue eyes" sat calmly in the city jail reading "The Winning of Barbara Worth" and bantering with the police.

"I have been under a nervous strain for the past year and I am now taking a rest cure," she explained.

"I have known this was coming for some time," she said. "Also I know that I will be able to clear up everything and return to my work in Oakland. So why become excited?"

At one moment she was gaily telling the police how "mad" she could become at times. "I simply 'see red,'" she declared, "and although such feelings quickly pass away, they always leave me ill."

At another moment she was weeping over a passage in "The Winning of Barbara Worth," with which she is whiling away her time in her cell in the city jail.

At another she was discussing with apparent frankness her life in Seattle, her flight from that city after learning of the death of her nucle, and her residence in San Francisco and Oakland while the police of the country were searching for her.

At still another she was pleasantly throwing an air of mystery around her actions at the time that Ferdinand Hochbrunn, her great-uncle, was being murdered in Seattle under circumstances which, according to the police, have brought her under suspicion.

But at no time did she show signs of apprehension.

THEFT CHARGE MUST "WAIT."

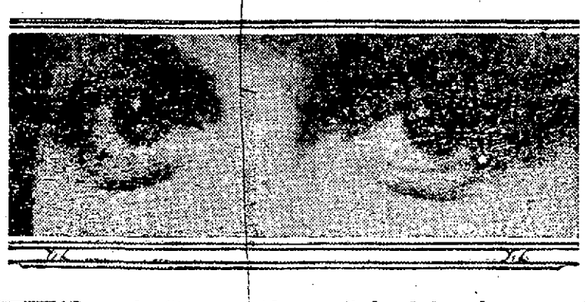

As to the theft accusations made by her former friends, the jaunty woman said that they would have to wait their turn.

"I am accused of murder," she pointed out. "This is no time to think of petty larceny. When this big charge is cleared away, then I will attend to the small ones."

The woman who accused the alleged murderess of petty larceny today were Mrs. J. J. Gardner, 462 Sutter street, San Francisco, and Mrs. E. Westerfield, 2212 Bancroft way, Berkeley.

An Oakland brother of Ferdinand Hochbrunn, the man for whose alleged murder the young woman is now being held here, refused today to become interested in her alleged connection with the case. He is William Hochbrunn, 569 Miles avenue, and he is 80 years old.

Here Are "Innocent Blue Eyes" That Led To Arrest of Girl For Murder

THESE are the "innocent blue eyes" that led to the arrest of Clara Elizabeth Skarin "Winborn." The police were led to her by one who had seen these eyes and "never forgotten them."

Clara Skarin is 26. She denies that she has ever been married and that her name is Winborn.

She is said to have gone under the names of Betty Winborn, Betty Parrish and Lydia Hunt.

She declares that she is not worrying the least bit about the murder charge against her, and spends her time reading a novel, bantering with the police, and keeping absolutely silent regarding her alleged connection with the murder of Hochbrunn.

At the same time, however, she asserts that she has a terrible temper—when she loses it—and that on such occasions she "sees red" until it makes her ill. Such spells, however, do not last long, she says.

Miss Skarin eluded capture for more than six months, although she was working nearly every day, and her pictures and description were published in hundreds of papers. Then she was recognized by her "innocent blue eyes," which nearly all who have seen them describe as "unforgetable."

She is accused of having murdered her 72-year-old great-uncle, Ferdinand Hochbrunn, a retired Seattle real estate man said to have been worth half a million dollars. His body was found last December in a room of his Seattle apartment, where it was believed to have lain for two months.

FOOTLESS AMERICANS PREDICTED

Lack of Use Causing Pedal Extremities to Shrink to Stumps, Says Scientist, Who Blames Automobile

BERKELEY, Sept. 5.—The American people are rapidly losing their feet.

In 1000 years if Americans keep up their present pace, there'll be stumps instead of feet avers Dr. Albert Schneider, head of the Berkeley police school and distinguished scientist.

So lazy have the American people become and so little do they use their feet that their pedal extremities are rapidly losing their identity, declares Dr. Schneider. Too many automobiles and not enough walking are causing present-day feet to be merely things on which to hang fancy footgear instead of araicles of real use, avers the savant.

In the early days our ancestors climbed about on trees and fought their way through jungles: there was a constant use for sturdy feet which caused their development to their present state," says Dr. Schneider. "Now, unfortunately, feet have become ornaments. No one walks. Shoes are worn for style instead of comfort. It is not going too far to predict that if we travel along the present course our feet will degenerate into stumps in not so very many years."

Dr. Schneider, who is conducting a summer course in police work, for members of the Berkeley Department, is working on a "model" shoe for policemen. The present footgear he declares an impediment to police work. Thick, heavy soles and heels instead of aiding the policeman to get a quick start in chasing a culprit hold him back, he says.

A shoe which will combine rubber and cloth instead of being fashioned of inelastic leather has been suggested as a possible substitute. Dr. Schneider has not as yet, however, become staisfied as to what should form the "model" shoe.

TEACHERS TO SEEK SAFETY OF SALARIES

Special Fund to Guarantee Payment For Full Term to Be Urged on Board As Result of Shortage Last Year

At the request of the Oakland Teachers' Association, Superintendent of Schools Fred M. Hunter will introduce tonight before the board of education a resolution that the salaries of all teachers for the full 200-day school term shall be set aside in a special fund, inviolate from any other use.

The move, according to educators, is a result of conditions during the 1920-21 school year, when lack of funds compelled the schools to close earlier than expected, and many teachers lost a portion of their years' salaries thereby.

The resolution of the Teachers' association, according to school officials, would set aside the salary budget in such a way that full employment would be assured the teachers no matter how many other funds are depleted, and the schools can thus be kept open for the full term. The salary fund should be a "fund in trust."

The resolution comes simultaneously with the board of supervisors' appropriation of school funds today for the coming year.

At tonight's board of education meeting it is asserted that a successor to Miss Florence LeGanke, resigned director of the home economics department, will be selected.

CONTRA COSTANS WILL DISTRIBUTE TONS OF FRUITS

Score of Girls Will Give Pears and Almonds At State Fair Tomorrow.

MARTINEZ, Sept. 5. — An attempt to set a state record for attendance for county days at the state fair will be made by Contra Costa tomorrow. Boosting for four weeks for Contra Costa Day is expected to send 5000 persons from this county to the capital. Many will make the trip to Sacramento by automobile, while special train service on two main lines has been arranged for those without machines. Richmond has made arrangements for a special train.

A feature of Contra Costa Day will be the gift of thousands of pears and hundreds of pounds of almonds to visitors at the Contra Costa exhibit. A score of pretty Contra Costa girls will be the distributors. Four thousand of the county's choicest Bartlett pears have been sent to Sacramento for distribution.

The Contra Costa delegation is to form on several of Sacramento's uptown streets and will parade through the business district and to the fair grounds. Every participant will have a banner advertising Contra Costa. Three bands will be with the contingent.

George Upham, director of the Contra Costa exhibit, has entered the Contra Costa booth in competition for a special display prize and is confident this county will be within the prize zone. The booth has a finely finished redwood façade that has attracted much attention.

The day will be a virtual holiday throughout Contra Costa since merchants in many towns have announced that their stores will be closed and the trustees of many schools have announced a school holiday.

Former Mayor of S. J. Dies at Home

SAN JOSE, Sept. 5.—George E. McKee, 84 years old, of San Jose, father of Mrs. F. A. Gummer of Stockton, died Sunday at his home in this city. A former mayor, for many years a member of the city council, police and fire commissions and board of education, he was an active figure in the public life of his community. Until the time of his death he was a director of the First National Bank, a director of the San Jose Water Company, of which he had long been the president, and the president of the Nucleus Building and Loan Association. He was also one of the oldest and best known members of the Masonic order in California. The funeral will be held Wednesday.

Santa Clara Man Is Injured By Saw

SANTA CLARA, Sept. 5.—William Hamann, Santa Claran employed by the Pacific Shingle and Box company of San Jose is suffering from a badly injured right arm as the result of an accident yesterday while Hamann was making repairs on a rip saw at the company's plant. The worker's arm was caught in the teeth of the saw, the limb being severely cut and torn before the machinery could be stopped. Attending physicians stated today that they do not believe that Hamann's injuries will prove serious unless some complications set in.

RIO VISTA NOTES

RIO VISTA, Sept. 5.—Several hundred Solano county clubwomen are planning on going to Vallejo Friday of next week to attend the first quarterly meeting of the Solano County Federation of Women's Clubs, which will be held in the Young Women's Christian Association building, with Mrs. Anna Little Barry as the speaker.

St. Joseph's church was the scene of a wedding Saturday, August 26, when Miss Ruth Allender became the bride of Leslie Fraser. Both are members of Rio Vista's younger social set. They departed Thrusday for a honeymoon trip to Southern California points, after which they will return to make their home here.

Travel between here and the county seat is not as desirable as it might be at present, due to construction work in progress on the highway near Fairfield. Paving is in progress on a two-mile stretch, and for some distance the loose dirt makes navigation difficult.

The Native Daughters of the Golden West will give a dance in Native Sons' hall at Courtland on Saturday, September 16.

Word has been received here of the death of Captain Francis Warren at the Veterans' Home at Napa. Burial took place in the home cemetery on August 28 with full military honors. Captain Warren left here about a year ago.

Mrs. Henry Dirr will take a party of Rio Vista women to the Parent-Teachers' meeting at the State Fair in Sacramento next Tuesday.

Bruce Greig, cashier of the Bank of Rio Vista, made a business trip to Benicia this week.

Campbell Schools Delayed by Harvest

CAMPBELL, Sept. 5.—September 25 has been set as the opening date for the Campbell Union schools. This date is the latest set in the history of the local department for the Campbell schools, but the slow ripening of the fruit, in the harvest of which many school pupils are engaged, made the late date advisable. J. T. Allen, new vice-principal of the Campbell Union High School, has arrived in this city and with his family has taken a house on South Second street. Allen will specialize in the instruction of physical education.

AMADOR VALLEY MAY HAVE NEW $85,000 SCHOOL

Board Proposes Bond Issue of $110,000 For Covering New Union High.

PLEASANTON, Sept. 5.—Plans for the construction of the Amador Valley Union High school, to cost at least $85,000 were considered at a recent meeting of the board of trustees when they adopted a resolution calling for an election to decide whether or not bonds should be issued to the amount of $110,000. It is said that the additional $25,000 will be used for purchasing the site, improving the grounds, insuring the new building and purchasing added equipment.

Decision to call the bond election was reached by the trustees after a meeting at which promdnent residents of the school district expressed their opinions. Present plans contemplate a 240-foot building, the greater part of which will be of one story construction. The center of the building will be two stories high and will provide room for the commercial department. The first story of this part of the building will be given over to a combined auditorium and gymnasium, while in the two wings will be arranged class-rooms, study halls and other rooms needed by the school. The manual training department will be housed in a separate building to be erected in the rear of the school.

The plan of the school is such th should other rooms be needed they can be easily added without spoiling the design of the building. The trustees have set Tuesday, September 26, as the date of the election, and the proposition will be submitted to the people of the school districts concerned. According to a local statistician, with the proposed high school building bond issue and school maintenance, there will be added between $1.70 and $1.80 per $1000 assessed valuation on the property in the high school district. Considering the advantages to be gained it is felt that few taxpayers will object, and that the proposition will be carried with a large majority.

Local friends of Miss Gladys Alsford of Oakland were recently interested to hear of her marriage. The wedding took place at the Curry home, relatives of the bride, at Campbell, and she was united in marriage to Walter J. Cline of San Leandro. A few close friends from this city attended the affair. The bride has many acquaintances in this city, gained during the years that the family lived here.

Farmers in this valley are concerned over the announcement recently made by T. G. McGuire, traffic regulation inspector of the State Highway Commission, in which he states he intends to see to it that those hauling hay and grain over the state highway keep their loads down to the limit provided by law, which regulates the load according to the width of the tires on the wagons. The law permits less than 500 pounds in weight to each inch of width in the wheels. Farmers in this section say they have but short hauls over the highway, and that they cannot be blamed for the serious condition of certain stretches which are constantly being fixed up.

Removes Hairy Growths Without Pain or Bother

(Modes of Today)

It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.—Advertisement.

ALAMEDA FARM BUREAU ASKS $5000 BUDGET

Additional $1000 Intended For Use in Selection of Poultry Expert.

HAYWARD, Sept. 5.—An additional $1000 over the budget allowed last year for the Alameda county farm bureau was asked of the county's board of supervisors today by Russell T. Robinson, county agricultural agent, to make possible the selection of the poultry expert to take charge of the poultry department of the bureau. Should the money be allowed the quota for the bureau will total $5000 for 1923.

It is Robinson's plan, if the additional money is allowed, to departmentize the work of the bureau. Joseph Hamon, at present assistant agricultural agent, will be given charge of the horticultural department, an advisor will be selected for the poultry department and Robinson will take charge of the livestock department and general management of the whole bureau.

Members of the farm bureau and farmers generally are unitedly for the proposal. The work of the poultry department, in bringing about the organization of the Alameda County Breeders Association, which is being adopted by various other counties of the state, and the work of the bureau in successfully combatting livestock and orchard diseases and in systematizing the planting of foliage and truck crops has brought them solidly behind the move.

Hayward Natives Plan For Meeting

HAYWARD, Sept. 5.—Final arrangements for the part of Eden parlor, N. S. G. W., in the convention of the order in San Jose September 8, 9 and 10, will be made at a meeting of the parlor tomorrow night, it was announced today. The parlor has secured headquarters in the St. James hotel, according to Vincent Strobel, president of the parlor.

The Native Sons drum corps, under the leadership of Frank Bogard, will be a feature of Eden parlor at the convention. Bogard was formerly drum major of the Peoria (Illinois) municipal band before returning to California recently.

HAYWARD

HAYWARD, Sept. 5—A finance committee for the continuance of the Boy Scout Fund drive, headed by E. W. Burr and consisting of W. W. Haley and W. T. Knightly, is now arranging for the completion of the drive to raise $3600 for an independent Scout council here. The drive was started last Monday at a luncheon of the Hayward Rotary Club, when 22 men raised $1100, but since that dinner little has been done on the drive, because of the pressure of other affairs here. The drive will be continued from September 11.

It was originally proposed that Hayward should be organized as a part of the Oakland Scout council, but interest here has been so great that leaders in the move have decided to organize an independent council. Hayward Scouts will have their own scoutmaster, their own executive council, and their own court of honor for the awarding of honor and merit badges.

A Hayward Scout camp and other scout activities are being planned by supporters of the move.

Poultrymen to Visit Santa Cruz Flocks

HAYWARD, Sept. 5.—Twenty poultrymen of the Hayward district, including F. C. Steiner, president of the Alameda County Poultry Breeders Association, A. M. Hinman, chairman of the poultry department of the Alameda County Farm Bureau, Henry Boehm and Captain H. S. Bodge, will go to Santa Cruz, September 14 to inspect the Santa Cruz flocks and to compare methods and results with the poultrymen there. Russell T. Robinson, country agricultural agent, will be a member of the party.

It is probable that while on this trip the Hayward men will arrange for a visit of the Santa Cruz poultrymen to the local flocks. The inspecting visits, according to prominent poultrymen, is doing much to standardize methods, bring poultrymen into closer touch and further the interests of the industry generally.

COYOTE HUNTER RUNS ON STOLEN CAR IN COUNTRY

HAYWARD, Sept. 5.—While hunting coyotes on Kaiser creek Sunday George Asmussen of Hayward ran across an automobile that had evidently been stolen, stripped of all its accessories and abandoned. The machine bore the license number 309,598. Kaiser creek is twelve miles east of Hayward.

Frey, council commander. The initiation will be carried out by the camp's drill team, under the leadership of John Simpson, its captain.

Orchardists at War Against Root Borer

HAYWARD, Sept. 5.—Orchardists here are at work on the extinction of the peach-root borer, and are making successful attacks upon the pests, according to Russell T. Robinson, county agricultural agent for the Alameda County Farm Bureau. Robinson said today that each season more orchardists are answering to the offer of the farm bureau, and that the work of the bureau has now so far reached the growers that a majority of them are attempting to eradicate pests and to improve their yield on the recommendations of the bureau.

"It is particularly noticeable this year," Robinson said, "that more orchardists and farmers are using the office of the farm bureau. Past success in pest control and in crop improvement has proved to them the usefulness of the bureau."

San Lorenzo Wreck Victims Are Buried

HAYWARD, Sept. 5.—The burial of the San Lorenzo wreck victims took place here yesterday. William H. and Mrs. Cooper, with their 11 months old babe, William H. Cooper, Jr., were buried from the Pratt home. Interment was at Mountain View Cemetery in Oakland.

Thomas A. South was buried from the Pratt home. Interment was in San Lorenzo cemetery.

RIO VISTA RAZES NOTED LANDMARK IN OLD BUILDING

Erected Fifty Years Ago and Used as First Salmon Cannery, It Must Go.

RIO VISTA, Sept. 5. — The old landmark known as the Butler building on Front street is being razed. It is one of the oldest in this part of the state, having been erected nearly half a century ago and its removal brings interesting memories to the minds of old timers. One old timer, viewing the dismantling process, drew an interesting word picture of the land surrounding the old landmark at the time of its construction, a desolate stretch of prairie along the Sacramento, and the present modern little city with concrete paving, business blocks and modern homes.

Built by R. C. Carter as a tin shop, it was later remodeled and occupied by a drug store, and then was rebuilt on a much larger scale and became one of the leading salmon canneries.

It was the first salmon cannery on the Sacramento river and is said to have been the first in California and one of the first in the United States. The spiced salmon canned here gained a wide reputation. Later the industry was developed in the north on a much larger scale and the supply there being greater the little enterprise gave way to the strong competition and was abandoned. Likewise, the growth of Rio Vista made the building obsolete for commercial purposes and it has been vacant for many years.

Nevertheless it had to do with putting Rio Vista on the map and its construction and removal mark two distinct epochs in local history. It will give way to a modern building.

REALTY BUSINESS IN SANTA CLARA COUNTY THRIVES

Official Records of Fees and Building Permits Point to Prosperity.

SAN JOSE, Sept. 5.—Real estate in Santa Clara county is decidedly on the "up grade," according to a statement this morning by County Recorder D. J. Flannery. Realty business is more prosperous at the present time than at any other time in the history of the county, he says.

"Santa Clara county is more prosperous in practically every way than at any period of its history," Flannery declared, "if the records of my office are any indication of prosperity, and I believe they are.

"The months of July and August are ordinarily dull months — the very dullest of the year in my office—but this year the story is diffeernt. Whereas $1200 or $1400 is a high mark for fees taken in during these months, on an average, business has been booming so in the eral estate business this year that our records show more than $3000 worth of fees taken in during both July and August.

"Ordinarily we have permitted our clerks to go for their vacations during the two months mentioned, and always without difficulty, but this year we have been forced to call upon the board of supervisors for additional help for the office. It is a splendid criterion of good times for the county, and I am confident that the ensuing months will break all records."

Questioned along similar lines this morning, City Building Inspector M. C. Woodruff expressed the belief that real estate conditions were never better within the city of San Jose. Building operations continue on an extensive basis, he said, with indications pointing to even great activity in the tall months.

ANTIOCH NOTES

ANTIOCH, Sept. 5—Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Essig, of Chicago, were here the early part of last week spending a few days with Mrs. Essig's brother, G. A. Knoll, and Mrs Knoll. This is the first time in eighteen years the brother and sister have met.

Mrs. W. W Belshaw and son, Charles, have returned to Antioch after several weeks in Oakland visiting Mrs. Belshaw's mother, Mrs. Shreve.

H. A. West and family have returned from a vacation in the mountains of Tahoe vicinity.

The Women's Guild of the Congregational church will hold a meeting at the parsonage next Wednesday. The Guild is beginning to make preparations for the bazaar to be held in December.

A meeting was held at Walnut Creek recently where thirty members of the Contra Costa Farm Bureau gathered and formed the Poultry Department of the Farm Bureau. The object of the organization is the establishing of the poultry business in this county on a more remunerative basis, for the mutual benefit and education of those interested. Meetings will be held every month and good speakers will be secured and the proper manner in which to select the productive hens will be gone into. A county egg laying contest will be taken up as one means of demonstrating methods of increasing production.

Veterans Make Themselves at Home in City of San Jose

Fourth State Convention of Legion Gets Under Headway

Women's Auxiliary Is Also in Session in Santa Clara Valley City.

By JOHN G. ROBINSON.

SAN JOSE, Sept. 5.—"For God and Country."

A great army of California's finest men, thousands strong, living examples of the universal creed that is theirs, members of the American Legion, Department of California, today is in complete possession of this city.

Arriving from every sector of the Golden State by train, by auto and even by aeroplane, the hosts of Legionnaires today had concentrated and at this hour are in the midst of their second session of the first day of their fourth annual convention, meeting in the auditorium of the San Jose High school.

Simultaneously, in the auditorium of the State Teachers College, delegates to the third annual convention of the American Legion Women's Auxiliary, department of California, are in session, they, too, facing a strenuous four-day program.

San Jose opened her arms and took her guests to her heart today. Formally and informally she welcomed them. The city is theirs.

Promptly at 9:30 o'clock in the high school auditorium, amidst an impressive silence, Department Commander John R. Quinn called the 1922 conclave to order and bade quiet reign as Department Chaplain W. E. Edmonson delivered the solemn invocation, pleading for divine guidance in the deliberations of the Legionnaires.

WELCOME EXTENDED.

This impressive ritual over City Manager C. B. Goodwin bespoke to the assembled guests the official welcome of the city of San Jose He said:

"A welcome direct from the heart is extended by the people of San Jose and this valley to you—Legionnaires—as you assemble here in your fourth annual convention. No one was ever more welcome to this 'Valley of Heart's Delight' than you, 'California's own,' men and women of whom the great state is proud. Sincerely do we appreciate your past services for the nation, and present activities for the betterment of the former service folk and community. California Legionnaires, San Jose and this valley take you to heart. We are yours to command. The city is yours. We are more appreciative of what you have done than we can ever express."

To these glowing words of warm-hearted welcome Department Commander Quinn responded:

"San Jose can not be half so proud to be or host as we men of the American Legion are to be her guests. Your city has greeted us with a riot of color and a warmth of friendship that is dear to our hearts. We shall never forget these days with you and we pray that our accomplishments during our stay in your midst shall be in keeping with the fineness of your greeting."

GOVERNOR SPEAKS.

Governor Stephens was given a splendid reception by the assembled Legionnaires. He was applauded vociferously when, in the course of his brief address, he lauded the soldier bond issue to be voted on at the November election, expressing belief that "continuous effort will put the bond issue over with a great majority." The governor declared himself "proud of the splendid program adopted by California in reward and recognition of what you boys did in the World War."

"I take the keenest pleasure," he said, "in expressing to you, on the occasion of your fourth annual State convention, my official congratulation to you for the splendid membership your great organization enjoys; of its uplifting and patriotic work in behalf of California and the Republic."

The first routine business of the convention took place in the latter part of this morning's first session when the report of the executive committee on special rules and organization was read. This concluded the morning session, adjournment being taken until 1 p. m., at which time congressional district caucuses were held in designated headquarters of each.

ANNUAL REPORT READ.

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the second session of the conclave was called to order by Department Commander Quinn. Reading of the report of the credentials committee, the annual report of Commander Quinn, the annual report of Department Adjutant Morgan Keaton, report of the rehabilitation and Americanization committee and the report of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau were the outstanding features scheduled for the session.

Adjutant Keaton's report will show the American Legion, Department of California, to be "on the right side of the books," financially speaking, for the first time in the organization's history, showing a balance rather than a deficit as heretofore, Keaton's report will otherwise outline the splendid progress of the ex-service men's organization. Department Commander Quinn's report, he stated to The TRIBUNE this morning, would be "exceedingly brief but equally optimistic."

Governor Stephens and City Manager Goodwin were also speakers this morning at the opening session of the third annual convention of the American Legion Auxiliary, after that session had been called to order by Department President Florence E. Kelly. Invocation was pronounced by Department Chaplain Martha Decker. The second session of the Auxiliary convention got under way at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, while from 3:30 to 5:30 P. M. a reception and tea will be staged for the visiting women on the lawns of the State Teachers' college campus by members of the local Auxiliary post, No. 89.

BIG RODEO SCHEDULED

An elaborate program of entertainment has been arranged for San Jose's visitors for tonight, with dances at the leading hotels and clubs and special programs at the theatres.

Tomorrow morning promises to be the outstanding feature of the entire convention program, the great American Legion parade being scheduled for 10 a. m. In this remarkable procession will be found all the glamor and color of the old war days. Scores of bands and scores of drum corps, with uniformed troops of infantry and cavalry will go to make it a memorable demonstration, the greatest in the history of the Legion.

SAN JOSE, Sept. 5.—One of the interesting county weddings of the present summer season was that solemnized in the Presbyterian church at Los Gatos recently when Miss Mabel Creffield, pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Creffield of that placee, became the bride of Louis Klindt of Denver, Colo.

Rev. Wintler, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. William T. Creffield acted as matron of honor, with Miss Edith Creffield, sister of the bride, acting as bridesmaid. Mrs Creffield was gowned in a dress of nile green crepe meteor and carried a bouquet of Cecil Bruener roses with a large bow of pink tule Miss Creffield was gowned in pink crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of asters. Little Betty Roach was flower girl and Master Ralph Creffield the ring bearer.

A reception was held for the bridal party at the Cheffield home following the ceremonies, after which the bride and groom departed on their honeymoon. They are at present in Southern California and plan on visiting the Grand Canyon of the Colorado before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Henshaw were among the many San Joseans spending the holiday at Santa Cruz.

They were accompanied by Mr Henshaw's parents, who remained at the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren B. Reilly returned to San Jose last night after a three-day visit to Santa Cruz.

Mr. and Mrs Lewis E. Bulkeley of Chicago, who have been local visitors for the past four and a half months, are leaving San Jose tomorrow for their eastern home, going via Portland and Seattle. Lost Gems Just Got Lodged in Lining of Coat

SAN JOSE, Sept. 5.—Lost and found! No, not the heading of a classified ad column; just the whole story of Mrs. R. C. Reese's loss of $5000 worth of diamond rings here Sunday.

Mrs. Reese, a guest at the Hotel Vendome here, reported to police headquarters Sunday that she had lost several diamonds rings valued at more than $5000 while attending a local theatre. One of the rings was valued at $3000 alone, it was said.

Immediately the search started. All day Sunday and through the early part of yesterday it continued, with Mrs. Reese becoming more and more distracted at the unfortunate occurrence as time more on. But yesterday afternoon it all ended abruptly when Mrs. Reese donned the coat she had worn to the theatre on the day the rings were lost. Something struck her hand as she was putting on the coat. Excitedly she felt of the coat. In the lining she found the rings, which had slipped through a tiny hole in her coat pocket.

SAN JOSE MAN FOUND IN DAZE

SAN JOSE, Sept. 5.—Police and sheriff's officers of this city today joined hands in endeavoring to solve the mystery surrounding the finding in a semi-conscious condition late yesterday afternoon of G. L. Kelly, 29 West Santa Clara street. The man today is in the county hospital here with a possible fracture of the skull.

Kelly was found by Deputy Sheriffs Earl Hamilton and Louis Dossee lying at the side of the Monterey road near the old San Jose Driving park. One side of his head and face weer battered almost to a pulp and the man was unable to speak.

Treated first at the Emergency hospital by City Physician Paul Sanford, Kelly was rushed to the county hospital, where it was believed an operation might be necessary. Late last night he regained consciousness sufficiently to state in an incoherent manner that he had been "beaten up by a doctor." To date, however, police believe the man was struck by an automobile and left abandoned at the side of the road.

Only an hour before the finding of Kelley, Deputy Sheriffs Floyd Hopping and Louis Dossee found W. P. Horton of 121 White street, this city, in an unconscious condition at the side of The Alameda, near Race street, while his automobile was found wrecked against the doors of the Fowler paint shop, just across the street.

Horton was removed to the county hospital, where it was said his condition is not serious. Officers say the man was intoxicated and that when he drove his car recklessly against the curbing he was thrown to the pavement the automobile continuing on its way, careening to the opposite side of the street.

ANDREW P. HILL, NATURALIST, DIES AT PACIFIC GROVE

Change of Locality Failed to Benefit Man Who Worked to Save Redwoods.

SAN JOSE, Sept. 5.—Andrew P. Hill, known the country over as "father of the California redwoods," beloved by thousands throughout all California, is dead. The venerable nature lover, whose works of art, too, are known the country over, passed to his final rest Sunday afternoon at Pacific Grove, according to information reaching here yesterday.

Hill had been failing in health during the last four months, but his death had not been immediately contemplated. A week ago he was taken by relatives from his home in this city to a cottage at Pacific Grove, in the hope that the change of climate might bring about a change in his health. He failed rapidly, however.

Andrew P. Hill, more than any other one man, was responsible for the creation of the Big Basin in the California State Redwood park that it now is. It was he who started the movement to have the property there set aside as a state reservation and it was he who was the prime factor in the movement in the legislature at Sacramento to secure necessary enactment of laws to safeguard the giant trees of the forests of the Big Basin.

Through word of mouth, through brush and paints, through photographs, Andrew P. Hill sang the praises of the great forests that he loved so well, bringing hitherto unknown fame to the Big Basin country. It was one of his dying wishes that his earthly remains be laid away beneath the perpetual shades of the forest.

Funeral arrangements are being completed by the widow, Mrs. Florence W. Hill, and his son, Andrew P. Hill Jr. of Palo Alto. A second son, Frank E. Hill of New York, also survives.

CITY'S RECEIPTS IN AUCTION SALES STIR ARGUMENT

A resolution to the effect that the income from all city auction sales shall revert to the selling department was adopted this morning by the city council over the opposition of Commissioner Edwards, who maintained that such moneys should go into the general fund, as in the past.

The resolution was caused by the intending sale of certain aged police automobiles. Commissioner Colbourn desired the proceeds to be used by the police department for the purchase of new machines. Following this, it was maintained that sales of property from any other department should bring funds into that department.

Edwards asserted it was a "bad precedent," but it passed.

The city council also adopted a resolution consenting to the assignment of all properties granted in 1919 by the city to the Union Construction Company, which is reorganizing under the name of "Union Construction and Drydock Company" and transfers all assets to the latter concern.

The salary of the city market and food inspector, by an ordinance passed to print, was raised from $200 to $250 per month.

The city attorney was ordered to acquire necessary property for the extension of Georgia street.

The ordinance appropriating $17,000 for the purchase of the Cutting property on Harrison street was passed to print. This property extends the Oakland museum property to Harrison.

HUSBAND IN JAIL, NOT PRISON; WIFE DENIED DIVORCE

The fact that her husband, William E. Johnson, was confined in the county jail instead of state's prison, prevented Mrs. Frances Johnson, 725 Chester street, Oakland,, from securing a divorce today.

Mrs. Johnson alleged in her suit for divorce that her husband had been convicted of a felony. A certified copy of the record of the case was introduced, which showed that while Johnson had entered a plea of guilty to the crime of attempted burglary in the second degree, he had been sentenced to one year in the county jail. This reduced the charge of a felony to a misdemeanor and therefore the conviction is not sufficient grounds for a divorce, under the law.

Superior Judge J. S. Koford decided the case upon the testimony taken before Court Commissioner Clarence Crowell. The couple were married in Oakland July 23, 1918, and separated October 11, 1921.

Bruce Bielaski, former head of the Bureau of Investigation of the American Department of Justice. He was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment.

Martyred President Lives Again in Play

"Abraham Lincoln" relegates for all time that age-whitened axiom that drama must be founded on clash if it is to be drama at all. It remains for an Englishman, John Drinkwater, to set the pedagogical minded by the ears and to rattle the dry bones of rule and rote. The production brought to the Orpheum by Frank McGlynn, last night, creates drama out of the development of character and brings together the work of the historian and biographer only to prove that character. There is clash, to be sure, in the political opposition that beset Lincoln in the seething days of American history, but the drama concerns itself only with the effect of this on the mental traits and processes of the martyred president. The noise of the clash itself is a minor note.

"The story of the American Civil War and of Lincoln's personal career have been told exhaustively and exactly," Drinkwater says in his introduction to the play. "My purpose has been to select from these in such a way as to give, it may be, heightened significance to a certain strain in Lincoln's character and to ascertain movements and tendencies in the human mind that he led and directed."

EAGERLY AWAITED.

Perhaps no stage work of recent times has been so eagerly awaited by this end of the continent. McGlynn's personal triumph, the accuracy of his portrayal have hedged the play about with more than the usual curiosity. Also there is ever a desire to see history enacted and historical characters breathed into action. "Abraham Lincoln" satisfies this desire, which has its birth in school days and persists as long as imagination lives.

It must ever be a moot point that the physical perfection of McGlynn's presentation makes for the entire illusion. The play through which this puppet moves has to do with exposition of character and no mere portrait, no matter what its accuracy, will carry out the illusion. McGlynn must speak with Lincoln's voice, think with Lincoln's mind and create a certain psychological atmosphere if he is to succeed. And those who know their Lincoln say with emphasis that the actor does succeed.

Drinkwater, sensing the criticism that comes when a foreign pen treats of an American idol, meets the onslaught thus:

"It is clear to me that a writer does most honor to his subject in writing, as well as he can of it. And he can only write as well as he can by using an idiom to which he has been bred. In the very few instances, therefore, where a phrase in the play falls unfamiliarly to American ears, I should like to suggest that it is not charged against Shakespeare, for example, that he did not write Caesar in Roman speech. In the present instance, however, the differences are so triing that they are hardly likely to be noticed. For the rest, I can but wish that the play might serve, beyond its chief function of interesting an audience in a theater, to help American people to realize the fundamental meaning that their greatest figure has to an English mind."

OPENS QUIETLY.

"Abraham Lincoln" opens quietly in Springfield, Ill., at Lincoln's house. Neighbors have gathered to discuss the possibility that Abraham will be nominated for president by the new Republican party. They speak frankly and with knowledge of the man and his ways, as neighbors will. The foundation is there laid for the scenes that follow. Each of them reveals a new side of the Lincoln character and the audience watches the workings of great minds and the softness of a great heart. Then comes the final scene in Ford's theater and each individual in the audience feels that he has been taking part in great events.

McGlynn has about him a gathering of notables. John W. Bennett's Seward is faithfully done; Winifred Hanley is Mrs. Lincoln and William W. Crimans, General Grant. The cast is peopled plentifully and plentiful is the talent. Great is the care exercised in staging and costuming.

Patriotic regret that other than an American has painted America's greatest man is softened by the artistry of the English poet.

Old Legendary Drama in Musical Guise Well Given at Auditorium.

The comic opera version of the old legend of Rip Van Winkle was presented at the Municipal Auditorium Theater last night through the medium of the dramatic ability of Ferris Hartman, Lillian Glaser and Hazel Van Haltren, the vocal ability of Lillian Glaser, Hazel Van Haltren and the rest of the company, and the musical ability of Paul Steindorff and his orchestra.

The melodies which are intertwined with the plot are the work of Planquette, composer of "The Chimes of Normandy," and in most cases are eral melodies, with plenty of swing to them, well adapted to the Hartman chorus and the Steindorff players. Among them, "Where Floweth the Wild Mohawk River," sung principally by Miss Van Haltren; "Blow High, Blow Low," Hendrick Hudson's sea song, given by Robert Carlson, and "True Love From O'er the Sea," sung by Lillian Glaser, weer particularly well received by last night's audience.

The costumes and the scenery are well suited to the reproduction of the atmosphere of the sleepy colonial Dutch village, and the mysterious Catskills, in which the events of Rip's strange episode take place.

The chorus, as usual, is well-drilled, well-costumed, and tuneful.

There is more plot, of course, in the comic opera than in the tale with which, as written by Washington Irving and read under compulsion in early school days, nearly every one is familiar.

Without injuring the essential portions of Washington Irving's story, complications have been woven into the simple pattern of the original that give the theater audience something to grow almost tense over, at times. Much of the action hinges on the attempt of the crafty Derrick Van Beekman to acquire Rip's property, first by taking advantage of his inability to read, and later by his twenty-years disappearance. By means of other circumstances and events which have been deftly introduced, the villain is at last foiled to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Holdup Trial Begins After $22 Robbery

Owen Graham, charged with robbery, faced a jury in Superior Judge G. E. Samuels' court today. Graham is charged with having held up a soft-drink place at 471 Eighth street, on July 11, taking $22 from Martin Slattery, the bartender.

At the time of his arrest Graham told the police that he had been drinking jackass brandy at the resort and that he had showed Slattery the contents of his wallet, which contained about $25. On returning to his room he found his money missin, he claimed. He returned to the place and demanded the money, enforcing his demands with a revolver, it is alleged.

MANUFACTURERS TO OPEN SHOW

Interest in the second annual Eastbay Manufacturers Exposition to be held at Idora Park, October 14-22, inclusive, is growing daily.

With a thousand and more manufacturing plants to draw from Roland L. Oliver, chairman of the executive committee, directing the exposition, is confident that the greatest array of factory products ever presented to an Eastbay audience will be on display on opening day, October 14.

Oliver is manager of the California Cap Works at Richmond. Every member of the executive committee is the head of one of the large Eastbay plants. And all are enthusiastic over the plans for the second annual exposition.

The opening date this year falls on Saturday, October 14, which is nationally celebrated as "Candy Day," so the Associated Candy Manufacturers of the Eastbay cities will take over the program that day.

This the candy men are doing with enthusiasm. Extensive plans for a joyous opening are under way. The candy manufacturers have tentatively agreed to distribute tons of candy to the visitors on opening day. Then, too, there will be special awards of various kinds. The candy men are also getting their exhibits in order.

Meanwhile space in the exposition is going rapidly, according to J. S. Martin, manager of the exposition. Martin has headquarters in the Merchants Exchange at Thirteenth and Franklin streets.

BETTER BUSINESS BOARDS TO MEET

With its aims the co-ordination of methods and co-operation of the ten bureaus on the Pacific Coast, the Coast conference of Better Business Bureaus will take place at the Hotel Oakland on Thursday and Friday, September 7 and 8.

The session is expected to bring far-reaching results in advancing the cause of truthful advertising and in protecting legitimate firms and the public against frauds and swindlers. It had its inception at the San Diego convention of the Pacific Coast Advertising Clubs when C. H. Chase, manager of the Oakland bureau, read a paper urging the necessity of closer cooperation between bureaus and the establishment of a central organization centrally located.

Representatives will attend from bureaus at Seattle, Oakland, Tacoma, Spokane, Portland, Sacramento, Stockton, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego.

Strange Cat Misses Up City Detective

(By International News Service.)

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 5. — A new suit and an order of toilet water on Jere Hanrahan, city detective, caused some good-natured "kidding" at headquarters recently. The sleuth finally confessed there was a reason. He was sitting on his porch when a striking-looking black-and-white animal trotted across the lawn.

"Kitty; Here, kitty!" the detective called as he started toward it Then something happened The detective buried his clothes and spent an hour in the bathtub, but the next morning the perfume atomizer was a welcome friend.

Nations League to Seek Worldwide Disarmament

GENEVA, Sept. 5.—These are chief questions scheduled to come before the third session of the League of Nations:

1. Worldwide disarmament.

2. Extension of the Washington arms treaty to all nations.

3. Admission of Hungary, and perhaps Germany, as members of the league.

4. Suppression of opium and white slave traffic.

5. Granting mandates on former German colonies.

6. Canada's proposal to suppress the famous article ten of the league covenant.

By HENRY WOOD.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

GENEVA, Sept. 5. — The League of Nations today planned to launch a practical worldwide disarmament program.

So strong is disarmament sentiment among the nations attending the meeting here that the session may well be considered a second arms parley which will probably enlarge in scope the work of the Washington conference.

The disarmament program will be presented to the league by Lord Robert Cecil The elimination of armament budgets, the suppression of the use of gas, the control of the traffic in arms and other kindred subjects, are to be considered under the program.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

GENEVA, Sept. 5.—The negotiations being undertaken with a view to saving Austria from utter demoralization as a result of her financial distress reached an active stage here today. Leading delegates to the council and assembly of the League of Nations have been engaged in extensive exchanges of views preliminary to the hearing of Chancellor Seipel of Austria by the council of the league tomorrow.

These conversations revealed general agreement that the first step to be taken would be to give political stability to the present Austrian regime, so that the capital that might be invested in the enterprise of re-establishing Austria's economic machine would not be at the mercy of revolution or reaction.

The nations which are neighbors of Austria have been actively conferring with one another and with Austrian representatives It is understood the Earl of Balfour and Leon Bourgeoies of France have discussed the Austrian situation and are agreed on the initial plan of action.

BELGIANS EXPECT U. S. BANK GUARANTEE.

PARIS, Sept. 5 (By the Associated Press).—The possibility of an American bank being asked to guaarntee the payment of six months' treasury notes, which Germany is to give to Belgium instead of cash under the recent reparations decision, was foreseen last night, coincident with the departure of the Belgian delegation for Berlin, where negotiations are to begin Wednesday.

M. Delacroix, former Belgian premier, and M Bemelmans left Brussels last night for Germany, and the other members of the party left Paris. There is no doubt in Belgian circles that the necessary guarantees will be forthcoming, and it is believed the negotiations will be completed by Saturday.

BRITISH PROTEST MANDATE CRITICISM.

GENEVA, Sept 5 —The Earl of Balfour, feeling that criticism was implied in the mandate commission's report on class C mandates, in which the section dealing with the island of Nauru was excepted from general approval, told the council of the league yesterday that he could not accept such criticism

The question involved is the exploitation of the rich phosphate mines of the island for the exclusive benefit of Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand. The mandate for the island was originally given to the British empire, but some of the colonies abandoned their rights, leaving the exercise of the mandate to Great Britain, New Zealand and Australia, alternately.

LOS ANGELES TO RAISE FOXES TO POPULATE ZOOS

(By International News Service.)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5.—Southern California is to have a fox farm.

Forty acres of Government land in the Los Angeles forest reserve have been leased from Forest Supervisor R. H. Carlton by Jacob A. Host, who plans to raise silverback foxes for their fur, for pets, and to populate the zoos

The ranch will be located near Mount Baldy, eighty-two miles from Los Angeles, and will be opened with thirty pairs of foxes which were whelped at the Bear Lake Silver-Black for ranch at Muskegon, Mich., so Host says.

The fox raising industry sounds simple enough, but associated with it as an industry will be the raising of goats, chickens and rabbits, all of which are necessary to the life of the silver-black fox. They will be fed on chicken, goat and rabbit meat; the eggs laid by the chickens and the milk supplied by the goats will be another item of food.

MOTHER OF SIX STUDIES COURSE AT AGE OF 71

(By International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1— There is no end to growth "

"There is no excuse for narrow-mindedness and stagnation, because knowledge is within reach of all."

"These changing times demand new viewpoints, and the woman of today must keep herself well informed as part of her duty as a citizen"

These are three of the guiding principles of Mrs A P Crawford of Greensboro, N C That she has proved her devotion of these dicta is evidenced by the fact that Mrs Crawford, although a college graduate and a Vassar student, is, at the age of seventy-one, taking another course—this time in the summer session of Columbia University

MOTHER OF SIX CHILDREN.

Any mother will testify that the rearing of six children is pretty much of a life work in itself but Mrs Crawford, who is staying at No 420 West One Hundred and Nineteenth street, feels that she lost her job when her children grew up and proved themselves able to shift for themselves

She wasted no time in ruminating over the possibility of the "dangerous age," as did Rose Macauly's women in her recent novel but made up her mind that there were still many things going on in the world that would prove interesting study for a woman of seventy-one

And what do you suppose Mrs Crawford is delving into? Nothing short of Prof Montague's course in radical, conservative and reactionary tendencies in present-day morals and lectures in comparative literature. This oldest student of Columbia certainly responds for her sex to ex-President Wilson's search for "forward-looking" folk as she has chosen just about the most modern subjects one could find in the university's abundant curriculum

The conclusion of the six weeks' course will not find Mrs Crawford satisfied that she has mastered the subjects she is pursuing here, because she intends using the instruction as a basis for extensive reading when she goes back to her home in the South Her knowledge of history, her grasp of philosophy and her thorough acquaintance with contemporary affairs convince her that a new social and industrial order is arising out of the struggles of capital and labor.

WORD FOR FLAPPERS.

In the nation's gradual and steady progress toward the fulfillment of its democratic ideals, she maintains, social and economic ideas considered chimerical when she was young are becoming commonplace now.

This progressive woman has a good word for the flappers Although she believes that girls do not study so diligently as they once did she is in accord with their strivings for freer and broader lies.

Mrs Crawford was a teacher for two years after she had been graduated from the Greensboro College for Women and had spent one year at Vassar, which was then four years old. Her marriage to a Methodist clergyman, bringing with it many home and parish duties, did not interrupt her craving for knowledge. Nor did her occupations at home prevent her from insuring her health by enjoying outdoor life and exercise Associate with young folk, she also advises those who wish to remain young in spits of their years.

Three of her five sons are teachers and two are engaged in business in Winston-Salem, N. C. In Greenboro Mrs Crawford lives with her daughter She has two granddaughters, seven and eight, who are doing their best, by assiduous study, to "keep up with grandmother."

Booze Peddler Tries to Sell to Officers

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 5—Even in this age of the automobile two constables in Whitewater Township could not understand why an old moth-eaten horse hitched to a dilapidated vehicle and standing beside the Elizabethtown-Lawrenceburg pike the other day should attract so much interest from passing motorists. The mystery was solved when the driver of the unusual conveyance hailed them and asked if they didn't want to buy "something with a kick in it" He regretted his initiative as a salesman when the officers flashd their badges and confiscated a gallon jug of moonshine from the back of his cart. The "booze peddler" was before Magistrate Oliver Swisher and fined $100 and costs.

Airplane's Roar Will Guide Pilot to Haven

LONDON, Sept 5—The roar of an aeroplane's engine is now to be used to guide the machine to an airdrome during foggy weather

This is the basis of a new invention wherein an apparatus is used which detects sound waves and shows the direction from which they are coming

With the help of this invention it is asserted that the controller in the airdrome will be able to give the pilot of an airplane flying in cloud or mist exact directions.

WARNING!
To All Housewives

Those who would prevent the permanent selling of milk at 10 cents per quart and 7 cents per pint are making a frantic effort to deceive the public as to the true attitude of the Valley Creamery.

These people say: "So until this unbusinesslike war is over we will pocket the loss and our price will be 10c per quart, 7c per pint." You may draw your own conclusions as to what will happen then.

Committees composed of housewives have been investigating the milk situation of the East Bay for many many months. They found that this part of California has a great over-supply of milk. They found that a large percentage of children and babies were under-nourished for want of fresh milk. They found that the price of milk was being held up without justification and that as a consequence thousands of families were deprived of fresh milk to one degree or another.

In the first advertisement against the Valley Creamery the attackers admitted a surplus of milk existed. It will be verified by the housewives that this is the first time they have admitted that there was a surplus of milk. This admission was left out of the advertisements which followed. Obviously to admit that there was a surplus was playing right into our hands. So now they say that a limited amount of milk is being brought into this community to force some issue with them. We have no issue with them. We are independent of these people and are not desirous of having any connections with them now or any other time.

We are the champions of milk at 10 cents per quart. Our ability to keep milk permanently at 10 cents rests entirely with the housewife and her attitude towards us.

The milk we serve is the very finest Grade "A" pasteurized milk. We also make special effort to pasteurize and deliver our milk the same day. The common practice is to pasteurize milk for delivery the following day. As a consequence, Valley Milk is often as much as a whole day fresher than milk from many other dairies.

You cannot help but be in favor of 10 cent milk permanently and as we are the aggressors in this movement we ask your support by mailing the coupon below.

Eggs
THE HEART OF A HEARTY BREAKFAST

The morning meal always centers on eggs. And it isn't merely habit or custom. It's because eggs are the heart of a hearty breakfast. Eggs are "meaty." Eggs are substantial. Eggs are the difference between a breakfast that carries you through the morning and a breakfast that doesn't. Eat more eggs—and serve them a different way each morning.

Soft Cooked Eggs: Drop the eggs into boiling water; cover the pan and set it where the water will keep just under boiling. In ten minutes the eggs will be soft cooked. Or, they can be put into cold water and when the water comes to the boiling point the eggs will be cooked.

Shirred or Baked Egg: Drop egg in buttered ramekin or custard cup. Cook in a pan of water in the oven. Ramekins may be lined with seasoned buttered crumbs and egg covered with the crumbs.

Fried Eggs: Use enough hot fat to baste the eggs as they are cooking, so a delicate film will be formed over each egg. The fat should be hot, but not hot enough to brown the eggs at once or they will have a bitter, unpleasant flavor.

Eggs Benedict: For each egg allow one thin slice of cooked ham and one toasted English muffin or round slice of toast. Poach the eggs. Put ham on toast, then top with poached eggs and pour over all a well-seasoned white sauce. Garnish with toast points.

My Marriage Problems

Oldelo Garrison's New Phase of

That Robert Savarin saw in my face the disapproval of his reference to stopping Lillian's work if he "ever had any authority over her," I was sure when he caught himself up abruptly, staring at me as if I had contradicted him orally.

But though I had plenty of food for disquieting thought at this unexpected revelation of his attitude toward Lillian's labors both in her profession and in her secret position, it was no part of mine to make any comment upon his speech. I could not agree with him, and—noting his agitation, so unlike his usual gentleness and placidity—I was actually afraid to answer him in any way which he might construe as disapproval of his opinion.

He evidently was determined, however, to elicit some sort of opinion from me, and when for a long minute I remained silent, pretending to busy myself with the rearrangement of the big cluster of wild flowers which Mrs. Cosgrove's veranda always holds, he gave a little short laugh which held anything but mirth in it

"I suppose you think I am planning to be a domestic tyrant," he said, with more than a touch of bitterness. "But can't you see that if Lillian keeps on overtaxing her strength as she has for years that she is either going to be a dead woman or a hopeless, helpless invalid? You are her best friend. I wonder that you do not see it. But you women of that temperament are all alike! You are like young racehorses—you run till you drop and you fight any hint of a rein."

AN EXTRA CUP OF COFFEE.

There was no refuge save in nonsense. I laughed lightly as I put my head on one side, scrutinizing the flowers in front of me.

"You're not a very close observer, Robert," I said, "or you wouldn't put me in the same category with Lillian. I'm incurably indolent. Lillian said only the other day that I was infecting her with the germ. Perhaps she'll come down with a malignant attack of laziness. One never knows. Have you breakfasted?"

That he recognized my attempt to switch the subject I knew by the glimmer of a smile in his eyes, no hint of which, however, appeared in his sober face. But I hailed with relief even this slight indication that his tense, sombre mood was lightening.

"No, have you?" I knew that he meant to include Lillian in his question, and I answered accordingly.

"Lillian and I breakfasted hastily just before she left. But I know she will be as glad as I to have an extra cup of Mrs. Cosgrove's coffee with you if you'll wait for us."

"THERE THEY ARE NOW!"

"That will be delightful," he said courteously, but with the most impersonal perfunctoriness, and I saw that he was watching the road tensely for Lillian's return. That mine would be distinctly a "gooseberry" role at the breakfast table was plainly to be seen. But I did not propose to permit Lillian to face Robert's present mood until she had been prepared for it. I was confident that he had regained sufficient mastery of himself to show her no hint of his disapproval in my presence, and I meant to see her alone before he had any opportunity for a private chat with her.

There was a patter of little feet around the corner of the house, and Junior trotted up to us, closely followed by Marion. The two children had been given their breakfast by Mrs. Cosgrove in order that Lillian and I might have our time free, and they were both in joyous mood, for breakfast in the spacious kitchen is a rare treat to them.

"Where's mother?" Marion demanded worriedly.

"Vere muvver?" Junior echoed dutifully—he is at the stage where he echoes everything impartially—then his little face took on the look which entrances every mother, the look which means a brain process going on behind a little child's eyes.

"Oor muvver don. Mine muvver here," he announced proudly, running into my outstretched arms for an ecstatic hug and a shower of gisses. Robert Savarin drew down on his lap as he answered her question.

"Gone driving!" the child echoed in amazement. "Who took her?"

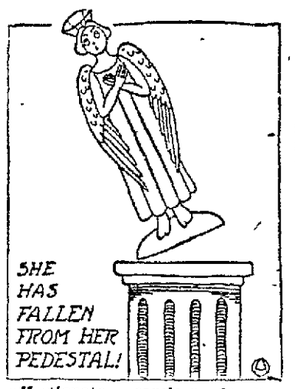

Robert Savarin looked at me, and with a little mental anathema at him, for the undue emphasis he had managed to place on the incident. I answered as casually as possible:

"Colonel Travers of the state troopers, dear, had to see your mother on some business, and they are driving while they talk. They will be back soon. Indeed, there they are now."

Listen, World!

EDWIN CAMPBELL has been married six months and declares that "marriage is a failure." "No, I won't get a divorce," says Edwin, "divorces are such vulgar affairs—but never again will I trust a woman." Sounds shuddery, doesn't it? You'd think that Edwin was the piteous victim of shame, deceit and feminine brutality, wouldn't you? Then you'd think wrong. Here's the story.

Edwin was carefully brought up with a Beautiful Ideal of the Woman He Was Going to Marry. The ideal was delivered to Edwin, custom built, by a gentle, sensitive, highly cultured lady—his mother. She herself was the most perfect example of that ideal Edwin loved his mother and he never questioned the correctness of the ideal she set before him. Then along came Mary and because he was drawn to Mary's hazel eyes, crinkly auburn hair, ringing laugh and kind heart, Edwin fitted her into that ideal with neatness and dispatch and married her.

And now Mary has "failed him." She has been Untrue to His Ideal. For Mary isn't gentle or particularly sensitive. Culture means less than nothing to her young life. She doesn't care for classical music. She'd rather have the latest Sunday Supplement than a Zorn etching, any day. She's just five-footten of rather noisy, athletic, affectionate, careless Reg'lar American Girl, and she'd no more try to fit herself into an ideal than she'd wear one of the hoop skirts Great-Aunt-Elizabeth used to effect. She uses slang. She sees nothing wrong in cigarettes, although she doesn't smoke them herself. She stacks the dishes, instead of washing 'em. She rides in the scenic railway, and she jazzes whenever possible. She isn't punctual, nor tidy, nor fussy. She doesn't want to be a Saint on a Pedestal. She wants to be a Human Partner Down on the Trail. And so—she's failed her husband.

I'd like every professional joketer to read the following letter from a mother and a mother-in-law. It has more love for the world than any letter I have read in a long time. It was written when we were discussing stepmothers and their ability, or lack of ability, to love the child of another. Every child's life is a tragedy—if love be lacking.

"Jerry, Dear Friend:

"Was it a coincidence or deliberate derision the publishing in today's Jerry page letters referring to stepmothers? Be that as it may, you could not have chosen a better subject for discussion on such a day as the one proclaimed by this great nation to be set aside as a paying tribute to mothers.

"Geraldine, I am not a stepmother, but I am a mother and a mother-in-law. As a rule stepmothers and mothers-in-law stand on pedestals, side by side, scarcely above the ground. So I take it for granted that a successful mother-in-law would also possess the qualities for a successful stepmother. The success of the former, true love, pure affection, unselfish mother devotion is required, and without same you cannot succeed in latter occupation.

"My reason for so thinking is this: Where love exists there also is to be found broadness of mind, big-heartedness, tolerance, understanding, sympatny, and forgiveness, not only for the object of your love, but for everyone and everything that concerns him. For the loved one's sake we forgive, we forget. There may be real hurts at times, but would we in turn hurt our loved one? Ah, no! For his sake we tolerate, we understand. So much has been said about, or describing, mother love, but somehow to me love is love, and that says it all. When perfect in character, whether it be mother love, wife love, sweetheart love, its characteristcs are identically the same. When it changes it ceases to be love. Now I leave it to you, Jerry, to give it the proper name, as I am not smart enough for that, and again I might give it a rather ugly name (hell). Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, when women say, 'I love my husband,' they are talking through their heads, most assuredly not their hearts, else how could they act so. Love is a rare bird and I have come to the conclusion that the gift of perfect love is of Divine origin.

"The slogan, 'Love me, love my dog,' about says it all. I say, 'Love me, love my child.' With all due respect for the mothers that have been, that are and will be, I say in all reverence, standing on the highest, worldly or heavenly pedestal, is the woman who has given perfect mother love and unselfish devotion to some one else's child. I have been a very devoted mother to a large family, but today I willingly step aside and, head bowed low, offer tribute to the true and noble mothers of the orphaned child. I speak from experience. It has been my greatest fortune to have known a few personally. That I was made a better mother because of them I must acknowledge, since it is from such great souls that I seek inspiration.

"D. A. B. G."

This is answer to your postscript. I know you will understand that I can't answer some letters as promptly as I would like, but that my love will go out to you just the same.

Somewhere there's a mother who is going to be helped by reading this. Just a commonplace grip from an average life, but it reaches toward a wide horizon:

"Dear Geraldine:

"I don't feel I can give any particular advice to 'Discouraged Mother' or to 'Lonely,' but will give my experience and perhaps it will help some.

"I am a stepmother, also a real mother, and it takes patience, endurance and good common sense and consideration to be either and be the right kind, and it isn't possible for a stepmother to have the same feeling and love for another person's child as it is for your own, for there is a feeling for your own that is impossible to have for some one else's, but you can love and respect if you go at it in the right way, but it takes a lot of backbone and close consideration.

"When I married my husband he had a girl and I had some children also by a former marriage. As misfortune had it, I lost two of mine through death, but everyone said you would have never known but the children belonged to us, for he was good to mine and I to his. My girl is married, but you would think when she speaks of us she was speaking of her own father. He is still at home and everyone thinks she is my own, for she certainly loves and respects me and speaks of me as if I was her own mother, although she positively knows I am not. How did I do it, and did I have any trials? Yes, she is a sweet, lovable disposition, but she also had some very bad features, which I had to learn to control and overcome. She would tell little falsehoods. She was very mischievous and a number of little things that looked like mountains to me, but when I told her to do anything I saw she did it, and if she told me a falsehood I would wait until she asked to do something or said some girl friends wanted her to go some place with them, and I would say, 'Well, you can't go, for mother don't know if they want you to go or not, for you won't tell mother the truth; then she will know what to do. You always know when mother says a thing she is telling the truth.' In this way I broke her from telling falsehoods, and she never tells one now and she is most grown. Did her father ever feel I wasn't doing my duty toward her? Yes. But when he did I would always say, 'I am doing the best I know how, and if you feel you could put her in better hands, that's your privilege,' but she has always stayed with me and after a few years she was as good a child as one would ask for. Today he says, 'If you hadn't have been patient and kind we would have been anything but a happy family.' Yes, I also made her pretty clothes and did all for her I could and as much as I did for my own, but that isn't all it takes. You must be a pal to your stepchild, make doll dresses with them, read story books to them, play ball or tops with them in spare moments and you will be a child with a child, and will win their love and they will love you.

"You say, didn't your own have any faults? Yes, lots of them. She was hard to control in many ways. She was very stubborn and very vain and was very hard to break of both habits, but I won out. Not with a club, but by different methods. When she was stubborn and pouty I just went on as if she wasn't near and made over the other children, which she could not stand, and when she would be too proud and vain I would make her wear some old faded dress or something to play in when the others would be looking nice, and if they said anything to her about it she would have to say, 'Well, mother says I think I look nicer than the others if I have a nice dress, and that would hurt her, so she would say 'Mother, may I wear a pretty dress? I will be nice and not think it is prettier than the rest.' So that is how I broke her of her worst habits, and she has a very sweet disposition now and everyone loves both my girls, but you must be a pal to your own child or to anyone else's and study their disposition and find out what is the best way to handle them, and don't expect to find a grown up head and mind on a child's body, for you can't do it. A child is a child wherever you find them. They will slam doors, look cross and be trying whether they are your own or a stepchild, and don't always be telling their father what they did. Learn to control them yourself, for they will tell their side as well as you will yours.

"Now, Geraldine, if you see fit you may put this in your column if you think it will help.

"With love to you and the gang.
'A STEPMOTHER, ALSO A MOTHER.'"

Geraldine

His Choice

The prisoner—
Stood before the court—
Defiant.
His clear grey eyes—
Never wavered—
As the stern-faced judge spoke—
"Prisoner at the bar—
Stand up.
You have been found guilty of a felony—
For the third time—
What have you to say—
Before sentence is pronounced upon you?"
The old young man's jaw squared—
"Not much—Judge—
I never had a fair chance—
Stealing is the only trade I know—
Deserted when an infant—
Raised in an orphan asylum—
Sent early to a reform school—
Then twice to the pen—
Give me credit—Judge—
I never robbed a poor man—
Only those who would never miss it"—
A smiling soft-voiced man stood up—
Well-poised—satisfied—
"Your Honor—please—
There is good in this man—
If you will parole him—
And place him in my care—
I will provide employment—
And make a respected citizen of him."
For a full minute—
The Judge bowed in thought—
Then—with a hopeful look in his eyes—
Assented—
A week later—the burglar—
Who had never robbed a poor man—
Well-groomed and scented—
Sat in the velvet-floored office—
Of the smiling soft-voiced promoter—
Who had promised the Judge—
To make a respected citizen of him.
And poor men came—and women old—
And pleaded on trembling limbs—
With the smiling man—
For a return of their meager savings—
Intrusted in his care—
But the soft-voiced man smiled—a devil's smile—
And with soft words turned them all away—
The burglar—
Went sick at heart—
And taking his hat—
Went forth into the roaring streets—
That night—late—
Lurking in the shadows of a mansion—
Was the burglar—

Child's History of the HUMAN RACE

by Ratron Coffman

Slaves of the Household

MANY Roman homes contained hundreds of persons. Most of these were slaves who acted as household servants. The slaves did the work and the family enjoyed things.

It was the Roman belief that a slave had no soul. He was treated like one of the lower animals by most of the masters. If he tried to run away, red hot irons were pressed against his face and he was marked forever.

Certain masters were so cruel that they did not deserve the name of men. It is said that a slave once broke a vase, and just because of that was hurled into a pond so he might "feed the fishes."

Other Romans, I am glad to say, showed kindness to their slaves. Freedom from slavery was granted to thousands.

If you could go back to a large Roman household you would be likely to find slaves who were tailors, carpenters, shoemakers, masons and bakers.

Washing clothes was a job the slaves must have hated. One ancient picture shows four slaves standing or kneeling in tubs. Three of them are rubbing and wringing clothes. The other one is jumping up and down so as to tramp out the dirt.

Winifred Black writes about FOLKS and THINGS

REAL VAMPIRES.

Two beautiful women, both rich and both titled, killed themselves the other day in an old palace in Italy.

They were sisters and they died because they could not live without their mother who had died not long ago.

What devotion—what sensitive love! But still — I don't know whether those suicides were such a tribute to the poor woman who is gone, or not.

What is the best thing a mother can do for her children? Bind them to her so closely that they cannot live when she is gone, or teach them to stand upon their own feet like brave, self-reliant human beings, and live courageously and honorably, even though they have to live alone and in poverty or even in illness?

SHE WAS HOMESICK.

I knew a girl once who could not stay in boarding school.

She had the next room to mine and I used to hear her crying night after night. In the daytime she could not eat, and she wouldn't talk with any of the girls or read or do anything but cry.

She was homesick, she said, and finally her mother came and took her home.

And afterwards she married and her husband took her to live in a distant city, but she would not stay there. She was homesick, she said, and back she went with her little boy—home to her mother.

And her husband could not leave his business and come with her, and so he saw her only once or twice a year and she was virtually a widow.

This woman's mother grieved a great deal about this strange situation. She knew there was something wrong somewhere, but she made the best of it, kept her daughter with her, helped bring up the little grandchild and was always sorry for the husband, who tried so hard to make his wife happy in the city where his business was.

What would the daughter do then?

Die, too?

Not at all! She lived and was a good mother to her own little boy, but she sent him away to school very early in life because she did not want him to become so deeply attached to her and her home.

Her husband divorced her, I think, and married again, although there never was any trouble between them except his wife's "homesickness" for her mother and her old home.

I have known mothers to grieve themselves almost to death when their daughters married, and I know a mother today who thinks she is going to die because her son wants to marry.

POOR THINGS!

No, there is nothing wrong with the girl and nothing wrong with the son. The mother is simply a jealous, exacting woman and every time I see the way she acts when her son dares to invite his sweetheart to go for a spin and does not take his mother along, too—I do not wonder that the boy's father died when he was a young man.

Vampire—that's what a woman is clings like that either to her children or to her husband or to anyone else on earth!

When you come right down to facts, the only person who's worth the paring of a finger-nail is the man or the woman who can live alone and be comparatively happy if that seems to be the best way.

If I were the girl who is engaged to the young man with the vampire mother, I am afraid I'd want to have Husband set up in business in some other town before I promised seriously to marry him.

The two women who died rather than live without their mother—the girl I used to know who could not be happy even in her own home without her mother—poor thing! I am sorry for them—but oh! I am sorry, too, for the mother who had to close her eyes and say goodbye, knowing as she must have known, how utterly helpless they would be without her.

ATTRACTIVE RECIPES

Brittany Boiled Fish.

Take a chunk of fish cut from the shoulders of a fresh codfish, weighing about three pounds, rinse in cold water, then fold in a fish-binder. Place equal parts of milk and water in the fish-kettle and add a generous amount of salt. Put in the fish, bring it to the boiling point, then simmer it gently for thirty-five minutes. Lift the fish, remove the binder, place it on a hot dish and garnish with parsley and lemon. Serve a rich drawn butter with the fish.

Watercress Salad.

Wash and clean a bunch or a double handful of freshly-gathered cress, put it in a linen bag and place it on the ice until needed. Wipe the inside of the salad bowl with a cut bud of garlic. Chop one Bermuda onion with a seeded, sweet red pepper and a quarter-cupful of green celery leaves. Mix the salad, toss in French dressing and dust with paprika. Add just enough dressing to moisten the leaves.

CHAPTER 73

Horse and Cattle Thieves

BECAUSE the day of the ranger rider and the cowboy is passing does not mean that cattle "rustlers" have become extinct.

Thousands of head of cattle are stolen monthly from the farms and ranches of the Western and Middle Western states and scores of them are recovered and the thieves punished.

Cattle inspectors of the state and federal government now make it very difficult for the "rustlers" because they inspect all stock before it is shipped or butchered.

I have in mind one clever "rustler" who operated in Santa Barbara county, California. He even established a ranch in an adjoining county where he kept the steers and cows. From here he made shipments apparently as an honest cattleman.

A cattle inspector of the state department of agriculture was going over a big shipment of stock at a slaughter house in Alameda county, when he noticed eight steers that had been cut out from the rest of the stock.

The slaughter house proprietor told him that they belonged to the B O bar ranch and had been shipped in regularly enough but that he did not know why they had not been listed.

The inspector looked the cattle over and sure enough they had a B O mark on them. The brand was so crudely made that his suspicions were aroused. One portion of the scar appeared to be much fresher than the rest. The inspector covered over the fresher part of the brand and what he read was this. 3 C. The thief had changed a 3 C brand to a B O simply by burning lines closing up both the 3 and the C and adding a line beneath. Eventually the steers were returned to their owner and the B O bar ranch owner fled into Mexico.

In San Quentin is incarcerated probably the most unique horse thief in the world. He is a five-time loser and each time he was sent over for stealing the same horse, a draft animal called Dexter.

The convict was first given a light sentence for stealing a beautiful colt from a neighbor. He was intoxicated at the time and he declared that the colt had once been his and that he loved the animal. When he was released he went straight for a while, but shortly after again became intoxicated and again stole the colt.

Finally on the third occasion the prisoner was paroled and was ordered to stay away from the ranch where the colt was kept. Unfortunately, however, the animal was sold and turned over at a dairy where the recidivist was employed. When he recognized the colt (now a grown horse) his joy knew no bounds. He was discharged from his position after a time and took the horse with him.

Imprisonment had begun to tell on him. When released after serving part of his fourth sentence he was a gray-haired old man. For five years he went about the country, working at various places. One day he was in a country town where an auction sale of horses was being conducted. Among the horses offered was Dexter.

The old fellow hovered around the place and when Dexter was put on the block he bid him in. However, the old fellow didn't have the money to pay for his buy and he took the opportunity to sneak away with the horse. He was caught while trudging down the road, leading the great draft horse by the halter.

This man is now in San Quentin serving his fifth sentence for stealing the same horse. If an alienist or psycho-analist were to examine the horse thief's brain he would undoubtedly be able to account for his peculiar conduct.

The cattle rustler, finding it almost impossible to ship his stolen stock under the noses of the inspectors, now resorts to the establishment of his own slaughter house. Under the law he is supposed to save all hides of stock that he kills for inspection, but he may destroy them and sell the meat, leaving no trace. This is the way that the most dangerous class of rustler operates today.

MY FAVORITE STORIES by IRVIN S. COBB

The Light That Failed

An old colored man ,who had been crippled in the railroad service, served for many years as a watchman at a grade crossing in the outskirts of a Kentucky town not far from where I formerly lived. By day he wielded a red flag and by night he swung a lantern. He was conscientious and wide-awake and proud of his position of responsibility and authority and for a long time no accident occurred to mar his perfect record.

Finally, though, one dark night a colored man from the country, driving home from town, steered his mules across the track just as the Memphis flier came through and abolished him, along with his team and his wagon. His widow sued the railroad for damages. At the trial the chief witness for the defense was the old crossing watchman.

Dressed in his Sunday best Uncle Gabe stumped to the stand, took the oath to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth And then, under promptings from the attorney for his side, proceeded to give testimony strongly in favor of the defendant corporation He stated that he had seen the approaching team in due time and that, standing in the street, he had waved his lantern to and fro for a period of at least one minute In spite of the warning, he said, the deceased had driven upon the rails just as the train whizzed across the street

Naturally, the attorney for the plaintiff put him to a severe cross-examination Uncle Gabe answered every question readily and with evident honesty He told just how he had held the lantern, how he had swung and joggled it and so forth and so on So convinced was the jury by his air of sincerity that, instead of giving a judgment for the full amount of damages asked, they awarded the widow only a few hundred dollars—a much smaller sum than the railroad had figured it must pay

After court had adjourned the lawyer for the railroad sought out the old man and congratulated him upon his behavior as a witness

"Gabe" he said, "you acquitted yourself splendidly Weren't you at all nervous while on the stand?"

"I sutfinly was, boss" replied Uncle Gabe "I kep' wonderin' whut wuz gwine happen ef dat white genelman should ax me if dat lantern wuz lighted '

Uncle Wiggily Stories

by HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE GREEN NEEDLES.

"RAT-A-TAT-TAT!" sounded a loud knock on the door of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one afternoon The bunny rabbit gentleman had just fallen asleep after eating lunch, but he awakened with a jump when he heard the tapping on the door

"Who's there?" asked Mr Longears, his pink nose twinkling very fast for he was all alone in the bungalow, Nurse Jane having gone to the moving pictures with Mrs Wobble, the duck, and the bunny thought perhaps the Skillery Scallery Alligator was trying to get in. "Who are you?" Uncle Wiggily wanted to know

"I'm Baby Bunty, if you please," was the answer

"Oh!" spoke Uncle Wiggily out loud Then, to himself, he added "Goodby sleep! I'll get no rest while Baby Bunty is here!" For the little rabbit girl, who had been found in a hollow stump, was a lively little animal, always wanting Uncle Wiggily to play tag or something like that.

"Come on out!" invited Baby Bunty "I want you to come with me, Uncle Wiggily"

"Where to? What's going on? Why don't you come in and take a little sleep with me?" asked Uncle Wiggily as he opened the door and saw Baby Bunty on the steps

"Oh, there's plenty of time to sleep tonight," Baby Bunty laughed "I just heard there was a new family of rabbits who have moved into our woods to live during the winter I want to go see if there are any little boy or girl rabbits with whom I can play, and I want you to come with me, Uncle Wiggily. Come along!"

She caught the bunny gentleman by his paw and fairly pulled him from the bungalow, laughing with glee the while Uncle Wiggily would much rather have gone to sleep again, but there was little use in trying that when Baby Bunty was around

"Well, I suppose I ought to go and call on the new rabbit family," agreed Mr Longears, giving his pink nose a little upside down twinkle to take the sleep from his eyes "Now don't go too fast, Baby Bunty"

"I won't," promised the little bunny girl, but for all that she ran on rather quickly, and Uncle Wiggily had to run also, to keep up And he hurried so that he caught his coat on the sticking-out branch of a tree and tore a hole in it—I mean he tore a hole in his coat, not in the tree, you understand

He caught his coat

"Now I can't go calling on a strange family I can't go with hole in my coat You go along without me, Baby Bunty!"

"No! No!" exclaimed the little rabbit girl "I'll mend that hole in your coat and it will be as fine as ever Sit down on this stump!"

"How can you mend a torn coat when you have neither needle nor thread?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I know where some flax grows," said Baby Bunty "It is from the long fibers of the flax plant that linen cloth and linen thread are made I'll get a stem of flax, soak it in water and pound it until I have a strong thread" The little rabbit girl ran on ahead, and soon came back with a stem of flax bearing blue flowers She soaked and pounded the stem between two stones until she could peel off long threads, and flax thread, you know, is very strong, indeed, for it is linen

"But what will you do for a needle?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I'll get a green needle from the pine tree," said Baby Bunty

Surely enough, all around grew pine trees with long, thin and sharp green needles Baby Bunty fastened one end of her linen thread to a green needle with a bit of pine gum, and then she began to sew up the rip in Uncle Wiggily's coat Oh, but I must have a thimble! I forgot about that!" she cried, as the needle pricked her paw

"There are no thimbles in the woods," said Uncle Wiggily.

"This will do nicely for a thimble!" laughed Baby Bunty, holding up the empty shell of a snail. Surely enough the snail shell fitted over part of her paw, and she could easily push the pine needle through the cloth of the rabbit gentleman's coat.

"There you are—you can hardly see the hole," said Baby Bunty, as she sewed it shut "Now come calling with me on the new rabbits!" Uncle Wiggily had no other excuse for not going and he and Baby Bunty paid their visit, welcoming the strange rabbits to the woods There were a little boy and girl rabbit and Baby Bunty had fun playing with them.

Soon it was found time for Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty to go home. And on their way back the Fuzzy Fox chased them. But Uncle Wiggily, holding Bunty's paw, ran fast, and as they passed under a pine tree with the Fox following, all of a sudden the tree showered down a thousand green, sharp needles These needles fell on the Fox and pricked him very much, so that he howled and yowled, saying:

"Ouch! I guess I'd better not chase Uncle Wiggily any more!"

And he didn't, so the bunny's ears weren't nibbled. And I think Baby Bunty was very smart and cute, don't you?

Neville and Armstrong Lead Field

DEL MONTE, Sept 5—J. F. "Jack" Neville, Oakland, and E. S. "Scotty" Armstrong, Los Angeles, both former champions, topped a record field of 375 golfers in the first half of the qualifying round of the state golf championship tournemane here yesterday. Neville and Armstrong played the difficult seaside Pebble Beach course in 71, par figures.

The pair of old guard golfers of California is credited with giving the finest exhibition ever made in a qualifying round of the championship. Last year Frank Kales led with 74.

Robert Hunter, Berkeley, medalist in 1920, followed with 75. Eric Pedley, Del Monte polo star, was one of the big surprises in coming in with 77 to tie George T. Cline, Los Angeles, for fourth place. Dr. J. H. Stineman, Oakland, had 78. E. H. Seaver and Norman MacBeth, contenders of Los Angeles, ranked well up.

The big upset of the day was the poor showing made by Fred J. Wright, Jr., who was installed as the pronounced favorite. He encountered trouble at two holes and finished with 82. Unless he improves materially tomorrow he may have to hustle to make the championship flight. Dr. C. H Walter, Oakland; Frank D Tatum, Los Angeles, W. W. Campbell, Long Beach; Fitzgerald Marx, Oakland, and Elmer Ralphs, Los Angeles, disappointed their friends by finishing way down the list.

THE LOW CARDS.

Players who figure to qualify by duplicating their scores of yesterday in today's final 18 holes of the qualifying round are: J. F. Neville, Oakland, 71; E. S. Armstrong, Los Angeles, 71; Robert Hunter, Berkeley, 75; Eric Pedley, Del Monte, 77; George T. Cline, Los Angeles; Dr. J. H. St. Louis Boosters to Present Browns With Gold Watches

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 5. — The Browns, upon whom St Louis fans have set explicit hopes to bring to this city the first pennant in more than 30 years, were to be given a public reception here this evening, at which each one of the team members, including Business Manager Bob Quinn, the team's manager, Lee Fohl, and the team's secretary, was to receive a gold watch. City officials and representatives of many civic organizations readily accepted the invitation to be present.

The attendance at yesterday's game was said to have been the largest in the history of the team.

Miss Ederle Breaks Six Swimming Marks

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Apparently only on the threshold of a brilliant athletic career at the age of 15, Miss Gertrude Ederle, a member of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, ranks today among the foremost of feminine aquatic stars as a result of her sensational achievement at Brighton Beach pool in establishing six new world's records in a 500-meter invitation race.

A summary of Miss Ederle's records, compared with the former works, she eclipsed yesterday follows:

Oaks Make It Six Out of Ten Contests

The Oaks and Bees split in the two ball games at the local park yesterday morning and afternoon, the Oaks taking the morning game by a 3 to 0 count, making the second and only times this season that the Bees were shut out. The Oaks handed them the other shutout on the Fourth of July, also on the local lot, Ray Kremer being the pitcher to turn the trick. It was Harry Krause who did it yesterday. The big southpaw heaved a beautiful game, allowing only two base hits, the first in the seventh inning when Vitt lined a hot one which Brubaker knocked down with the tips of his glove. Jenkins batted for Elmer Reiger in the eighth and delivered the other hit which was a clean one. Reiger pitched good ball while he was on the mound, but the Oaks played smart ball in the field and at bat, and were able to beat him.

The morning game gave the Oaks the series, as it was their sixth in a series of ten games. The Bees pounded Orville Eley hard in the afternoon, and they did the same to Herb Brenton, who gave way to him in the sixth. The final count was 8 to 2, the Oaks being unable to touch Art Gould after the first inning, when they made their two runs. In the morning game, the Bees established a season record for assists in a nine-inning game by having twenty-five of them. Henie Sand handled ten. The scores:

Play In Davis Cup Tourney Reaches Finals

Australians Face Tilden and Johnston in Two Singles Matches.

FOREST HILLS, N Y Sept. 5—Favored by a promise of fair weather, the deciding singles matches of the challenge round for the Davis cup tennis trophy, postponed yesterday because of rain, were scheduled this afternoon on the courts of the Westside Tennis Club.

America relies on William M. Johnston and William T. Tilden in its defense of the international cup against the Australian challengers. Johnston will play Gerald L. Patterson, captain of the invaders, in the first match, and Tilden will oppose James O Anderson in the other tilt.

With two matches out of three to its credit, the result of victories in the singles and a defeat in the doubles. America needed but one more triumph to clinch possession of the trophy for another year. The Australians faced the task of having to emerge victorious in both contests to carry the emblem back with them to the antipodes.

Both Americans were strong favorites to win, although the possibility of slow turf, because of rain, was believed to be a factor in Patterson's favor in his match with Johnston.

The brilliant Californian, however, has yet to meet defeat in a Davis cup series and his followers point to the decisive victory he scored over Patterson in Australia in 1920 as a means of comparison. In that year Johnston also beat Norman E. Brookes and with Tilden conquered Brookes and Patterson in the doubles. Last year, against the Japanese challengers, Johnston defeated both Kumagae and Shimizu in the singles and scored his sixth triumph in international play last Friday by defeating Anderson in straight sets.

Browns Only Game in Rear Of the Yanks

Williams Cracks Another Homer; Couch Wins For Cincy Reds.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Rain cancelled the Labor Day activities of the league leading New York clubs, but while the Giants retained their six-game lead, due to the fact that St. Louis and Pittsburgh split a twin bill, the Yankees had their margin reduced to a single game by the St. Louis Browns' double victory over Cleveland.

George Sisler, batting leader in the American league, was the mainspring in the Browns' offensive that brought victories by scores of 12 to 1 and 10 to 3 Sisler rammed out seven hits, including three doubles and a triple, in nine times at bat, scored seven runs and drove in several others

Ken Williams clouted out his thirty-third homer and tied "Tillie" Walker of the Athletics for the American league record

The Chicago Cubs dropped to fifth place by losing twice to Cincinnati, A 4 to 3 and 5 to 0, due to the brilliant pitching of Couch and Keck of the Reds Pittsburgh retained second place by a half game over St Louis by taking the afternoon game, 6 to 5, after dropping the morning tilt, 5 to 3, to the Cardinals.

Faber and Robertson twirled the White Sox to a double victory over Detroit, 3 to 2 and 6 to 3, while Washington and the Athletics divided their double-header. Brooklyn dropped two hard-fought battles to Philadelphia, 5 to 4, in the first game, and 7 to 6 after a sixteen-inning struggle in the second. In the final contest, Behan, a recruit, held the Dodgers scoreless for 10 innings and tallied the winning run in the sixteenth on Rapp's hit.

Twelve feet of pitching stock has joined the Chicago White Sox in the six-foot passengers of Homer "Si" Blankenship, formerly in the Texas-Oklahoma League and brother of Ted Blankenship, a recent addition to the Sox pitching staff, and Cecil Duff, formerly of the Aberdeen, South Dakota, League Cub. Both are right handers.

Chicago Grappler Throws Paul Prehn

CHAMPAIGN, Illinois, Sept. 5—Johnny Meyers, Chicago claimant of the middleweight wrestling title, defeated Paul Prehn, former Iowa wrestler and now wrestling instructor at the University of Illinois, in straight falls here last night. Prehn was the aggressor but lacked strength to hold advantages when he gained them. Meyers won the first fall with a head-scissors and wrist-lock and the second with a head-scissors and arm lock.

Bees Afraid They Are Not To Play Home

Duffy Lewis' Boys Are Billed For Two More Weeks at Home.

By EDDIE MURPHY.

Will Duffy Lewis and his Salt Lake Bees ever return to their home diamond in Salt Lake before the close of the present season? Questions similar to that have been asked frequently in the past week, and some of them came from members of the Salt Lake club. Some of the Bees fear that they are going to be made a traveling club in the league for the remainder of the season, and just for the purpose of testing out the scheme with the idea of working it all next season. Some of the Bees have said that if they are not allowed to play any of their remaining games of the season on the Salt Lake diamond, it will practically kill baseball in the town as far as interest in the Coast league will go.

However, Jack Cook, secretary of the Salt Lake Bees, and Manager Duffy Lewis stick to their words, that the switch was just made so that the team would be in California and able to travel from town to town by machine if the rail strike became too serious. The Bees are scheduled to play at home two more weeks. This week they are playing the Vernon Tigers at Los Angeles. Next week they come here to play the Oaks, and the schedule says they must go home after that and spend two weeks playing the Seattle Indians and the Los Angeles Angels. Then they hit the road for the last two weeks, playing at Seattle and Portland.

If the Bees are to be kept away from home when scheduled with the Indians, they would have to play at either Seattle or Oakland, as the Oaks will be away playing the Tigers. The Angel-Bee series would also have to be played on a diamond other than Los Angeles if not at Salt Lake, as the Vernon Tigers will be at Los Angeles that week playing the Beavers. After all, it looks like the Bees will play at home according to schedule.

CONTENDERS ARE LUCKY.

The San Francisco Seals and the Vernon Tigers, the two teams who appear as the real contenders for the 1922 Coast League pennant, were lucky last week that they both had easy teams to pick on. Each team had a nine-game series and the Seals won eight from the Portland Beavers, while the Tigers took the same number from the Senators. Had either one of the teams been playing a harder team and held to an even break in the series and the other get away with those eight out of nine games, the edge for the lucky one might have become so big that the lead would be hard to overcome. But, fortunately for both, they had easy teams to pick on at the same time.

SENATORS ARE VISITORS.

Charley Pick and his Sacramento Senators arrived here this morning to open an eight-game series with the Oaks. The Senators are in the Coast League basement but are determined to get out and will fight plenty against the Oaks. The series starts today and morning and afternoon games will be played Saturday and Sunday. The Seals and Angels are bound for the Northwest, where they will not get started in action against the Indians and Beavers, respectively, until Thursday. The Bees play the Tigers at Los Angeles.

SEALS GET NEW HURLER.

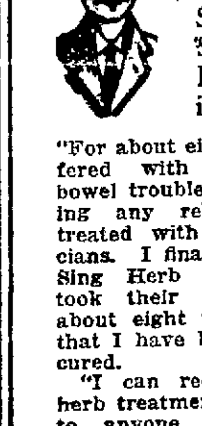

The San Francisco Club has secured another chucker from the Chicago White Sox. He is Al Courtney, a left-hander, who stands six feet and three inches. He comes as final payment on Willie Kamm. Courtney was with the Washington Americans for two seasons.

Bakersfield Rider Wins Championship

DENVER. Colo., Sept. 5.—Jack Greene of Bakersfield, Cal., won the Rocky Mountain motorcycle racing championship here yesterday afternoon when he won the 25-mile feature event at Overland Park. His time was 25 minutes 12 2-5 seconds.

A lap in the lead until the 23d mile of the gruelling grind, John Kreiger of Denver, encountered engine trouble and finished in third place. Paul Warner of Ellsworth, Kan., placed second.

Heart and Stomach Ills Yield to Sing Herbs

That the Sing Herbs prove successful in the treatment of organic ailments is shown in the following letters from John W. Turner, 1626 Webster Street, Alameda, and D. S. Sayer, 1544 Spruce Street, Berkeley, who found relief in the Sing Herbs from stomach and heart trouble, respectively:

"For about eight years I suffered with stomach and bowel trouble without securing any relief though I treated with several physicians. I finally went to the Sing Herb Specialists and took their treatments for about eight weeks and feel that I have been completely cured.

"I can recommend their herb treatments most highly to anyone suffering with stomach or bowel complaint and will be most pleased to tell anyone of the benefit I derived." (Signed) John W. Turner.

"For twenty years I have been a victim of heart trouble which was so acute that for the past fifteen years I have been refused life insurance by all of the insurance companies. During that time I have consulted many doctors without getting relief or hope of cure. Five months ago I consulted the Sing Herb Specialists and began taking the course of treatments prescribed by them. Now my condition is greatly improved and I feel infinitely better. I believe I would be cured today but for the fact that my treatments were interrupted when I left the city for a time. I am continuing the treatments and expect to be cured within a short time now. I feel much better than I have felt for the last twenty years." (Signed) D. S. Sayer.

MERRITT MARATHON RUNNERS WILL BE WELL PROVIDED FOR

FLEET OF DURANTS TO TRANSPORT ALL RUNNERS TO START

Full Facilities of Oakland Y. M. C. A. Are Open to Runners and Will Be on Day of Race

By DOUG. MONTELL

Problems such as never before confronted officials of a TRIBUNE Lake Merritt Marathon, remain to be solved between now and the start of the Tenth Annual next Saturday morning at 10:00 a. m. at the Grand Avenue entrance to Lakeside Park. With a record list of entries enrolled for the big race it will be necessary to provide greater facilities of transportation to the start of the race than in previous years, the doctors will be forced to start to work of examining the athletes earlier than usual and it will be necessary to have perfect co-oporation on the part of all concerned to permit the many routine tasks being handled on schedule in order that there may be no delay in starting the race.

Due to the care which W. A Kearns has taken in lining up the officials for the race, there will be no difficulty in handling the large number of entries at the start and at the finish, adequate checkers and judges having been arranged for to care for any situation or congestion that might result in close finishes

CAPTAIN WADDELL SOLVES PROBLEM.

Due to the co-operation of Captain Waddell of the Durant Motors there need be no worry on the part of the athletes about getting to the start of the race on time. All that will be asked of those who have signed up for the race will be to observe one or two suggestions:

1. That they be at the Oakland Y. M C A. the morning of Saturday, September 3, at 8 o'clock, or as soon after that hour as possible

2. That runners belonging to teams report to the one in charge of the team and that the runners of that team keep together at the Y. M. C. A. until they are examined as a unit and then checked off, be provided with numbers and taken to the course.

It will be impossible, of course; to have all runners examined as soon as they arrive at the "Y," but those who arrive early will have but a short wait compared to what it would be if everyone attempted to arrive at 9 o'clock. This would result in congestion that might delay the start from an hour to two hours. The fullest co-operation of coaches having large teams in the race is, therefore asked in getting their men to the "Y" at an early hour.

RUNNERS ASKED TO COME EARLY.

After having been examined and who desire to avail themselves of the privileges of training there and on the day of the race the Y. M C A will be the headquarters at which all teams will find dressing rooms for them with full privileges of using the showers and swimming pool immediately following the race.

Unattached runners will be taken care of by a corps of officals upon their arrival at the Y. M C. A. upon the morning of the race Everything that can be done for the runners before the start of the race will be taken care of by "Bud" Kearns.

Passed the runners on to the starting place as quickly as possible. A fleet of Durant cars, supplied through the courtesy of Captain Waddell, will adequately handle the runners as fast as they are ready, and in this manner it is expected that the race will get under way on schedule time as it always has for the past ten years.

The important thing to remember is that with such a large number of entries it will be impossible to hold the start of the race for late comers and stragglers. In case the delays occasioned at the Y. M. C. A. through the inability of the examining physicians to examine and pass runners who have showed up at an early hour, allowance will be made to permit those men to be taken to the mark, but late comers who arrive at 9:30 or later must take their chances on being examined and getting to the start of the race on time, although the Durant cars will continue to ply between the "Y" and the Grand Avenue entrance of Lakeside Park until the race is actually started in order to accommodate any who may have been delayed for one cause or another.

THREE MORE DAYS TO GO OVER COURSE.

All that runners need do now is to provide themselves with their own running equipment and continue their trainig over the course for a couple more days. The Y. M. C. A. is still welcomig all runners

GOLF FACTS worth knowing

by INNIS BROWN

Q. Please quote the rule that requires a ball, played on to a green other than the one of the hole being played, to be lifted and dropped or placed elsewhere.

A There is no such rule in the Rules of Golf. However practically every club has a local rule to that effect. All, of course, should have such a rule for protection to the green.

Q. Is there any difference in the way of penalties between a player or his caddie stopping his ball while it is moving, or causing it to move while it is at rest?

A There is this difference in match play Stopping a moving ball means loss of the hole. Moving a still ball means loss of a stroke. In medal play the penalties are the same, one stroke, unless the caddie happens to be standing at the flag and stops the ball, then the penalty is two strokes.

Q If the greenkeeper has been doing work on a sandtrap and a sign "ground under repair" is posted there, is a player entitled to lift his ball without penalty, where the ball stops in a part of the trap on which no work has been done?

A. In equity he should not be allowed to do so. However, cases of this kind ought to be passed on singly, and the local rule to cover the particular case must be known.

Q. A player drives into a water hazard. His caddie picks the ball out and pitches it on to the turf back of the hazard. Without lifting and dropping the player plays the ball where it lies. Is he subject to any penalty?

A. Yes. He loses the hole in match play and two strokes in medal play.

Q If a ball rolls into a water hazard on the near side of the hole, can the player drop out on that side instead of going across and putting the hazard between himself and the hole?

A. No. The rule is plain It requires that the player keep the point at which the ball entered the hazard in line between himself and the hole in dropping.

If any golf rules puzzle you, write Innis Brown, care of our Sporting Editor, enclosing stamped, return envelope.

Youngster Winner in Sculls Singles

BALTIMORE, Sept. 5.—Granville Gude, a 20-year-old youngster of Washington, just out of high school, was the winner in the three events of the annual middle states rowing regatta which was held here over the Spring Gardens course in the Patapsco river yesterday. Pulling an oar only about three months, Gude took the junior singles, intermediate singles and association senior singles

Due to Gude's splendid work, the Potomac Boat Club, whose colors he wore, was able to get four winners over the line. The New York Athletic Club got three firsts and one second; the Bachelors Barge Club of Philadelphia, with a large entry list, took two first places, a like number of seconds and three thirds

FISHING CONDITIONS

Portola—Fishing and weather conditions are good at this point. Many limits reported taken from Feather river, Grizzley creek and Clover creek. Flies of all kinds are being used.

Keddie—Fishing in main and side streams is good. The weather also is good. Best results with flies and grasshoppers.

Pulga—Fishing has not been so good this last week. This probably due to the fact that the weather has been very warm and water is getting low. Deer are reported plentiful in this vicinity and the hunting season opens today.

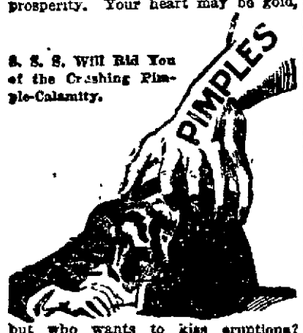

Spring Garden—Fishing in the Middle Fork of the Feather river is very good, however creek fishing is not so good just now.

Paxton—Fishing conditions are very good in this immediate vicinity, but excellent sport can be had at Lake Almanor. Hunters are expecting fine sport on opening of deer season.

GOLF

By W. D. McNICOLL.

More enthusiasm was evident in yesterday's contest at Sequoyah, when all but one of the second-round matches were decided by close margins. A. C. Hibbard and Frank K. Jackson were even when they arrived at the 18th green. Jackson, conceding his opponent one hole up, started off badly, but finally got his irons to working and accepted congratulations at the 19th hole. His opponent for next Saturday will not be known until H. J. Gurrin and Victor Owen settle their contest during the week. T. Harry Smith defaulted to Karl Bracket. One of the best matches of the day was H. W. Edelin's victory over Dr. C F. Jarvis at the 17th green Dr. Jarvis, conceding his opponent 4 holes up, found it hard work to get any of them back unless with par or under scores. The winner hits around the green to his more experienced opponent. Edelin meets Brackett next Saturday and has then to play the role of back marker, conceding his opponent three holes up. Clarence Graham, shooting in the 80s, gave his opponent few chances to win at any of the holes. A three-hole handicap was soon eliminated and a 5-to-4 victory resulted when M H. Turner failed to negotiate several putts for halves. W. L. Webber, who has been neglecting his golf lately, made the game interesting for J R. Buck yesterday when their match was decided in the last green, Buck winning 1 up. Playing on even terms, Geo. H. Dow and Henry Crosby had a most interesting contest for 17 holes.

GEORGE DOW IMPROVING.

Crosby found his opponent a much improved player, and will now expect to receive instead of conceding strokes in their friendly matches. George Rudolph and George Vesper demonstrated how to play all kinds of shots during their interesting match, brilliant recoveries from the rough were played by each in turn. when the hole seemed a gift to his opponent. Rudolph's spoon shot to the 11th from a sliced drive to the rough captured a hole that seemed a certain win for Vesper, who had hit a perfect tee shot, and was nicely on with an iron. Playing the odd he failed to lay his approach putt within holeing distance, while Rudolph was up and in for a par four. After halving the short 12th, which was badly played by both, Vesper hit a tee shot from the 13th that nearly reached the green, but left him with a short pitch, which he topped into the bunker, losing him the hole. Two down and three to go, Vesper won all three holes and the match on the 18th green.

SECOND ROUND RESULTS.

The second round results were as follows:

F. K. Jackson (7) defeated A. C. Hibbard (8) at 19th.

H. J. Gurrin (9) and V. Owen (8) postponed.

H. W. Edelin (8) defeated Dr. C. F. Jarvis (4) 2-1.

C. R. Graham (6) defeated M. H. Turner (3) 5-4.

J. R. Buck (8) defeated W. L. Webber (7) 1 up

George Vesper (6) defeated Geo. Rudolph (8) 1 up.

The Berkeley Merchants added another to the list of pitchers' battle between Hilton, who allowed three hits, and Murphy, who allowed seven. Tom Fee, in left field for the Merchants, gathered in several long drives. K. Barry was the only player of either team to secure more than one. The win was the Merchants' sixth straight They are lining up a fast squad to enter The TRIBUNE Winter league.

THIRTEEN WINS IN ROW.

The Golden Gate Athletic Club nine won its thirteenth straight game by defeating the Allendale Cubs 2 to 1 at Allendale. "Big Cy" Cunningham heaved for the Cubs while Fox did the honors for the Athletics. The latter allowed six hits and fanned sixteen, while Cunningham fanned fifteen and allowed eight hits. Morosco won the game in the seventh with a timely double.

Morvich, Defeated, Retires for Season

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 — Morvich will race no more this season, Benjamin Block, his owner, announced last night after the famous colt was defeated in the fall high weight handicap at Belmont Park.

Block, however, said he still has great faith in Morvich and predicted the Kentucky derby winner would redeem himself in handicap events next season.

Morvich was beaten badly yesterday, finishing last in the fall high weight handicap at Belmont Par, a four-horse race at six furlongs, won by W. J. Salmon's Careful. Prodigious was second and Exodus third. Morvich tired in the last quarter and was more than nine lengths behind the winner.

Clyde Goldwater Wins at San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 5.—Clyde Goldwater, young swimmer of Stockton, yesterday won the outdoor senior men's mile, a national championship event, in easy fashion against three other Pacific Coast swimmers. Goldwater's time was 25 minutes, 2 seconds, which, it was officially announced, tied the coast record.

Goldwater's three opponents were Wallace O'Conner of the Venice Plunge Swimming Association, and Eddie Herzog and Dennis O'Brien, both of the San Diego Rowing Club. They finished in the order named.

With the KNIGHTS of the GLOVES

by BOB SHAND

Jimmy Dundee is training as he never trained before for his bout with Benny Vierra at the Auditorium tomorrow night. Jimmy knows he is going up against a lot of speed and he is not going to be caught napping. But when Bob McAllister declares Vierra is faster than Dundee he gets a come-back from Little Jimmy. "Vierra looks faster against slow boxers but he'll look slow against a fast boxer and the fast boxer is me" said Dundee yesterday "I've seen Vierra in most of his fights and I don't think he is dangerous. I won't be afraid to take a few on the chin from that baby because he can't hit hard enough to fight himself out of a paper bag the way I figure it. I'll play a snare drum solo on his stomach."

* * *

The ringsiders at the Surf club in Alameda, where Dundee is working say Jimmy never looked better. He is making his sparring partners dizzy with his circling tactics and he is punching better than ever. On top of this they say Frankie Murphy has been giving Jimmy some new pointers that he will spring for the first time tomorrow night.

* * *

Bob McAllister is spending a lot of time with Vierra. He does not think his boy will stop Dundee but he confidently predicts that Benny will romp off with the decision. It is not McAllister's idea to sacrifice any of Benny's speed in order to have him hit harder. McAllister knows it will slow him up if he tries to make Benny set himself before hitting and he's not going to take any chances along that line Vierra has done very well on his speed and boxing and can get by without a punch, declares his manager.

* * *

Eddie "Hats" Parker is in the market for another fighter. The Kid has had tough luck with his battlers but he says he is going to keep on trying. They shipped him one from Salt Lake that had ony one good eye, and then they sent him one from Los Angeles that had a bum ankle. Recently he took over Frankie Murphy, the Brooklyn middleweight, and immidiately Frankie developed a case of "pimples" or something. Now Parker and the fighter have split up and Jimmy Dundee is the new manager.

* * *

Promoter Tommy Simpson thinks it will take a dozen extra cars to bring over the San Francisco delegation tomorrow night. The Coffey-Farren contest is the choicest morsel offered the transbay customers in a long time and they are falling for it strong The regular batch of seats sent to San Francisco was sold out in one day and the various agencies are demanding more tickets. The last time these birds met it was a Donnybrook and they threaten to repeat.

* * *

The old timers are pulling hard for Joe Azevedo. Joe has been taking them all on for many years but he is far from being through. He meets Johnny Cline in a return match tomorrow night.

* * *

Willie Ritchie has definitely decided to return to the ring but he says he will need at least three months' training before he will be in shape. According to his present plans Ritchie will box in the east under the management of a New York promoter. The former chap thinks he can clean up $150,000 during the winter, which is more than he can make selling tires on Van Ness avenue.

* * *

Mr. Willard, the other former "champ," who says he wants to come back, is in San Francisco trying to entertain the fans from behind the footlights. Willard provided enough entertainment in his foolish training stunts in the south, but he is being paid this time.

The expected happened at Fort Worth, Texas, yesterday when the referee had to drag Fred Fulton off Willie Meehan in the fifth round Meehan was battered and groggy when the thing was stopped.

Joe Benjamin meets Eddie Mahoney in the main event at Vernon tonight. Joe writes that he would like to box here and he may be given a match within the next few weeks. Ernie Goozeman and Georgie Spencer box the special at vernon tonight.

Carl Morris scored a K.O. yesterday when Sully Montgomery, the big football player from Centre college folded up in the second round. Sully had nothing.

Joe Adams, of Montana will box Muff Bronson at Livingston, Mont. the last of the month

Capt. Bob Roper showed improvement yesterday when he held Billy Miske even in twelve rounds at Oklahoma City. Miske had been knocking 'em dead until Roper appeared on the scene.

Pal Moore gets credit for being a good game guy as a result of his bout with Joe Lynch but Joseph copped the decision and the long-end of the purse. Groggy and reeling in the seventh as a result of scores of right handers to the chin. Moore came back and gave Joe a battle the rest of the route.

On the same card Jimmy Clabby won a decision over Jimmy Darcy and Jack Dempsey man-handled Andre Anderson and Jack Thompson. Jack's bouts were of the exhibition variety.

Best Golfers Are Left in Amateur Play

Thirty-Two Experts Will Be Seen in Action Today at Brookline.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 5—Thirty-two leading American and British golfers who qualified yesterday for participation in the National Amateur championship started today in the first round of matchplay. The course was heavy, due to yesterday's rain.

Jesse P. Guilford of Boston, present champion, whose remarkable 70 in the downpour gave him 144 for the qualifying medal and Marcus Greer of Philadelphia, former champion of the province of Quebec, attracted a large gallery. Another match that was a center of interest was between Willie Hunter of New York, former British champion and runner-up last year in the national tournament, and L. M. Lloyd of Greenwich, Conn. J G. Anderson of New York was matched against Chick Evans of Chicago, former champion, and Bobby Jones of Atlanta against J J. Beadle of Philadelphia.

The fortunes of Cyril J. H. Tolley, best in the medal score of the British golfers, was closely followed in his match with F. C. Newton of Brookline.

Other international matches were: Harrison Johnston of St. Paul vs. T. D. Armour of New York, former champion of Scotland; Rudy Knepper of Sioux City, Iowa, vs. W. B. Torrance of the British Walker cup team; Francis Ouimet vs. C. C. Aylmer of the British team

The tournament committee announced that the same concessions granted yesterday would hold—that balls could be lifted on the putting greens and cleaned and replaced to avoid casual water or embedded lies.

To the Builders of this community

Regained Health After Long Suffering

(Joe Pina)
June 13, 1922.
After having been operated on for a tumor in my neck, I had a cough day and night. My chest was sore all over, and the cut made by the doctors last November did not heal. Each month I became weaker, my breath grew short, and I could scarcely walk; it seemed that I must die.
My brother urged me to try the FONG WAN HERBS at Eighth and Clay streets. Despairing, I began to drink them two months ago. I am now entirely rid of my former complaints and am strong and well. I thank God for this wonderful Herb Specialist, FONG WAN, whom I regard as having prolonged my life. I give full permission for the FONG WAN HERB CO to print my testimonial and photo.

FOO WING HERBS GIVE 24 YEARS GOOD HEALTH
That the Foo Wing Herbs give permanent as well as quick relief from suffering is evidenced in the folowing letter from W. T. Denison of Santa Paula, Calif., who has enjoyed good health for the last twenty-four years, following the recovery of the use of his limbs, which had been paralyzed, as a result of the Foo Wing Herb treatments:
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
Twenty years having elapsed since my remarkable cure from paralysis, I wish once more to state the facts. I was a sufferer from paralysis from November, 1897, to September, 1898, and during that time consulted many doctors, none of whom did any good. I had given up any hopes of ever walking again, but the Foo Wing Herbs completely restored my health. And now after twenty-four years, I am in excellent health, having full use of my limbs, thanks to the marvelous Foo Wing Herbs.

WIFE IS DEPUTY, HE PAYS ALIMONY

DETROIT, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Leoni Pyo, athletic deputy sheriff, has made her first "pinch." She arrested Leo Pyo, her husband, and brought him to court, where he paid Leoni $100 in back alimony and heaved a sigh of relief as Judge Jayne discharged him from her custody.

Mrs. Pyo was specially deputized at her own request in order that she might keep an eye on Pyo until he paid.

The court favored sentencing Leo to the house of correction.

"Don't do that, your Honor," pleaded Mrs. Pyo, "I'll never get my alimony. Just turn him over to me and I'll see that he pays."

Judge Jayne then announced that Mrs. Pyo would be appointed a special deputy sheriff and placed Leo in her custody.

"If he doesn't pay bring him back into court," added the judge. She brought him back and Pyo paid.

"Will you go back and live with her, now that you are free?" asked Judge Jayne.

"Nix, nix, your Honor," Pyo replied.

CHILDREN BORN DURING AERIAL RAIDS ABNORMAL

LONDON, Sept. 5.—A future population which will have a number of abnormal citizens threatens London as the result of the German air raids.

"Air raid babies"—children born under the stress of Zeppelin and aeroplane raids—are now reaching the school age and are coming under observation.

The London County Council educational authorities are finding themselves faced with a problem with these children. It is stated that the nervous systems of these children are unstable, their temper is uncertain, and the number of "difficult" children is great.

In one class of thirty-four air raid children all have staring eyes, as though awaiting some great catastrophe.

Many of these children are found to be incorrigible and have a spirit which constantly causes difficulties for their teachers.

POLICE CHIEF POSES AS GIRL; NABS MASHER

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Corporal Albert Hoom, of West Point, will always take a look under the veil when he offers to escort a girl home in the future, if he has elarned anything from his experience with Police Chief Fred Christoff here.

Christoff told Judge Nelson that he had received complaints from women who said they had been accosted by a soldier on the streets. Ordinary methods of sleuthing failed, and Christoff then donned the latest in girl's clothes and took a stroll.

Hoom came up and asked to escort him home, Christoff told the judge, and continued his advances even after the police official said he was married and had three children.

"After that he put his arm around my waist," said the chief, "and then I hung one on his jaw and brought him in."

Christian Tenets in Daily Life Aim

(By International News Service.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 5.—Dail application of Christian principles in all business dealings, regardless of their nature, has brought increased prosperity and happiness to members of the Business Men's Christian Unity Society of this city, they say.

Invitations have been issued by the association to numerous business men throughout the nation to convene here October 21 and 22. There will be a lengthy explanation of how the practice of the Golden Rule in the commercial world is productive of much better results than the "knifing" process.

WHALE CAUSE FISH FAMINE

GLASGOW.—A famine of fish along the Haddingtonshire coast is attributed to whales which have devoured them.

CANDALARIA TO DOUBLE CYANIDE MILL CAPACITY

Daily Output Will Be Increased From 300 to 600 Tons Under New Plans.

CANDALARIA, Nev, Sept. 5.—On account of increased ore reserves the cyanide mill of the Candalaria Mines Company is to have a daily capacity of 600 tons instead of 300 tons as formerly planned. This will delay the opening of the plant for a few weeks.

MANHATTAN, Nev., Sept. 5—The White Cap mill is handling refractory ore of good value and is roasting before milling. Much experimental work will be done before the process to be followed is determined.

UNIONVILLE, Nev., Sept. 5.—The Unionville Mining Company, owning the Treasury mine consisting of ten claims adjoining the properties of the Universal Silvers Company, will immediately install a 50-ton cyanide mill and prosecute extensive development work. This property is one of the oldest gold-silver producers in Nevada and is said to contain immense tonnage of commercial ore. The proposed operations will be financed by a $100,000 bond issue underwritten by Salt Lake capitalists.

ROCHESTER, Nev., Sept. 5—The Rochester Silver Corporation reports a strike of high-grade ore on the 800-foot level. This company has declared a 2½-cent dividend, payable September 30.

UNIONVILLE, Nev., Sept. 5.—That production might not be interfered with through the threatened coal shortage, the Universal Silvers Company has equipped its mine and mill for oil burning and from now on very little coal will be used. The additions to the Arizona mill initiated by the Universal Silvers a few months ago, are now practically complete and it is expected the mill will again be in operation early this month.

RENO, Nev., Sept 5.—The Middle Mines and Gold Canyon properties at Virginia City have been acquired by the Comtock Merger Mines Inc., a Delaware corporation. Another Delaware company, the Nevada Canyon Mining, has purchased the Berry, Lady Bryan and other properties in the Flowery district. A development fund of $500,000 has been provided and operations are to start immediately.

TONOPAH, Nev., Sept. 5.—The West End Company has started preliminary preparations for the enlargement of its mill. As the income of the company is around $50,000 a month, ample funds are in the treasury for the construction cost.

COMMODITY NEWS

DRY GOODS.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 5—Business prospects are improving throughout the Northwest, according to Twin City business leaders. The wholesale trade in most dry goods lines is larger than it was earlier in the month. Shipments of fall and winter merchandise continue to exceed those of a year ago, and there is a demand for immediate delivery.

HARDWARE.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept 5.—The Mapleton File Company has raised the wages of its employees 16 2-3 per cent and the plant, which has been running five days a week, will be put on full time Sept 5. About 1,200 employes are affected.

AUTOMOBILES.

ATLANTA, Sept. 5.—Reduction in the price of several popular priced cars has stimulated the demand for automobiles here. As a result distributors are extremely busy and one manufacturer has opened a new local agency in one of the outer sections of the city.

WOOL.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Movement of wool from Montana continues to be good, and a fair amount is being received in this market from Wyoming. Several large clips still are held back in western territory, according to reports here. Medium grades are the more active.

STEEL.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5—Steel prices have gone up, and the wage increase in the steel industry has had a beneficial influence on conditions at the plants.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5—Sales of Bessemer pig iron at $36, valley, are reported. Foundry has sold at $31.50 valley. There is very little iron in the market.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Sept. 5.—The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company has cut its open hearth operations to a 50 per cent of capacity basis.

WOOLENS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The American Woolen Company has withdrawn many of its spring lines from the market, and it is expected that in a short time it will be booked complete on spring goods. Independent woolen manufacturers, however, have not booked much more than 40 per cent of enough orders to keep them fully occupied.

BUSINESS TOPICS

Philadelphia, Sept. 5. — A strenuous campaign is being waged throughout the West and Northwest by exporters here to direct shipments of flour to this terminal for export to Europe. Local banks are co-operating. The immense piers owned by the government have been taken over by a terminal company and have been given a capacity for handling ten million barrels of flour a year.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 5—Canvass made throughout the entire middle west indicates the retailers in all lines are going after business through advertising on a scale not hitherto approached this year. The average Sunday paper throughout the middle west has added from 12 to 14 pages to its editions. The bulk of the advertising carried in these additional pages is from local retailers.

KANSAS CITY

BY DICK SMITH.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 5.—Curtailment of freight service to the Missouri-Arkansas fruit section has resulted in big losses to growers.

With local cold storage plants filled to capacity and shipments impossible, many of the farmers have been leaving peaches on the trees or offering them at ten cents a bushel to anyone who would pick them and take them away.

Despite the complaint of farmers of low prices for the products, and the coal and rail situation, the general condition of the basic industries in this territory is exceptionally good. Loanable resources of the banks are at high levels with no extraordinary demand for accommodations manifested. Business failures in the last month amounted to only sixty-one, the smallest total since July, 1891.

Building activities increased 46.5 per cent the past month as compared with August, 1921, and employment in 202 industrial plants in this section was 95.2 per cent of normal.

COAL.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 5.—Coal allotted this section is reported to be en route, but officials are unable to locate it and the anxiety over obtaining winter supplies has been reawakened.

SEAATLE, Sept. 5.—Washington hops will not yield producers more than 13 cents a pound this season, according to present estimates because of accumulation of 1921 supplies in British hands.

It includes the finest business building in Ogden with net earnings averaging $50,000 a year; and a pledge of $6,119,036 of bonds and stocks with assured minimum interest and dividends of $285,000 for 1922. Total earnings are more than twice the interest on all bonds outstanding and for six years have averaged more than 1.85 times maximum interest requirements.

Bonds due annually, 1924 to 1932, to yield as high as 7.35%

There have been 40,310 acres of new vineyards planted in California, exclusive of the Imperial Valley, since January 1, according to a partial report which has just been completed by F. C. Goodwin, manager of the crop contract department of the Sun Maid Raisin Growers. The grand total of all varieties included in the report, which is not complete, shows 400,443 acres of vineyards in the State.

The report includes all raisin, table and wine grape acreages in the San Joaquin Valley, but only partially covers raisin grape planting in Superior California; raisin and black grape plantings in southern California, and does not include black grape acreages north of San Joaquin County nor any of the plantings in the Imperial Valley.

Figures for northern and southern California are not complete. There is a possible 5,000 acres of all varieties, excluding blacks, to be added to northern California and about the same for southern California, not including the Imperial Valley. Complete figures for these two districts will not be available until 1923.

The new report shows a total increase of approximately 100,000 acres over the last report in July, 1921. The report, however, was not as complete as is the new one.

Thompsons are far in the lead in the matter of new plantings in 1922 with a total of 24,484 acres, or about 60.73 per cent of all plantings of all varieties since the first of the year. With the exception of Kings County, where Muscats hold the lead, Thompsons hold a wide majority in each of the eight counties listed in detail. Malagas hold down second place, black grapes third, Muscats fourth, Sultanos fifth and currants sixth. New Feherzago plantings are negligible.

Sultanos, which in the past have always been a popular grape with growers, show an increase of only 826 acres since January 1. Muscats, as the report shows, are also lagging behind other varieties.

Black grape plantings are unusually high, showing that many vineyardists are turning to other than raisin grapes.

The wholesale men say that the volume of trade is fairly normal, but that produce prices are not what they ought to be. Some of them explain the situation by claiming that farming is overdone in some directions; others attribute it to absence of buying power on the part of the consumer to absorb the [illegible] still others blame the railway and other industrial disturbances.

At any rate, the average price of fruit and vegetables is cheaper than since the pre-war period and the supply at a maximum, hence the complaint of many growers and distributors.

Arrivals today included seven cars of watermelons and two of bananas. The melon supply is at maximum and prices are as cheap as handling would seem to justify. Reports from the valley are not encouraging from the growers' standpoint. Tons of stuff is said to be rotting in certain sections because of lack of cars and labor to move it expeditiously.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

A firm tone prevailed at the opening of today's New York stock market. The absence of many traders resulted in relatively light dealings. Shares of coal and grain carrying railroads were in good demand. Chicago and Northwestern advanced 1⅜ points and gains of substantial fractions were recorded by Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific St Paul, Great Northern preferred, Northern Pacific and Erie. Republic Iron and Steel, with a gain of 1⅜ points, led the list of steel shares. Popular copper shares, Utah and Kennecotte, rose fractionally on light dealings. Studebaker opened a point higher, but the other popular speculative favorites, Mexican Petroleum and Baldwin, displayed a reactionary tendency. American Tobacco, up 3 points, featured the list of specialties.

Retail stores reached a new 1922 high at 81¾, Allied Chemical at 90⅞ and Famous Players at 102⅝. Cuban American Sugar sold at its best price on the move at 27. General Motors at 14⅜ reached its best price in two months.

The influence of prospective resumption of anthracite output was effective in causing a brisk demand for Wayne Coal 6s, on the curb exchange, those bonds moving up to 76 against a low of 72 last week. Alden Coal, which sold at a new high record at the end of last week, was in moderate supply and reacted from 63½ to 61. Other coal stocks were generally firm. The motor stocks were the most prominent features in the general industrial group, buying orders coming into those issues on a large scale.

Trading was generally quiet in the petroleum group, Imperial Oil of Canada yielding from 115 to 113 and Standard Oil of Kentucky was traded in at 105½ to 105. Indiana sold at 115 to 115¼. Cities Service showed a steady tone, calling at 196 to 195½. Maraibo was one of the strong features, moving up from 20⅝ to 21½. There were moderate sales in Southern States Oil at 18¾ to 18¼. International Petroleum sold at 22⅝ to 22⅛. Mining stocks were traded in on a large scale, Goldfield Development and Independent Lead continuing strong features.

NATIONAL BANKS ADD 500 MILLIONS TO RESOURCES.

Resources of the national banks of the country, amounting to $20,706,000,000 on June 30, showed an increase of $529,000,000 over the May 5 call and an advance of $188,000,000 over June 30, 1921, according to an analysis of returns by Comptroller of the Currency Crissinger.

Between May 5 and June 30, he stated, resources of national banks in each Federal Reserve district were increased with the exception of the banks in the Atlanta district which showed a reduction of $3,489,000, the amount of increase ranging from $828,000 in the Dallas district to $273,162,000 in the New York district.

Loans and discounts, including rediscounts, on June 30 amounted to $11,248,000,000, an increase since May 5 of $64,000,000, but a second reduction since June, 1921, of $756,000,000. Holdings of U. S. government securities amounting to $2,285,000,000 on June 30 increased by $266,000,000 during the year and by $161,000,000 since May 5, 1922. Other securities held aggregated $2,377,000,000 on June 30, an increase of $115,000,000 over May 5 and of $272,000,000 over a year ago.

National bank circulation outstanding on June 30 amounting to $726,000,000 was reported as the greatest on record, an increase of $5,000,000 since May and an advance of $22,000,000 over June a year ago.

The total deposits of national banks on June 30 aggregated $13,366,000,000, an increase since May of $554,000,000, and since June a year ago of $1,178,000,000.

Liabilities to other banks and bankers on June 30 was $2,953,000,000, a reduction since May of $47,000,000 but an increase since June, 1921, of $465,000,000.

NEW PLAN REPORTED OF C. P. MERGER.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 5.—Railroad executives here today declined to discuss reports from the west that plans are under way for consolidation of the Central Pacific lines with the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, and Chicago, Burlington and Quincy.

TOBACCO.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 5.—Arrangements for marketing a 50,000,000-pound tobacco crop are being completed by the growers affiliated with the Northern Wisconsin Tobacco pool. This is the first cooperative marketing of the Wisconsin crop ever attempted. Bankers will provide $7,500,000 for financing the pool.

TRADE BETWEEN CANADA AND U. S. VITAL TO BOTH

Next to United Kingdom Northern Neighbor Declared Best Customer.

Trade between Canada and the United States is vital to the prosperity of both countries, Faris R. Russell, vice-president of the National Bank of Commerce in New York, believes. Next to the United Kingdom, Canada is the foremost foreign buyer in the markets of the United States, while imports into the United States from Canada are not exceeded in value by imports from any other country except in occasional years from Cuba.

"By the accepted tests of greatness, Canada now ranks as one of the foremost nations of the world" Russell says in the September number of the bank's magazine, Commerce Monthly. "It is immensely rich in natural resources. Its government is stable, its population is thrifty and energetic, and its business leadership has been proved to be of the imaginative type requisite for the organization of modern industry. The banking and currency system is among the best and transportation facilities, both within the country and with other countries are equaled in adequacy only by those of the United States.

CANADA GOOD CUSTOMER.

"Four-fifths of all the foreign trade of Canada is carried on with the United Kingdom and the United States. Considerably more than half of total imports into Canada have long come from the United States, the proportion being slightly in excess of two-thirds in the last twelve month period ending June 30, 1922.

"Canada is in that stage of economic development when population is small in relation to natural resources, and when exports of raw material must pay for imported capital to develop them. In so far as Canada is a producer of raw materials which the United States does not produce in quantities sufficient for domestic consumption, this country is a heavy buyer in the Canadian market. With few notable exceptions, however, the United States is a heavy exporter of exactly those classes of raw materials and food products which make up the bulk of Canadian export trade.

BIG FIELD TO EXPLOIT.

"Despite the growth of manufactures, economically speaking, Canada is a new country and the domestic industries are not able to meet its rapidly expanding requirements for manufactured goods, which constitute a large proportion of Canadian imports. At the same time Canadian manufacturers have already proven themselves able to market successfully a wide range of products in overseas markets. This situation results primarily from the fact that the main industrial areas are southwestern Quebec and southeastern Ontario, and manufacturers there are more advantageously placed in relation to markets outside of Canada than they are in relation to many sections of the Canadian market, which can buy better in the United States, the character of demand being practically identical in the two countries.

GOOD INVESTMENT FIELD.

"Today Canada is probably the most favorable field in the world for investment, comparable only with the United States in the era of its most rapid physical development, from the close of the Civil war to the opening of the present century. Although, as is the case in all new countries, capital must be sought beyond its borders, the capital accumulation of Canada is very great. A Canadian financial journal states that from 1915 to 1921, more than $2,512,000,000 of Dominion, provincial, municipal and corporate securities were sold in Canada.

"Capital not supplied by Canadians has been secured chiefly from investors in the United Kingdom and the United States. From 1915 to 1921 Canadian governmental and corporate securities amounting to $1,194,000,000 were floated in the United States. In addition to industrial securities and government bonds, some United States capital is invested in industrial undertakings not represented by securities issues, and it seems probable that the net total of United States investments in Canada must now be as much as $1,500,000,000."

AUTOMOBILES.

DETROIT, Sept. 5.—While some of the larger and more prosperous automobile plants are going strong, many of the small companies are experiencing difficulty because of the cut in selling prices. With smaller production their costs are naturally higher and as they have been forced to meet the price cuts their margin of profit has shrunk to a greater comparative degree than the larger companies. This has brought about additional merger talk.

METALS.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5.—Washington county, Pennsylvania, last year produced 16,606 milligrams of radium, with a value of $1,993,700, according to figures made public today.

WATERFRONT

During the last 24 hours many vessels passed in through the Golden Gate. Among them were some of the salmon fleet, bringing a total of 107,837 cases. The bark Star of Holland brought 53,680 cases; bark Star of Chile, 28,357 cases, and the steamer Costa Rica 25,800 cases of salmon. Over three million feet of lumber also arrived here, besides several thousand tons of other cargo.

The ship John Ena, 51 days from Mobile, brought 2000 tons of general cargo, and a few tankers arrived from the South with oil cargoes. The schooner Robert R. Hind sailed for Puget Sound to finish her cargo for New Zealand. She loaded part cargo at Oakland Harbor. The Hind has been idle at this port for two years, and is now under charter to take the place of the schooner Henriette recently lost in the South Seas. A large fleet of steamers sailed today with cargoes for all ports.

There are 97 passengers on the Matson Navigation intermediate steamer Manoa, which will arrive Wednesday morning with a capacity list from Honolulu, says a message received yesterday by the Matson Navigation Co. The ship, commanded by Capt. John T Diggs, also has a big cargo, including 71,450 bags of raw sugar for Crockett refinery, 88,148 cases of canned pines, 4018 bunches of bananas, 318 tons of molasses, and 168 tons of plunder.

Canned pineapples are now beginning to be shipped from Hawaiian ports to San Francisco by the hundreds of thousands of cases. The Matson steamer Manoa will arrive tomorrow morning with 88,148 cases, and the freighter Manulani, one of the largest cargo boats of the Matson fleet, will reach this port on the same day with 100,306 more, making the total number of cases for the two ships 188,454.

Another big cargo of raw sugar from Hawaiian ports will arrive Wednesday morning on the Matson Navigation freighter Manulani, which yesterday reported 168,107 bags of that island product, for Crockett refinery. The Manulani is three days late now, having made a stay of ten days in the islands instead of the usual seven, owing to a large amount of sugar awaiting shipment at various island ports. The ship will resume her regular triangular run to Puget Sound and Hawaii next voyage. She omitted it this trip to make up time.

The steamer President Cleveland, which was aground at the mouth of the Yang Tsze River, while enroute to this port from Hong Kong, has been floated and arrived at Shanghai for drydocking. Her passengers were taken ashore by tugs before the steamer was floated. A survey will be made by the Marine underwriters to ascertain the amount of damage done.

During the past week ending September 3 there were 122 vessels arrived, and 123 vessels passed out of the Golden Gate. Among the principal cargoes was 12,321,000 feet of lumber, 2858 barrels of salt salmon, 107,000 salt codfish, 84,071 cases of salmon, 3932 tons of coal, 22,000 pounds butter, 1486 poles, besides other cargoes. This week has started by a large salmon arrival of over 100,000 cases, and several cargoes of sugar, tropical fruits, lumber and other general cargo besides a heavy passenger list. Almost every vessel that sailed from here took away a heavy cargo. There is a large fleet of deep water vessels now loading grain at Port Costa to be delivered at European ports, which will be leaving here as fast as they can be loaded.

The Mexican steamer Guerrero arrived from Mazatlan yesterday, consigned to the William Diamond Company. She will drydock at the Barnes Tibbetts ship yard, Alameda, for a general overhauling, and will then take on a cargo here for a return voyage to her home port.

The British motor ship Lochkstrine, which has been loading part of her cargo at Port Costa, was brought to Oakland Harbor today by Captain William Randall. She docked at the Howard's Terminal to complete her cargo for England. The Randall pilots have been bringing several of the larger steamers to Oakland Harbor recently. The steamship owners save the expense of a tug thereby. William and Clem Randall are pioneer pilots of this port, and have commanded steamers here for many years.

GRANDMOTHERS OF HERO'S CHILD WAR FOR CUSTODY

Miriam Josephine Denicke, Oakland, Wants Decision of S. F. Court.

With her two grandmothers fighting each other for her possession, nine-year-old Miriam Josephine Denicke, of Oakland, daughter of a deceased naval hero of the world war, is today waiting wistfully and helplessly to know who is to be her foster-mother.

On one side the child's mother, who has remarried and is not eligible for legal reasons to act as her guardian, is aligned with her own mother in the latter's endeavor to obtain legal possession of the girl.

On the other, the attorney for the child's paternal grandmother declares that if the girl is adopted by her mother's mother, she will lose the $5000 war risk insurance which was awarded her by the government as the result of her father's death in the naval service.

The issue is to be decided next Monday in the court of Superior Judge Dunne of San Francisco There the contest over the child's future guardianship will be fought by Mrs. George Guldager, 810 Douglass street, San Francisco, aided by her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Miriam Wade, who is the child's mother, and by Mrs. Martha P. Denicke, of Oakland, mother of Miriam Josephine's late father.

Meanwhile the nine-year-old girl who is the helpless center of the conflict, is being taken care of on neutral ground—in a convent at San Jose.

The child is the daughter of the late A. C. Denicke, a naval gunner who lost his life during the World War. He is buried in the military cemetery at the Presidio in San Francisco. He was at one time a member of the San Jose Board of Education, and was a political leader of the Democratic party in Santa Clara county for many years.

Denicke and his wife were divorced in 1919, and the latter was awarded custody of Miriam Josephine, their only child. Later, Mrs. Denicke married William Wade, with whom she now lives at 586 Jersey street, San Francisco.

According to Mrs. Guldager, the child's maternal grandmother, she had custody of Miriam Josphine until some months ago, when it became necessary for her to take a trip East. During that time the Denickes, she said, took care of the child. When she returned they refused to give the child up to her, she said. The contest is now to determine who is to have permanent custody of the young girl.

They'll Sell Oakland in Song

Vocalists Will Launch Song Boost for 'Welcome Week'

Fifteen press agents—fifteen more to add to the vast army which has operated in the bay cities for years—are going to be turned loose on the Oakland and Eastbay public for a whole week.

Furthermore, the press-agents are musical ones, trained to sing, carol and yodel. Their job is not to exploit the beauties of movie star, burlesque queen, real estate boom or tooth paste. Their task is to press-agent for Oakland and its attractions, by means of blithesome song.

They will appear in every theater in Oakland during the week, to sing the "Oakland" song dedicated to "Welcome to Oakland" week and set to music by Jack Joy, leader of the Century theater orchestra. Those who have heard the song assert that Joy's music is good. The fifteen press agents will "cover" the entire Eastbay, appearing at each performance at each theater. The words of the song will be set forth on slides in the theaters.

This troupe of musical press-agents will include a 65-year-old singer, Morris Schindler, who has agreed to sing the "Welcome" song as a boost for his city.

SONG IS BOOKED.

Manager Eugene L. Perry of the Franklin theater has "booked" the singers throughout the theaters and assisted in the writing of the poem. Perry, however, let the music alone, as Joy is a competent musician.

The first "gun" in the campaign will be tonight at the chamber of commerce, when the song will be sung at the "Welcome to Oakland" week smoker.

The purpose of "Welcome to Oakland" week, as sponsored by the business men of the city, is to induce residents and neighbors alike to get acquainted with Oakland and its business possibilities. During the week of September 11 to 16, the city will be on display and all the merchants will extend themselves to make visitors welcome.

All these facts, and a few others, are incorporated in the "Welcome" song which will be sung all over the Eastbay. Few songs, it is admitted, have attempted to cram so much information and so many names, dates and statistics into two short stanzas.

HEARD IN THEATERS.

The song will be sung even in the august atmosphere of a great drama at one of the downtown theaters, concerning America's greatest figure. It will jingle in a vaudeville house, just between the movies and the acrobats. It will be sung and played in a big motion picture house, just preceding the great heart-throb drama of the program. It will be interpolated into the exquisite music of Balfe at the Auditorium, but not too intimately, being relegated to a position between the acts. It will also be used at smokers, such as at the chamber of commerce tonight, and at lodge meetings.

According to the composers, they are willing to have it used on the family pianola, on the phonographs, or even on hand organs.

"What we want," they say, "is circulation."

Among the musicians who will assist in circulating the "Welcome" song are Florence R. Berrie Marie Luette, H. C. Morris, R. W. Icanberry, Mrs. L. Cote, Mrs. N. C. Phillips, Miss Annie Kennedy, Mrs. M. Taylor, Mrs. F. I. Everett, and Miss Nadine W. Shepherd.

University Regents Win Court Decision

Superior Judge J. S. Koford today signed a judgment in favor of the regents of the University of California in the suit of Stanley Davie against the board and Dr. Robert T. Legge. The judgment was rendered following the court's action in sustaining a demurrer on the part of the regents.

The plaintiff was given ten days to answer and failed to do so whereupon judgment was taken against him by the regents. This leaves the damage suit as one between Davie and Dr. Legge. The plaintiff alleged in his original complaint that he sustained permanent injuries as the result of a tonsil operation performed by the doctor while Davie was a patient in the university infirmary.

All Assessments in Alameda Stand

ALAMEDA, Sept. 5.—The Alameda Board of Equalization met in the council chambers of the city [illegible] There were no complaints in regard to the assessment set by City Assessor Fred J. Croll despite the fact that $25,000,000 worth of property had been assessed by him. There were 12,000 tax payers entitled to make a complaint if they found objection to the assessment.

In adjourning the meeting Mayor Frank Otis announced that it had been many years since there had been a complaint received from any citizen in regard to the assessment set by Croll. In fact, when asked when the last complaint had been received the board was unable to locate it because of the many years that had elapsed since its receipt. The Board of Equalization consists of the mayor, the councilmen, City Clerk William Varcoe and City Assessor Croll.

PRIZES PROPOSED FOR LAKE LIGHTS CHAIN OF POLES

Artists, Architects and Designers to Discuss Work at Luncheon.

Artists, architects and designers interested in the "necklace of light" around Lake Merritt will gather at luncheon tomorrow at Richards' and decide various matters concerning the pole line around Lake Merritt, including the advisability of offering prizes of considerable value for the best design for a permanent light pole.

Tentative suggestions have already been made by Landscape Architect Howard Gilkey, who suggests giving away $500 for prizes for the best designs for poles, with a $250 prize for the winner. He plans that each contestant shall draw to a standard scale, such as ¾ inches to the foot, so that all designs will be alike in size.

It is suggested that the material for the poles shall be glazed terra-cotta, of a color which reects well in water. The poles will be not less than 75 feet apart.

Following tomorrow's preliminary suggestion of artists and designers, it is suggested that the donors of the poles, numbring more than 150 prominent Oakland citizens already, shall hold a meeting at which their ideas on the subject may be gleaned.
